Introduction

The main thrust of India's foreign policy has been to establish its rightful place in the emerging world order. Pragmatism and the pursuit of national interest without compromising on basic principles have been the guiding tenets of India's foreign policy. In a rapidly changing world order, foreign policy must be flexible enough to optimally respond to new challenges and opportunities. India's foreign policy cannot be seen in isolation and must be viewed as an integral part of the larger effort of building the nation's capabilities through economic development, strengthening social well-being and protecting India's sovereignty, territorial integrity and security not only in its defence and economic aspects but in the widest sense of the term. It also visualizes international peace, stability and security as being essentially in conjunction with its own national interest.

The year witnessed several bilateral and multilateral exchanges that took place at the highest levels between India and the rest of the world. Given the backdrop of the changing international scenario, India's foreign policy is directed towards the realization of the following objectives:

- To protect India's core national interests and concerns in a rapidly changing international environment by fostering support and understanding in the international community.
 - To preserve the autonomy of the decision making process and to play a pioneering role in the establishment of a stable, prosperous and secure global order.
 - To strengthen the international campaign against terrorism which is a global threat.
 - To give greater focus and priority to
- economic diplomacy with the objective of promoting foreign trade and investment, ensuring equitable transfer of technology and strengthening India's energy security.
 - To work closely with P-5 countries and to build strategic ties with the other major powers and leading developing countries.
 - To intensify and strengthen ties with neighbors through mutually beneficial cooperation and by building a climate of confidence and trust along with the acknowledgement of each other's legitimate concerns. The realization of SAARC as a more vibrant regional forum leading to an economic integration of the region is a desired goal.
 - To ensure that cross-border terrorism is brought to an end and the entire infrastructure of terrorism operating from Pakistan is dismantled.
 - To strengthen cooperation, friendship and trust with countries of India's extended neighborhood based on civilisational and historical ties as well as strong contemporary relevance. India and the countries of this region stand together to promote economic development and durable peace.
 - To further the gains from India's Look East Policy and aspire for substantive progress in several areas of common interest to India and ASEAN.
 - To constructively engage other members of multilateral institutions and organisations to generate common approaches to contemporary challenges relating to economic well-being and development.
 - To leverage trends towards regionalism and sub-regionalism for promoting economic growth and all-round development with active coordination and assistance to organisations like BIMST-EC and the Mekong Ganga Cooperation.
 - To continue to work closely with international bodies like the UN, NAM, the Commonwealth and regional groupings like the EU and G-20 for furthering India's interests in the international arena.
 - To reform and restructure the UN Security Council and espouse multipolarity in a world order that respects the principles of sovereignty and non-intervention.
 - To promote a more equitable equation between the developed and the developing world in the political, economic and technological domains.
 - To work towards the goal of global nuclear disarmament within a time bound framework.
 - To closely interact with the Indian Diaspora on a continuing basis in order to strengthen their bonds with India and to recognize their pivotal role in India's international relations.

The conduct of India's foreign policy is based on a holistic assessment that encompasses all the above objectives, and also imparts a greater dynamism to its foreign policy. The increasing pace of bilateral and regional engagements at the highest levels are an ample testimony to the pragmatism and pro-active approach it seeks to epitomize. India's foreign policy is aimed at a vision for the future, a vision that seeks to establish India's deserved place in the international arena.

Synopsis

Bhutan and India share extensive and mutually beneficial bilateral relations. There is free movement of people and goods between the two countries, and the Indian Rupee is legal tender in Bhutan. 90% of Bhutan's global trade is with India. India has played a pivotal role in the socio-economic development of Bhutan. Their first two Five Year Plans during 1961-66 and 1966-71 were financed entirely by India. India's contribution to Bhutan's development budget during 1961 to 2002 is close to 30%. Indian assistance to Bhutan's ongoing Ninth Five Year Plan is continuing. India has already created over 400MW of generation capacity in Bhutan that is also catering to the needs of India. The Tala mega project of 1020MW capacity will come on stream in early 2006, and will export power to India. India has signed an agreement with Bhutan in September 2003 to prepare the Detailed Project Report (DPR) of Punatsangchhuk Hydroelectric Project with a capacity of 900MW. M/s Water & Power Consultants of India have commenced work on the DPR. Bhutan is making significant strides in the devolution and decentralisation of authority to the grass roots level. On 15 December 2003, Royal Government of Bhutan launched its operations against Indian insurgent groups, which had taken refuge in Bhutan. Thirty camps of the militants were destroyed in this operation.

India and Nepal share extensive bilateral relations. An open border of 1860kms between the two countries facilitates free movement of goods and people. Indian Rupee is a legal tender in Nepal. Over 62% of Nepal's global trade is with India, and nearly half of the Foreign Direct Investment in Nepal originates from India. India is building an optical fibre cable along the Nepalese Terai, which will bring significant improvement in our bilateral communications. The National Hydro Power Corporation of India on a Build, Own, Operate and Transfer (BOOT) basis, has taken up the 300MW upper Karnali hydroelectric project. India has also agreed to prepare the Detailed Project Report on the 600 MW Burhi Gandaki for possible implementation in the future. Nepal has assured India that it will not allow its territory to be used for activities inimical to India's interests. Nepal has been a victim of Maoist insurgency for the last seven years. India has condemned the Maoist violence and continues to extend assistance for the strengthening of the Nepalese security forces. India has noted developments, including announcement of a ceasefire in January 2003, and believes that the conflict should be resolved through a dialogue based on national consensus and should involve all political parties.

India has close ties with its eastern and southern neighbours, Bangladesh, Maldives, Myanmar and Sri Lanka. All these countries are of strategic importance to India and share cultural and ethnic legacies with us. India has focused on strengthening its relations with these countries through economic cooperation. This includes grant of unilateral tariff concessions to Bangladesh, collaborative projects including implementation of infrastructure development projects in Myanmar, cooperation in health, education and tourism sectors in Maldives, and close economic integration with Sri Lanka.

Interaction with China, which is based on the principles of Panchsheel, mutual sensitivity to each other's concerns and equality, has developed due to a mutual agreement to qualitatively enhance bilateral interaction while simultaneously addressing differences through dialogue and peaceful means. The commitment to build a broad-based and cooperative relationship with China was further emphasised in 2003-04 following the Prime Minister's visit to China from 22-27 June 2003.

Apart from Prime Minister, other high level visits to China included that of the Speaker of Lok Sabha, the Raksha Mantri and External Affairs Minister. Minister for Commerce and Industry also visited China for the inauguration of the 'Made in India' Show organized jointly by the Embassy of India and CII. High-level visits from China included those of the Chairman of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Committee (CPPCC), Jia Qinglin, and Politburo Member, He Guoqiang. A Dialogue on Policy Planning and annual meetings at the Foreign Minister level were added this year to the framework of structured interaction with China. Interaction with China in diverse sectors, including defence, bilateral trade and economic cooperation progressed during the year.

India continued with its effort to develop a relationship of mutual trust, friendship and cooperation with Pakistan. In keeping with this spirit, in April 2003, once again a hand of friendship was extended to Pakistan. Following this, there were several significant developments, including restoration of relations at the level of High Commissioners, restoration of communication and transport links, and a virtual explosion in people to people contacts between the two countries. At the same time it was made clear to Pakistan that sustainability of the process required an end to cross border terrorism.

In the Joint Press Statement issued on 6 January 2004, President Musharraf reassured Prime Minister Vajpayee that he will not permit any territory under Pakistan's control to be used to support terrorism in any manner. The two sides agreed to commence the process of the Composite Dialogue. Subsequently, during Joint Secretary and Foreign Secretary level talks in February 2004, the two sides agreed to a schedule of meetings including eight subjects under the Composite Dialogue.

A ceasefire along the International Border, Line of Control, and the Actual Ground Position Line in Jammu and Kashmir, which is being observed since November 25, 2003 has continued to hold. Though there has been some decline in cross border infiltration, Pakistan is yet to take credible steps to dismantle the infrastructure of support to terrorism.

India remains committed to build upon the confidence that has been generated by recent developments in our bilateral relations. However, in order to take forward and sustain the dialogue process, violence, terrorism and hostility must be prevented.

India-Afghanistan ties continued to expand and strengthen during 2003-04. There were regular bilateral exchanges, including the state visit of President Hamid Karzai in March 2003. The government has made substantial contribution to Afghanistan's reconstruction effort, which includes a wide range of humanitarian, financial and project assistance. India's present commitment adds up to US$ 400 million, including 1 million tonnes of wheat as Food Assistance. Of the US$100 million financial assistance, US$ 85 million has already been operationalised.

India also continued to participate in various international efforts aimed at addressing political and reconstruction issues in Afghanistan. Although the Afghan government faces many challenges, the foremost being a threat to its internal security, developments in Afghanistan since the Bonn Agreement of December 2001 can be assessed as being positive.

Following the visit of President Seyyed Mohammad Khatami to India in January 2003, India and Iran agreed to impart a strategic character to their relationship on the basis of the vision contained in the New Delhi Declaration. Regular high-level exchanges, strategic dialogue and institutional linkages between the two countries have led to enhanced mutual understanding between the two countries. Fields of energy, transit, trade and economy and science and technology are among the focused areas of bilateral cooperation.

The 12th SAARC Summit held at Islamabad from 4-6 January 2004 was a milestone in regional cooperation. Three important Agreements were signed at the Summit: the SAARC Social Charter, the Additional Protocol on Terrorism and the Framework Agreement on South Asian Free Trade Area (SAFTA).

India continued to pursue closer relations with South East Asia in line with the 'Look East' policy. Regular exchange of high-level visits and interactions at regional and international fora helped in imparting added dynamism to India's relations with these countries. Prime Minister visited Thailand from 8-12 October 2003 following his visit to Bali, Indonesia, where he attended the Second India-ASEAN Summit. Prime Minister of Singapore, General Secretary of the Communist Party of Vietnam, and Prime Minister of Laos visited India during the year. The initiatives taken by India at the Second India-ASEAN Summit confirmed its commitment to forge closer links at the regional level. As far as the Pacific region is concerned, following India's admission as a dialogue partner of the Pacific Islands Forum (PIF), India participated for the first time in the Post Forum Dialogue Meetings with the PIF in Wellington in August 2003.

This year saw progress in bilateral relations between India and Japan, in pursuance of India's continuing efforts to operationalise the "India-Japan Global Partnership in the 21st Century" agreed to between the two Prime Ministers in August 2000. Apart from various high-level visits, including those of the Japanese Foreign Minister and Minister of State for Defence, and India's National Security Advisor and Minister for Disinvestment, Communications & IT, two rounds of Foreign Office Consultations were held as well as the second round of the India-Japan Comprehensive Security Dialogue. The first Indian IT exhibition was held in Japan in June, and various events were organised to mark the 100th anniversary of the establishment of the Indo-Japanese Association, which has a long history of promoting exchanges between India and Japan.

On 10 December 2003, India and Republic of Korea (ROK) celebrated the 30th anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations. Bilateral relations also progressed during 2003-04, including the 4th India-ROK Joint Trade Committee Meeting co-chaired by the Indian Minister for Commerce and Industry, the second meeting of the India-ROK Joint Commission at the Foreign Ministers level, and other high-level visits and functional exchanges.

Bilateral relations with Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) continued on an even key, including commemorative activities to mark the 30th anniversary of establishment of diplomatic relations between India and DPRK. Foreign Office Consultations were held and the Cultural Exchange Programme (CEP) between the two countries for the period 2003-2006 was renewed.

Various high-level visits, including that of Minister of State for External Affairs to Mongolia, and that of the Mongolian Prime Minister and Defence Minister to India, served to give new impetus to India's relationship with Mongolia in 2003-04.

Prime Minister's visit to Tajikistan in November 2003 was the first such high level visit to independent Tajikistan. In September 2003, Prime Minister visited Turkey, the earlier such visit being in 1988. The President of Kyrgyzstan visited India in November 2003. These visits are witness to India's commitment and engagement in the region. A number of other visits at political, business and cultural levels were exchanged to accelerate the momentum of India's relationship. India is now connected by air links with Turkey, and with each of the Central Asian states. All the Central Asian states also have diplomatic missions in New Delhi now. Trade relations as also people-to-people contacts have shown a steady progress during the period.

The Gulf region constitutes an important area in the geo-strategic matrix of India since it meets sixty percent of India's oil requirements and has a 3.5 million strong Indian Diaspora contributing to our foreign exchange reserve through their remittances. The political dialogue with Gulf Cooperation Council, initiated in September 2003 at Foreign Ministers' level, and the GCC-India Industrial Conference held in Mumbai in February 2004 with the participation of members from all the six GCC countries go a long way in further strengthening India's long standing relations with the region.

India's engagement with the West Asia and North Africa (WANA) region got further consolidated by several visits exchanged at Summit and other levels. India received President of Djibouti and Prime Minister of Israel. Similarly, the Indian President and Prime Minister paid State Visits to Sudan and Syria respectively. In addition, ministerial delegations were received from Egypt, Tunisia, Algeria, Israel, Sudan and Palestine. Trade and economic interchanges also continued to grow.

As part of the renewed 'Focus Africa' policy, Ministry took fresh initiatives to strengthen the existing links between India and sub-Saharan African countries. There was special focus on strengthening high-level exchanges between the sub-Saharan African countries and India. Heads of State/Government from a large number of African countries including Zambia, Mauritius, Namibia, Mozambique, Lesotho, South Africa, Senegal and Rwanda paid successful visits to India. Joint Commission Meetings at Ministerial Level were held with countries such as Mozambique, Kenya, Nigeria, South Africa, Tanzania and Seychelles. Meetings at Permanent Secretary level were also held. The Vice President of India paid a State visit to Seychelles. These visits helped get a better understanding of the position of these countries on issues such as India's candidature to the permanent membership of the expanded UN Security Council, cross border terrorism, and Jammu and Kashmir. They also helped to strengthen economic and commercial links with African countries. In order to foster links with the fast emerging regional organizations in Africa, Memoranda of Understanding for Cooperation were signed between India and regional organizations such as Southern African Development Community (SADC), Common Market for East and Southern African and East African Community. As part of its traditional technical and humanitarian assistance to Africa, the Africa Division made arrangements for donation of nearly 100,000 tonnes of food aid to African countries which had been adversely affected by drought. This is the first time ever that such a large quantity of food aid was shipped to African countries in a single calendar year.

In addition, action was initiated to donate anti-HIV/AIDS drugs to African countries severely affected by the scourge of AIDS. This is expected to promote Indian exports of pharmaceuticals to African countries.

India's engagement with the countries in Western Europe continued to be broad-based and intensive. Bilateral political and economic interaction was marked by an unprecedented number of exchanges of visits, demonstrating a mutual desire to consolidate a dynamic, multi-faceted relationship with the European Union and the individual countries in Western Europe. Regular exchange of views on the challenges facing India and the European Union, and dialogue with key strategic partners in Western Europe, against the backdrop of current regional and international developments, led to a better appreciation of India's legitimate concerns and, at the same time, provided an opportunity to re-focus, strengthen and re-vitalize bilateral ties.

India's strategic partnership and our multi-dimensional cooperation with Russia continued to be consolidated during the year 2003-04. Prime Minister's visit to Russia in May and November 2003 gave a fresh impetus to friendly bilateral relations. The system of summit- level meetings has provided us with an annual platform to discuss international and regional issues and to review the state of bilateral relations. These summit meetings are supported by political and official level meetings which cover the entire gamut of our bilateral relationship. India has one of the largest cooperation programmes on S&T with Russia. There is a wide-ranging energy cooperation programme. The contract for the acquisition of the aircraft carrier, Admiral Gorshkov was signed during the visit of the Russian Defence Minister to India in January 2004.

Bilateral ties with Central and Eastern European countries were strengthened in the past year, especially in the spheres of economy, science, technology, culture and defence. The President's visit to Bulgaria in October 2003 reinforced our bilateral ties.

Visits by Heads of State/Heads of Government from Poland, Hungary, Armenia and Romania during the year helped to consolidate our bilateral relations and embark on new areas of functional cooperation.

As committed by their respective leaders since their Summit Meeting of 9 November 2001, India and the United States remained deeply engaged in 2003 to qualitatively transform their bilateral relations in recognition of India's status as an emerging world power and of the many common strategic interests that the two countries share in Asia and beyond. The two countries constructively engaged across a full spectrum of issues: combating international terrorism, peacekeeping, defence, strategic issues, science and technology, health, trade, space, energy and environment. The most visible symbol of this bilateral engagement is the high frequency of bilateral visits at political and official levels, and the existence of Bilateral Dialogue Architecture, now comprising more than 15 institutional dialogues. The Prime Minister met President Bush in New York on 24 September 2003 and briefly at St. Petersburg on 31 May 2003. The Deputy Prime Minister visited the United States in June 2003 when he also met President Bush. Other high-level exchanges included visits by the National Security Adviser to the United States in May 2003 (which included a brief meeting with President Bush) and by US Deputy Secretary of State Richard Armitage in May 2003.

During the year, significant progress in bilateral relations between India and the US occurred in the realm of our bilateral strategic dialogue on the "Quartet Issues" comprising cooperation in civilian space programme, civilian nuclear programme, trade in "dual use" high-technology and missile defence. During their meeting in New York in September 2002, the Prime Minister and President Bush agreed to explore cooperation opportunities in these areas. In this context, the two sides have established a High Technology Cooperation Group (HTCG), the first that the United States has with any country. This Group met in Washington DC in July 2003 and in New Delhi in November 2003. During the HTCG meetings when the two sides agreed to take appropriate regulatory and promotional measures to stimulate India-US high-technology commerce, including trade in dual-use goods and technologies. An important milestone was crossed on 12-13 January 2004, when the leaders of the two countries issued, in their respective capitals, a joint statement that describes the next steps in the India - United States strategic partnership. These steps include an expansion of bilateral cooperation the "Quartet Issues".

An important element emerging in this bilateral engagement with US has been cooperation on combating international terrorism. On 16 October 2003, the United States declared Dawood Ibrahim as a Specially Designated Global Terrorist. The designation recognizes Dawood Ibrahim's underworld and terrorist connections, his efforts to destabilise India, his involvement in the 1993 Mumbai bombings and his support to LeT. This subsequently led to the inclusion of his name in the United Nations listing as well.

The United States conveyed its appreciation of India's peace initiative towards Pakistan. While expressing hope for normalization of relations and eventual resumption of the India-Pakistan dialogue, the United States maintains that it is for the two countries to resolve all outstanding issues bilaterally. The United States recognises that cross-border terrorism continues, and has repeatedly stated that it continues to press President Musharraf to end infiltration and take action to dismantle terrorist camps.

India and the United States also continued their discussions on issues of regional and international interest, including the situation in Iraq and Afghanistan. United States expressed its understanding of India's position while reiterating that India remained an important strategic partner for the United States. The two countries also maintained their dialogue on developments in Asia and beyond, and on multilateral issues of mutual concern.

A process of re-engagement supported by both countries marked relations between India and Canada. Canada identified India, together with China, Mexico and Brazil, as one of four countries offering new opportunities for productive partnerships, as well as one of three countries in Asia, along with China and Japan, for developing close ties. The highlight of the year was the visit of then Canadian Prime Minister, Jean Chrétien, from 24-25 October 2003. A Joint Statement was released on "Partners for the 21st Century" outlining the vision of the Prime Ministers of both countries to strengthen government, commercial and civil society linkages between India and Canada. This was preceded by the visit of the Canadian Foreign Minister Bill Graham on 13 October 2003. Visits from Canada sought to establish an expanded interface in the field of industry, information and emerging technologies and agriculture and to broaden the scope of cooperation to the level of State Governments in India. The traditional Throne Speech by the Governor General of Canada, Mrs. Adrienne Clarkson on 2 February 2004 reiterated greater focus on "Newly Emerging Economic Giants as China, India and Brazil". The Canadian Minister of State for New and Emerging Markets, Mr. Gar Knutson also visited India from 25-30 January 2004 in keeping with this priority area of focus.

India urged the international community to focus its attention on the threat posed by the linkages between weapons of mass destruction and terrorism and re-introduced its resolution, which was first tabled in 2002, on the subject in the UN. The resolution was adopted by consensus, reflecting the widespread concern of the global community. India continued to call for verifiable, non-discriminatory and universal nuclear disarmament. India's stand on issues related to disarmament and international security in various multilateral and regional forums was premised on India's national security interests and the nation's tradition of close engagement with the international community. Harmonisation of India's national imperatives and security obligations with international concerns on non-proliferation and disarmament also progressed steadily through bilateral, regional and multilateral dialogues on strategic issues.

The First Committee of the UNGA adopted by consensus the Resolution moved by India on the threat posed by the linkage between weapons of mass destruction and terrorism. India assumed the Presidency of the Conference on Disarmament (CD) from 1 January to 14 February 2003 on the basis of rotation among the 66 members of the CD.

Last year was a particularly difficult one for the UN because of the Iraq issue and the unilateral military action taken by the US. The very role and relevance of the UN came under increased scrutiny. The unprecedented attack on the UN office in Iraq highlighted the need to focus on the threats and challenges facing the international community and the role of the UN in this regard. To address these issues, the UN Secretary General set up a High Level Panel on Global Security, Threats and Reform of the International System, to recommend, inter alia, the changes necessary to ensure effective collective action and to review the functioning of the principal organs of the United Nations.

India continued to play an active role in UN debates on major issues. As a major troop contributor, India continued to participate in UN Peace Keeping Operations. Prime Minister Vajpayee led the India delegation to the 58th session of the UN General Assembly, and inter alia, stressed the necessity for reform and restructuring of the UN. While emphasizing the need for evolving suitable decision-making mechanisms by the UN Security Council to ensure better representation of the collective will of the international community, the Prime Minister strongly supported the UN Secretary General's call for the reform of the institutions and processes of the United Nations and the urgency for such a reform.

India continued to play a significant and constructive role in the UN activities in economic, social and developmental areas. India actively participated in the debates on environment and sustainable development, Convention against Corruption, humanitarian issues and human rights issues. Terrorism, Afghanistan, Middle East Peace Process, conflicts in Africa, were some of the other issues that remained in the forefront.

During the year under review, India continued its active role in advancing the legitimate interests of developing countries in various international organizations and multilateral, regional and sub-regional groupings. India also intensified its interaction with the Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN); Bangladesh, India, Myanmar, Sri Lanka, Thailand-Economic Cooperation (BIMST-EC), which now also includes Bhutan and Nepal as full members; Mekong-Ganga Cooperation (MGC) initiative; Indian Ocean Rim-Association for Regional Cooperation (IOR-ARC); and Community of Eastern and Southern Africa (COMESA).

The year was marked by a number of successes in multilateral economic diplomacy, such as, the Framework Agreement for Comprehensive Economic Cooperation signed by the leaders of the ASEAN and India at the Second India-ASEAN Summit in Bali on 8 October 2003. The Framework Agreement envisages the establishment of an India-ASEAN Regional Trade and Investment Area, which includes a Free Trade Area in goods, services and investment. Negotiations on the Free Trade Area in goods have commenced and are to be completed by June 2005. For trade in services and investments, the negotiations on the respective agreements are to commence in 2005 and be concluded by 2007.

During the India-ASEAN Summit meeting in Bali, Prime Minister proposed an India-ASEAN motor car rally, the setting up of vocational / entrepreneurship development centres in Cambodia, Lao PDR, Myanmar and Vietnam (CLMV countries), and developing an India-ASEAN Vision 2020 document.

Similarly, in BIMST-EC, the high point of cooperation was the signing of the Framework Agreement for the BIMST-EC FTA in Phuket on 8 February 2004 by all member countries except Bangladesh, which is also expected to join the Agreement in the near future.

HMT (International) has completed delivery of all the machines, spare parts and supplies to the project site for revival of Nigeria Machine Tool (NMT) in Nigeria (Osogbo) as a G-15 project. Actual installation and on-the-job training programmes will be undertaken as soon as NMT provides local inputs. The project is likely to be completed by December 2004, funded through the grant by India of US$5 million from India. Another project for setting up a toxicology laboratory at the University of Kingston, Jamaica, is currently under implementation.

Efforts to improve physical connectivity between India and Southeast Asia are also underway. Under the MGC, the establishment of a rail link between New Delhi and Hanoi has been mooted. As a first step, the Rail India Technical & Economic Services (RITES) Ltd. has been assigned to undertake the pre-feasibility study of laying the missing link of about 315 km between Jiribam (India) and Kalay (Myanmar) and upgrading the existing railway section in Myanmar from Kalay to Mandalay. India has also offered to undertake a feasibility study on Dawei Deep Sea Port in Myanmar and the road linkage between the Port and Kanchanaburi in Thailand.

Ministry of External Affairs attaches great importance to economic diplomacy in this age of globalization to protect and promote its economic and commercial interests. It hence works actively with the Indian business and chambers in this context. The Ministry has started organizing a number of events and activities to actively seek foreign investment into India. The Ministry is projecting among global investors, businessmen, leaders, and opinion makers the image of the new India, which is becoming an emerging economic power.

During the year, the Policy Planning and Research Division continued its interaction with several academic and non-governmental organizations, and provided financial assistance to academic bodies and organizations for holding seminars and undertaking research studies on matters of foreign policy. It prepared the Annual Report of the Ministry; the External Affairs Minister's monthly letter covering the broad spectrum of India's foreign relations to Heads of Missions/Head of Posts; and also the Monthly Summary for the Cabinet. It also handled work related to examination of maps depicting India's external boundaries in coordination with Survey of India, work related to old records management. It also revived the MEA-JNU Joint Annual Seminar and organized a Seminar on 'India and Emerging Asia'. To support research, the Ministry's Library has modern information technology equipment and rich resource materials, with over one hundred thousand books and a large collection of maps, microfilms and official documents.

The External Publicity Division continued its task of projecting India and its viewpoint on major issues of foreign policy concern. The Spokesperson held regular press briefings for Indian and foreign media. The Ministry's new website (meaindia.nic.in), updated daily, was launched. Information showcasing India was disseminated through films, documentaries, publications, books and the Ministry's flagship monthly magazine "India Perspectives". Media arrangements were made for incoming and outgoing visits at the level of President, Vice President, Prime Minister and External Affairs Minister. The Division also organized visits to India for several foreign media personnel and maintained regular interaction with Delhi-based foreign press corps.

The Protocol Division remained fully occupied with numerous incoming and outgoing VVIP visits, conferences, credential ceremonies and other multifarious functions. Activities of Protocol Division contributed to India's enhanced international image and profile. Special efforts were made to streamline protocol norms and standards.

The Ministry continued its efforts to provide user-friendly and efficient services in the 30 passport offices in India, as well as in the consular wings of the Missions and Posts abroad. Total number of services including fresh passports and miscellaneous services rendered by the passport offices in the country during 2003 stood at 3.28 million from 3.01 million in 2002, an increase of 9%. A new passport office was opened at Surat in August 2003, increasing the number of passport offices in the country to thirty.

With a view to decentralize issuance of passports, District passport Cells (DPCs) have been opened in a large number of districts in several states. This scheme, which was introduced in 2002, accounted for almost 10% of the applications, submitted in 2003. The figures are expected to increase in the coming years, as there are plans to open more DPCs. All the thirty-passport offices are fully computerised. The project of scanning of passport application files and their retention in electronic form to facilitate easy storage and retrieval of information is already over in most of the RPOs. Machine writing of Passports is taking place in all Passport offices. Training courses were organised for the officers and staff of Central Passport Organisation. All Missions/Posts continuously endeavoured to meet the consular needs of overseas Indians, resolve their consular problems and ameliorate the conditions of Indian workers in the Gulf countries.

A major initiative undertaken to engage with the Indian Diaspora was the organization of Pravasi Bharatiya Divas in New Delhi from 9-11 January 2003. Over 1900 overseas Indians from 61 countries participated in the celebrations. The Pravasi Bharatiya Divas was inaugurated by the Prime Minister. In his inaugural address, the Prime Minister announced Government's decision to permit dual citizenship to the Persons of Indian Origin living in certain countries. The 'Pravasi Bharatiya Samman' Awards were conferred for the first time by the Prime Minister on 9 January 2003 on ten prominent persons of the overseas Indian community in recognition of their valuable contribution in promoting the honour and prestige of India and in fostering the interests of overseas Indians.

The Bill on Dual Citizenship was passed in the Parliament in December 2003. The Second Pravasi Bharatiya Divas was held in New Delhi on 9-11 January 2004. Over 1300 delegates from 61 countries participated in the event, and twelve eminent People of Indian Origin (PIOs) were awarded the Pravasi Bharatiya Samman. Prime Minister announced setting up of a Pravasi Bharatiya Kendra in New Delhi and reservation of seats for children of NRIs and PIOs in Educational Institutions.

Smooth and efficient working conditions at the Headquarters and Indian Missions/Posts abroad remained the prime objective of the Ministry. As part of e-governance, several measures including development of a personnel information system, have been taken up. The revised Financial Powers of Government of India's Representatives Abroad was brought out on a CD-ROM for easy referencing. The number of Indian Missions/Posts have increased to 162, consequent upon the decision of the Government to establish a Consulate General of India at Birgunj (Nepal). The first ever Cadre Review of Indian Foreign Service Branch-B(IFS(B)) has been completed since its inception in 1956. This would provide much-needed relief to various IFS(B) cadre from stagnation in their respective grades. The Fourth Cadre Review of the Indian Foreign Service (IFS) is also in an advanced stage of completion.

The Coordination Division administers the self-financing scheme for admission of foreign students in selected professional courses in India. This Division is also the nodal point of the Ministry for all work relating to Parliament, and for the clearance of foreign tours of ministers and legislators of the Union and State Government, and Government officials. This Division also handles clearance for holding international conferences and international sports events in India; participation by Indian sports persons in overseas events; as well as diplomatic clearance for all non-scheduled flights. Observance of Anti-Terrorism Day, Sadbhavana Diwas and Quami Ekta Week/ Diwas and the processing of recommendations for the grant of Padma Awards were undertaken.

The Foreign Service Institute (FSI) continued in its endeavour to train foreign diplomats, apart from training of IFS Probationers and other Ministry of External Affairs officials. Three Professional Courses for Foreign Diplomats, an 'Advanced Course on Asia for Foreign Diplomats' and three separate 'Special Courses' for Diplomats from Afghanistan, Lao PDR and Iraq were conducted. FSI has also initiated an inter/intranet-based virtual campus for a mid-career training programme. FSI has also signed MoUs for cooperation with Foreign Service Institutes of Palestine, Canada and Uzbekistan.

The signing of an Agreement between India and Mauritius on 21 November 2003, during the visit of the Mauritian Prime Minister to India, on the establishment of World Hindi Secretariat at Port Louis, was another milestone in India's endeavour to promote and propagate Hindi. Hindi teachers were appointed in 28 Missions/Posts abroad to teach Hindi to the children of Embassy and other officials. Computers in the Ministry and in Missions abroad have been made bilingual to equip them to issue bilingual documents, such as bilateral treaties, MoUs, Credentials, Speeches of President and Prime Minister. The Annual Report of the Ministry and replies to Parliament Questions were also issued bilingually. The Seventh World Hindi Conference was organised in Paramaribo (Suriname) from 5-9 June 2003 with Ministry's active support.

The Indian Council for Cultural Relations (ICCR), established in the year 1950, has been functioning as the cultural wing of the Ministry of External Affairs for furthering the objectives and mandate of India's foreign policy. The ICCR's role is significant in view of the importance of "cultural diplomacy" for strengthening the cultural relations among the nations. The ICCR has tried to create awareness about India and its rich cultural heritage among the people of other countries.

The Indian Council of World Affairs (Amendment) Act 2003 was passed on 8 January 2004. In consonance with the objects of the Indian Council of World Affairs Act, ICWA carried on its various activities by organizing special addresses, seminars and meetings on important world affairs.

1. India's Neighbours

Afghanistan

India-Afghanistan ties continued to expand and strengthen during this period. There were regular bilateral exchanges and the government continued with its support to the reconstruction effort in Afghanistan. India continued with its humanitarian, financial and project assistance for Afghanistan's reconstruction. Focus of India's assistance has been on rebuilding institutional capacity by imparting training in various fields (teachers, diplomats, journalists, judicial officials, women entrepreneurs, government officials and doctors), and providing multi-disciplinary project assistance in areas of public transport (274 buses have been provided), information technology, civil aviation (three Airbus aircraft have been gifted to Ariana Afghan Airlines), education, health, agriculture, media, etc.

India had announced food assistance of 1 million tonnes of wheat to Afghanistan. A part of this assistance is being converted into high protein biscuits for the school-feeding programme in Afghanistan, which is being distributed through World Food Programme. The delivery of the second tranche of high protein biscuits commenced in December 2003.

As a result of this assistance 972,000 Afghan children are receiving a package of 100 grams of biscuits from India every day. India has gifted 300 vehicles to the Afghan National Army. The first lot of 115 vehicles has been delivered.

- The developments in Afghanistan since the Bonn Agreement of 5 December 2001 can be assessed positively. As part of this process the Constitutional Loya Jirga was held in December 2003. Despite this progress, however, the Afghan Government faces many challenges ahead and the foremost being the threat to internal security including from regrouped Taliban. The increasing terrorist attacks by remnants of Taliban and Al Qaeda elements are aimed at undermining the authority of the central government as well as slowing the pace of reconstruction, especially in the provinces of south, southeast and east of Afghanistan. There is growing concern at the external support that the Taliban remnants continue to receive and the threat this poses to stability.

Bangladesh

Ties with Bangladesh were strengthened through efforts by both sides to reactivate institutional mechanisms existing for cooperation in diverse areas of bilateral relations. The Joint Economic Commission (JEC), headed by the respective Foreign Ministers, met after six years in Dhaka from 14-15 July 2003. The meeting provided the opportunity for giving a high level thrust to economic ties while reviewing in a comprehensive manner the entire gamut of economic issues. Discussions were earlier held during the visit of the Bangladesh Minister of Finance, Mr. Saifur Rahman to India from 19-22 May 2003. Foreign Office Consultations were held from 29-30 March 2003 after a gap of more than three years. The Ministerial Level Joint Rivers Commission (JRC) was also held on 28-29 September 2003, after a gap of nearly three years.

During the 6th meeting of the JEC, discussions were held on a possible new line of credit that could be denominated in US dollars. This would succeed the existing line of credit of Rs. 200 crores that is nearly fully utilised. Railways is an emerging sector of bilateral cooperation and proposals in the pipeline include the introduction of containerised services by rail and the Sealdah-Joydevpur passenger rail link. Cooperation in new areas such as Science and Technology, IT and Agriculture are also being discussed between the two sides. India has offered assistance to Bangladesh for a project on training of school-teachers in IT and a project on disaster warning in the Bay of Bengal.

The visiting President of Afghanistan Mr. Hamid Karzai is received by the President Dr. A. P. J. Abdul Kalam and the Prime Minister Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee at the Ceremonial Reception in New Delhi on March 6, 2003.

Foreign Secretary Shri Shashank calling on the King of Bhutan.

Pursuant to a decision taken at the 6th JEC meeting and in a significant step towards promoting greater people to people contact between the two countries, a bus service was inaugurated between Agartala and Dhaka on 19 September 2003. The Minister of Road Transport and Highways Maj. Gen. B.C. Khanduri, the Bangladesh Minister of Communications Mr. Nazmul Huda and the Chief Minister of Tripura Shri Manik Sarkar jointly inaugurated the bus service in both Agartala and Dhaka.

The Agartala-Dhaka link follows the hugely successful existing bus service between Kolkata and Dhaka. The new bus service is expected to become increasingly popular, particularly after certain problems relating to issue of visas and imposition of travel tax are resolved between the two sides.

Another significant development in bilateral ties was the commencement of negotiations on the signing a bilateral Free Trade Agreement (FTA). These negotiations were conducted between the Commerce Ministries of the two countries from 20-22 October 2003. Both sides reviewed the successful progress of the Indo-Sri Lanka Free Trade Agreement, which stands as a symbol of successful cooperation in trade liberalisation despite asymmetries in economic size and strength. The terms and conditions of an FTA are expected to be even more liberal given the LDC status of Bangladesh.

A mechanism for structured dialogue on the issue of non-tariff barriers was also created and a first meeting was held between the two Bangladeshi exporters and facilitate Bangladesh's exports to India. In turn complaints raised by Indian exporters would be also officially raised in this forum.

The Joint Rivers Commission meeting provided an opportunity for both the sides to review bilateral cooperation in the water sector. A significant development in recent years has been the expansion of cooperation in this sector to areas beyond water sharing to include areas such as flood forecasting, arsenic mitigation and disaster warning. The implementation of the working of the Ganges Water Treaty, 1996 was also reviewed. The Bangladesh side also expressed concern over the proposed river inter-linking project in India. However, it was conveyed that the project was only at a conceptual stage.

Institutional dialogue on key issues relating to border management continued through the biannual DG level talks between the Border Security Force (BSF) and the Bangladesh Rifles (BDR) that were concluded in April 2003. Simultaneous coordinated patrolling was discussed between the two sides in an effort to jointly tackle border crimes. The two forces are also discussing confidence-building measures to improve understanding between the forces such as offer of training in Indian institutions and sports exchanges.

Cultural and educational exchanges continued to grow between the two countries and an increasing number of students from Bangladesh are choosing India to pursue their higher studies.

Bhutan

Bhutan is one of India's closest neighbours with which it shares mutually beneficial relations in a wide range of fields. Indian Rupee is legal tender in Bhutan and India accounts for over 90% of Bhutan's global trade. People and goods move freely across the open border of 700 kms. The special relationship is sustained by the exchange of regular visits including at the highest level between the two countries.

Crown Prince of Bhutan, Dasho Jigme Khesar Namgyel Wangchuck, visited India at the invitation of the Vice President, from 28 August-1 September 2003. During the visit, a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) was signed between the Government of India and the Royal Government of Bhutan for establishing an India-Bhutan Foundation with a joint corpus of funds. The objective of India-Bhutan Foundation is to enhance people to people interactions to further mutual interests.

King Jigme Singye Wangchuck of the Kingdom of Bhutan paid a State visit to India from 14-18 September 2003. During the visit, the President and Vice-President held talks with the King. The Prime Minister, Deputy Prime Minister, External Affairs Minister and Minister of Finance held discussions separately. On the eve of the visit, Government of India conveyed its commitment on a number of projects and programmes under Indian assistance to Bhutan's 9th Five Year Plan – 2002-2007. An MoU for the preparation of a Detailed Project Report on the 900 MW Punatsangchu Hydroelectric Power Project was also signed during the visit. There was an exchange of views on a wide range of issues of mutual interest and concern, including the presence of Indian Insurgent Groups (IIGs) in Bhutan, and the various measures on the part of the Royal Government of Bhutan to persuade them to leave Bhutan. Both sides agreed to continue working closely with a view to resolving the issue. The two governments reiterated that as close friends and allies they would not allow their territories to be used by anyone for carrying out activities that are harmful to each other's national interests. Some long pending issues relating to the Indo-Bhutan boundary were resolved at a bilateral meeting concluded on 24 February 2004 in Thimphu.

Military Operation in Bhutan by Royal Bhutan Army

The Governments of India and Bhutan had been concerned about the presence of Indian Insurgent Groups (IIGs) located in the thickly forested border area of South Eastern Bhutan and had been in close consultation with each other on the issue. Cadres of three Indian IIGs: United Liberation Front in Assam (ULFA), National Democratic Front for Bodoland (NDFB) and the Kamtapur Liberation Organisation (KLO) had established about 30 camps in this area from where they would enter India, carry out attacks on the Indian side and retreat beyond the reach of the Indian security forces into these camps in the Bhutanese jungles.

At India's request, the Royal Government of Bhutan decided to tackle the problem and expel the IIGs from Bhutanese territory. When their attempts to peacefully achieve this objective failed, the Royal Bhutan Army launched a military operation of precision attacks on all the 30 camps on 15 December 2003. In about three weeks, the Royal Bhutanese Army was able to destroy all the 30 camps and observation posts of the IIGs and render their communication equipment inoperative.

The Government of India stood firmly behind the Royal Government of Bhutan, providing all logistical support requested by the latter till the completion of the operation.

The military action of the Royal Bhutan Army against the insurgents has not only helped the Indian security forces to tackle the IIGs effectively on the Indian side, (as of now, the KLO has been all but decimated and the ULFA and NDFB severely weakened), but has also immeasurably strengthened the friendly relations between the India and Bhutan.

Government of India and Royal Government of Bhutan have held detailed discussions in March 2004 to address, in a comprehensive manner, mutual security concerns in the wake of the military operations carried out by Royal Government of Bhutan against Indian Insurgents Groups operating from Bhutan.

As part of the close bilateral cooperation, India continues to be the major contributor to Bhutan's five-years' plans, the first of which commenced in 1961. In consultation with the Royal Government of Bhutan, Government of India arrived at a mutually agreed slate of projects and programmes to be financed by India in the 9th Five Year Plan of India (2002-2007) in various mutually beneficial sectors including power, infrastructure, roads and bridges etc. There is increased emphasis in our assistance on the social sector in areas such as Education, Health, Communications, IT etc. in keeping with the larger vision of bilateral relations.

The 1020 MW Tala Hydroelectric Project under GOI assistance to Bhutan is progressing apace and is expected to come on stream in 2005/06. Almost the entire production of power from this plant will be exported to India. Two bilateral meetings have been held in January and March 2004 to arrive at a common principle for fixing the tariff for power to be imported by India from Tala Hydro-Electric Project in Bhutan.

The Cellular Mobile Phone Network in Bhutan was inaugurated on November 11 2003. The project was executed by M/S Telecommunication Consultants India Ltd., Government of India Undertaking, on a turnkey basis through a contract awarded by Bhutan Telecom Unit. Government of India financed part of the cost of the project relating to equipment, installation and training amounting to Rs.11.7 crores.

There is close bilateral cooperation between the two countries in the fields of education and culture. India provides technical expertise and services of specialists to Bhutan in various fields. Government of India's (GOI) scholarships are granted to 50 Bhutanese students every year in Indian Institutions of higher learning. These GOI scholarships are in addition to facilities extended under the ITEC/TCS of Colombo Plan schemes. A large number of Bhutanese students study in Indian schools and colleges on self-financing. Bhutan's Sherubtse College is affiliated to Delhi University. 13 India-based lecturers are working in this college under the TCS of Colombo Plan. The King of Bhutan has endowed a chair for Buddhist studies in the Nagarjuna University in Andhra Pradesh. Cooperation between cultural institutions of both countries, especially museums, is growing. To continue and sustain the momentum Exhibitions titled, "The Living Religious and Cultural Traditions of Bhutan" were organized by Bhutan in New Delhi and Kolkata in 2001. A Festival of India was organised in Bhutan from June to November 2003 with the theme "Eternal Friendship and Cooperation". The Festival was inaugurated in June 2003 by the Minister of State for External Affairs, Shri Vinod Khanna and concluded in November 2003 by Minister of State for Culture.

China

India's interaction with China, which is based on the principles of Panchsheel, mutual sensitivity to each other's concerns and equality, has developed due to the mutual agreement to qualitatively enhance the bilateral relationship at different levels while simultaneously addressing each others differences through direct dialogue and peaceful means in a fair, reasonable and mutually acceptable manner.

India's commitment to build a broad-based and cooperative relationship with China was further emphasised in 2003-04. Prime Minister's visit to China from 22-27 June 2003, which took place after a gap of ten years, was a major step forward in the ongoing process of building mutual trust and understanding between India and China. Apart from Prime Minister, both the Speaker and Raksha Mantri visited China this year. President Hu Jintao and Premier Wen Jiabao accepted invitation to visit India with appreciation. In addition to visits at the highest political levels, a Dialogue on Policy Planning and annual interaction at the Foreign Minister level were added this year. 2003-04 has also shown a steady improvement in bilateral trade and economic cooperation.

Prime Minister Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee's Visit

Prime Minister's visit gave a new impetus to India's developing and diversifying relations with China. Prime Minister was able to establish a useful rapport with the new leadership in China. The first-ever signed Joint Declaration issued by the two Prime Ministers of India and China not only lays down a roadmap to build a "qualitatively new relationship" and develop a "long-term constructive and cooperative partnership" but also reflects the political will of the two Governments to move towards those objectives. Both India and China agreed that multi-polarity in today's world should be strengthened. Both sides recognised the threat posed by terrorism to them and to global peace and security and resolutely condemned terrorism in all forms. India is looking forward to greater engagement with China in diverse areas and a further improvement of India-China relations on the basis of the principles of Panchsheel, mutual sensitivity to each other's concerns and equality.

The Prime Minister visited China at the invitation of Mr. Wen Jiabao, Premier of the State Council of the People's Republic of China. His visit took place almost ten years after the last Prime Ministerial visit to China in September 1993. This visit has proved to be a crucial link in the chain of high-level visits forged over the past few years in the ongoing process of building mutual trust and understanding between India and China.

Prime Minister's visit to China imparted a fresh momentum to the ongoing development and diversification of cooperation between India and China. He had the opportunity of personally interacting with the new Chinese leadership, meeting with Premier Wen Jiabao, President Hu Jintao, NPC Chairman Wu Bangguo, Vice President Zeng Qinghong and CMC Chairman Jiang Zemin. He was received with great warmth and courtesy and was clearly given to understand that India's desire to expand the bilateral relationship and build mutual trust and confidence was reciprocated. Another theme emphasised by the Chinese side during Prime Minister's visit was that the current global situation requires India and China to work together.

Both these themes were reflected in the Joint Declaration on Principles for Relations and Comprehensive Cooperation between India and China that was signed by both Prime Ministers in Beijing. This is a significant document, which outlines the concepts underpinning the bilateral relationship between India and China and the lines along which this relationship will progress in the future. It further states that progress in bilateral relations between India and China is conducive also to regional stability and prosperity and that cooperation between our two countries will strengthen multipolarity at the international level. It also signals to Asia and the world that the two countries are committed to working more closely together both in the region and globally.

The Joint Declaration also contains a reiteration of India's position on Tibet. Regarding Tibet, it must be stressed that contrary to some media reports, there is no change in India's position either on Tibet or on the presence of His Holiness the Dalai Lama or other Tibetan refugees in India, and that nothing new has been agreed to or said. Another important outcome of the visit is the decision to appoint Special Representatives to explore from the political perspective of the overall bilateral relationship the framework of a boundary settlement. This step was taken at Prime Minister's initiative. The National Security Advisor, Shri Brajesh Mishra was appointed as Prime Minister's Special Representative. China has appointed their senior-most Vice Foreign Minister Dai Bingguo as his counterpart. Mr. Dai was earlier Minister in charge of the International Liaison Department of the Communist Party of China and is currently a member of the Central Committee of the Party. The work of the two Special Representatives will be in addition to the ongoing implementation of the 1993 and 1996 agreements between India and China on the process of clarification of the Line of Actual Control and on the continued maintenance of peace and tranquility in the border areas. Two rounds of cordial, constructive and cooperative discussions between the Special Representatives have taken place so far on 23-24 October 2003 and 12-13 January 2004.

The framework of a structured interaction between India and China was also expanded during Prime Minister's visit with the decision to hold annual meetings at the Foreign Minister level. The nine agreements signed during the visit include an MoU laying down liberalised procedures for issue of visas to ordinary passport holders; an MoU on cooperation in the field of justice; the first bilateral Executive Programme on Educational Cooperation and Exchange for the period 2003 to 2006, replacing the framework for education-related exchanges, including mutual scholarships, which earlier used to form part of the CEP; the Executive Programme of Cultural Exchanges India and China for the years 2003-2005; the Protocol of Phytosanitary Requirements for Exporting Mangoes from India to China; and an MoU for Enhanced Cooperation in the field of Renewable Energy. In addition, three MoUs were signed relating to the field of science & technology, envisaging greater cooperation and collaborative activities in identified areas in basic and applied sciences, and including one MoU relating to the promotion of development and cooperation in ocean science and technology.

In addition to the above, Prime Minister's visit also saw the signing of an MoU on expanding border trade through Nathu La pass on the India China boundary. This adds a third border crossing point to those currently operational, under the 1991 border trade agreement which allowed trade through Lipulekh pass in what is today Uttarakhand, and the 1993 agreement on trade through Shipki La pass in Himachal Pradesh. This MoU has also started the process by which Sikkim will cease to be an issue in India-China relations.

The strengthening of economic and trade relations between India and China was also an important theme of the Prime Minister's visit. Apart from External Affairs Minister, the Prime Minister was accompanied by Commerce and Industry Minister while the Minister for Communication, Information Technology and Disinvestment joined him in Shanghai. Prime Minister delivered keynote addresses at two very large gatherings of Indian and Chinese businessmen at both Beijing and Shanghai, while the Economic Ministers had separate interactive sessions with relevant agencies and with Chinese businessmen. In addition, a 70-member delegation of senior businessmen from CII, FICCI and ASSOCHAM was in attendance, signaling that Indian business and industry is very much aware of the potential of our economic relationship, an awareness, which was clearly reciprocated by the Chinese side.

One decision taken during the visit, which will directly impact on the expansion of India's economic cooperation with China, is the decision to set up a Joint Study Group (JSG) to report, within the next twelve months, on the potential complementarities in expanded trade and economic cooperation between India and China. The JSG will also identify areas of meaningful economic potential and recommend concrete measures to be taken over the next five years by both the governments to facilitate increase in bilateral trade, promote investments and encourage greater cooperation between the business communities of both countries. It was also decided that a joint financial dialogue and cooperation mechanism would be set up to strengthen coordination in this sector. The 7th meeting of the Joint Economic Group between India and China is to be convened at the earliest possible.

In the Joint Declaration, dairy, food processing and health were specifically identified as possible sectors for future cooperation, while both sides agreed that they would continue to work towards the enhancement of direct air/ shipping links and tourism, exchange of hydrological data in flood season on common rivers, and cooperation in agriculture and other sectors.

Due attention was also given to the cultural facet of our bilateral relationship during Prime Minister's visit. Apart from the agreement to establish cultural centres in Delhi and Beijing, Prime Minister inaugurated the Centre for Indian Studies in Beijing University, which aims to promote further India-related studies and research among Chinese scholars. The Prime Minister also announced some important contributions to facilitate the functioning of this Centre, including financial grants, scholarships, and awards for meritorious students and gifting of books and equipment to receive Indian satellite channels. It was also agreed to jointly celebrate the 50th Anniversary of the Panchsheel next year. Prime Minister had the opportunity of visiting the White Horse Temple in Luoyang where the first Buddhist monks came from India to China. Luoyang and the Longmen Grottoes represent the cultural and historical dimension of our bilateral interaction. He also laid the foundation stone of the Embassy's new Chancery project in Beijing.

Apart from his visit to China, the Prime Minister met President Hu Jintao during the 300th anniversary celebrations of St. Petersburg in May. He also met Premier Wen Jiabao on the margins of the ASEAN Summit in Bali in October. Messages have also been exchanged between the Prime Minister and Chinese Premier Wen Jiabao, including a message sent by the Prime Minister after the success of China's first manned space mission in October, and a message from Premier Wen on the occasion of the first meeting of the Special Representatives.

Raksha Mantri, George Fernandes paid an important visit to China from 20 – 27 April 2003. He met Defence Minister, Cao Gangchuan, Premier Wen Jiabao and CMC Chairman, Jiang Zemin. Besides Beijing, Raksha Mantri visited Xian and Shanghai. Following Raksha Mantri's and Prime Minister's visit, both countries have agreed to intensify, and raise to a new level, bilateral defence exchanges and cooperation. This year, three Chinese delegations, one from the PLA Air Force Command College (July 2003), one from the Nanjing Army Command College (August 2003) and a delegation led by General Wu Quanxu, Deputy Chief of General Staff of the PLA (December 2003) visited India. Three Indian Navy ships paid a goodwill visit to Shanghai from 10-14 November 2003. On 14 November they conducted, for the first time, joint search and rescue exercises with the PLA Navy. GOC 4 Corps, Lt. Gen. Mohinder Singh visited China, including Chengdu and Tibet, from 17 -22 November, 2003, while an Inter Services delegation led by Air Marshal GCS Rajwar, Deputy Chief of Integrated Defence Staff and Chairman, Joint Training Committee, visited China from 14 - 21 December 2003.

Speaker of the Lok Sabha Shri Manohar Joshi led a 12-member Indian Parliamentary delegation on an official visit to China from 5-10 January 2003. The Speaker met President Jiang Zemin, National People's Congress Chairman Li Peng, and Premier of the State Council Zhu Rongji. He visited Beijing and Shanghai. During the discussions, both sides recognised the contribution of regular high-level exchanges, including Parliamentary exchanges, in developing the relationship and expressed satisfaction with the steady improvement in bilateral relations.

The External Affairs Minister accompanied the Prime Minister on his visit to China in June 2003. He interacted with his Chinese counterpart on the margins of ARF in Phnom Penh on June 19. He also hosted an informal luncheon for the Foreign Ministers of China and Russia on the margins of UNGA in New York on 23 September 2003, in pursuance of the agreement in 2002 to hold such meetings annually.

Chairman of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Committee (CPPCC) Jia Qinglin paid a goodwill visit to India from 23-27 November 2003 at the invitation of Vice President and Chairman of Rajya Sabha. His visit to India was the first leg of a tour of South Asia aimed at familiarizing the new Chinese leadership with the external aspects of China's policies. It was also his first visit to any foreign country since his appointment as the CPPCC Chairman in March 2003. This visit was a part of the process of high level visits between India and China, which has gained momentum with visits by the Speaker in January 2003, Raksha Mantri in April 2003 and the Prime Minister in June 2003. In return, India is also expecting visits of Premier Wen Jiabao, Chinese Foreign Minister Li Zhaoxing and Commerce Minister Lu Fuyuan to India in the coming year. During his stay in Delhi, Chairman Jia also met the Prime Minister, Lok Sabha Speaker, and the External Affairs Minister. Besides New Delhi, he also visited Agra and Hyderabad.

A five-member delegation led by Mr. Xu Guangchun, Minister of State Administration of Radio, Film and Television of China visited India from 4-8 February 2004, to strengthen exchanges and cooperation in the field of broadcasting and television with India. He Guoqiang, Politburo Member and Head of the Organisation Department of the CPC, visited India from 18 - 21 February 2004 at the invitation of the Minister for Parliamentary Affairs. He also met with Vice President and Deputy Prime Minister as well as with the Party Presidents of the BJP and the CPI(M). Chinese Defence Minister Gen. Cao Gangchuan paid a five-day visit to India as the head of a 17-member delegation. The visit was reciprocal to the visit of Raksha Mantri to China in April last year. General Cao called on Prime Minister, and also met with the three Service Chiefs in addition to his meeting with Raksha Mantri. During the discussions between the two Defence Ministers, it was agreed to increase contacts and interactions between the defence establishments and armed forces of both the countries, and existing defence exchanges were reviewed and assessed positively.

Other structured interactions during the year included the first meeting of the India-China Dialogue on Policy Planning on 30 May 2003 in New Delhi. The Indian delegation, led by Additional Secretary (Policy Planning) and the Chinese delegation, led by the Director General, Policy Planning, of the Chinese Foreign Ministry, exchanged views on international trends and incidents, covering political, economic and security related developments, on major features of Indian and Chinese bilateral foreign policy and the relations of India and China vis-à-vis other powers. The second meeting of the India-China Dialogue on Counter Terrorism was held in Beijing on 13 June 2003. The Indian delegation led by Joint Secretary (East Asia), and the Chinese delegation led by the Acting DG, International Organisations Department of the Chinese Foreign Ministry, exchanged views on the international and regional situation and possibilities for bilateral cooperation in the fight against terrorism. The 14th meeting of the India-China Expert Group on Clarification and Confirmation of the LAC, which was held in Beijing on 12 March 2004, continued ongoing discussions on the exchange of maps in the Western Sector and on the draft CBMs protocol. The first meeting of the India-China Joint Study Group, set up in pursuance of the decision taken during Prime Minister's visit to China in June 2003, was held in Beijing on 22-23 March 2004. The Indian delegation was led by Dr. Rakesh Mohan, Deputy Governor of RBI and the Chinese delegation by Mr. An Min, Vice Minister, Ministry of Commerce. The focus in the first round of discussions was to reach agreement on the composition and the Terms of Reference of the JSG and on the working modalities. The Indian delegation also called on Mr. Bo Xilai, Minister of Commerce.

This year also saw exchanges between political parties, including delegations from CPI (M), CPI and Bharatiya Janata Yuva Morcha to China. The India-China Eminent Persons Group (EPG) met in Beijing from 18-19 February 2004, and also visited Kunming. In Beijing, the Group had extensive discussions and also had meetings with the Chinese leadership.

Minister of Tourism and Culture, Shri Jagmohan, who visited Beijing in October to participate in the World Tourism Organisation Annual Meeting, announced the decision to open an office of Government of India Tourism Office in Beijing. China-specific tourism promotion began with India Tourism's "Incredible India" campaign, which was aired on select Chinese TV channels, to coincide with the inaugural Air India flight to Shanghai on 11 December 2003.

Trade and economic relations between India and China increased substantially during this period. According to Chinese Customs Statistics, bilateral trade reached the US$ 7.6 billion mark in 2003, signifying a 53.6% jump over 2002.

Emphasizing the importance of trade and economic cooperation in the India-China relationship, Minister of Commerce and Industry, Shri Arun Jaitley accompanied the Prime Minister during his visit to China. He visited China again in October for the inauguration of the 'Made in India' Show in Beijing, which was held, from 16-19 October 2003. This was the first exclusive exhibition of Indian products and services in China, organised by CII in cooperation with the Indian Embassy in Beijing. According to CII, this was also the largest exhibition of Indian industrial goods ever organised overseas by them. A number of other activities, including sectoral seminars, a roundtable on steel and a hugely successful fashion show were also held concurrently. Shri Jagmohan, Minister of Tourism, who was in Beijing at the same time for the 15th General Assembly of the World Tourism Organisation, also made a separate presentation on India's tourism potential. The CII delegation of 45 CEOs was led by President Designate, Shri S.K. Munjal. The 'Made in India' show was a direct follow-up of Prime Minister's visit to China in June 2003.

Prior to the Beijing event, an 'India Week – China' was organised by CII together with India's Consulate General in Shanghai, which included the formal inauguration of CII's presence in China, the inauguration of ICICI Bank's representative office, and seminars on the sectors of tourism, manufacturing and health. In July, following the agreement on phyto-sanitary measures for the import of Indian mangoes signed during Prime Minister's visit, the first India Mango Festival was held in Beijing and Shanghai, when Chinese consumers got the taste of delicious Indian mangoes, which are expected to be available in Chinese markets from 2004. Investments in both countries are increasing and Chinese companies are participating in a number of infrastructure projects in India. Apart from bilateral cooperation, India and China are also looking at the possibility of cooperation in regional and multilateral forums, such as at Cancun, based on identified common interests and overlapping concerns on issues relating to WTO, energy security, environmental problems and globalisation in general.

The Embassy, in collaboration with a local partner, the Soong Ching Ling Foundation, held a one week long “India Carnival Week” in early October 2003 where Indian art performances, films, food, exhibitions of relics, photographs and books and lectures on India and music and IT were attended by over five thousand visitors. Chinese media enhanced its coverage of India during this period, including very substantial coverage of Prime Minister’s visit to China.

Consular services, including issue of visas to Chinese nationals and others have been rising in tandem with the greater engagement between political leadership of the two countries. Moreover, with the opening up of the Indian tourism sector for Chinese tourists, the number of tourist visas issued is also increasing gradually. The MoU on visa services signed during Prime Minister’s visit was implemented in September 2003. This has eased and facilitated issue of visas, including multiple entry visas to businesspersons, tourists, students and those attending conferences. The SARS epidemic in China adversely affected travel from April to June 2003. Despite this, a total of 12,330 visas were issued by Beijing and Shanghai during the 10-month period from April 2003 to January 2004 as against 10,330 visas issued in the calendar year 2002.

The SARS epidemic in China also delayed the start of the Kailash Mansarovar Yatra, as a result of which the total number of Yatris who made the pilgrimage was reduced to 316. The Chinese side has agreed to consider Prime Minister’s request, made during his visit in June, for opening of additional routes for the Kailash Mansarovar Yatra.

Nepal

India and Nepal enjoy close relations reflecting the historical, geographical, cultural and linguistic links between our two countries and an open border stretching over 1860 kms across which people and goods move freely. Indian Rupee is a legal tender in Nepal. Over 60% of Nepal's global trade is India-centric and nearly half of the Foreign Direct Investment in the country originates from India. Inevitably, events in one country influence the other in many ways and India naturally attaches high priority to strengthening the ongoing bilateral co-operation with Nepal for the mutual benefit of our peoples.

In keeping with India's close relationship, several high-level interactions took place between the two countries during the year, which provided opportunities to review the bilateral relations and contributed to the consolidation of bilateral relations. Nepalese Prime Minister Surya Bahadur Thapa paid a working visit to India in his capacity as the Head of Government of the outgoing SAARC Chairman country, Nepal. Minister for Communication and Information Technology, Shri Arun Shourie visited Nepal from 10-11 September 2003 to inaugurate WLL telephone service, a Joint Venture between Mahanagar Telecommunications Nigam Ltd, Videsh Sanchar Nigam Ltd, Telecommunications Consultants India Ltd and Nepal Ventures Private Ltd (NVPL). Maoist Insurgency in Nepal

The security situation in Nepal continues to be a cause of concern. The year 2003 began on a positive note when a ceasefire was announced between Maoists and Government of Nepal on 29 January. Subsequently, three rounds of talks were held between the Government and the Maoists on 27 April, 9 May, and 17 August 2003 respectively. The talks ultimately broke down because of disagreement on the issue of elections to the Constituent Assembly and Maoists withdrew from the ceasefire on 27 August 2003. Since then, Maoist violence has continued unabated and is now threatening areas in the Terai. Meanwhile, political parties continue to agitate against the "regressive" measures since 4 October 2002 and have refused to join the Government.

India's consistent position remains that a national consensus needs to be evolved based on the principles of multiparty democracy and constitutional monarchy to effectively address the challenges posed by the Maoist insurgency. Only a representative government, with the participation of all parliamentary parties, working in close cooperation with the monarchy, could help in evolving a sustainable solution to the conflict. India has strongly condemned the recourse to violence by Maoists and continues to support all efforts of Government of Nepal to restore normalcy and order in the country.

Indian Para military forces have been deployed at sensitive areas of the India - Nepal border to keep a close vigil along the border to prevent miscreants from misusing the open border between the two countries.

Government of India provides a generous aid package to Nepal with an average annual budget of Rs.60 crores to Rs.75 crores. A number of projects in areas relating to infrastructure, health, water resources, rural and community development, education, etc. are currently underway. During the year, work on a major aid-project involving laying of optical fibre cable network along the East-West Highway was commenced which would greatly improve telecommunication facility within Nepal and between India and Nepal. Another project has been formulated on the development of border infrastructure, which will facilitate Nepal's trade and transit and improve the security along the border.

Cultural linkages between India and Nepal are supplemented by over 100 scholarships to Nepalese students offered annually. Another 50-60 distance education scholarships are provided to Nepalese students at the Indira Gandhi National Open University. Training programmes are offered to employees of Government of Nepal in various institutions under Indian Technical and Economic Training Programme (ITEC) and under the Colombo Plan. 50 scholarships are awarded to meritorious Nepalese students for undergraduate courses in Nepal. During the year, a new scheme, the Mahatma Gandhi Scholarship Scheme, was introduced under which 500 scholarships would be awarded to meritorious Nepalese students every year for class XI-XII in Nepal.

Pakistan

India has always desired peaceful, friendly and cooperative relations with Pakistan as envisaged in the Simla Agreement. All the policy initiatives taken by India, including over the past few years, the Composite Dialogue in 1998, Prime Minister's visit to Lahore in 1999, and the invitation extended to President General Pervez Musharraf for summit level talks at Agra in July 2001, were underpinned by this objective.

Government have been making continued efforts to build upon the possibilities that exist and to catalyze the desire of people on both sides to have peaceful and friendly relations. At the same time, mindful of the fact that careful preparation is necessary so that there is a meaningful engagement at the higher levels, government have, since April last year, adopted a step-by-step approach to normalize relations with Pakistan.

Prime Minister's Initiative: 18 April 2003

In keeping with this spirit, Prime Minister Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee, at a public rally in Srinagar on 18 April 2003, had once again extended the hand of friendship to Pakistan. Following this gesture, he received a telephone call from Prime Minister Mir Zafarullah Khan Jamali of Pakistan on 28 April 2003. The two Prime Ministers discussed ways of moving bilateral relations forward. In this context, Prime Minister Vajpayee suggested the importance of economic cooperation, cultural exchanges and people-to-people contacts, as progress on these issues could help create a climate conducive to addressing more difficult issues. During the call, the importance of early resumption of civil aviation and implementation of decisions on trade and economic cooperation taken at the SAARC Kathmandu Summit was also emphasised

Prime Minister Vajpayee had, in his suo-moto statement in Parliament on 2 May 2003, stated, "we are committed to the improvement of relations with Pakistan, and are willing to grasp every opportunity for doing so. However, we have repeatedly expressed the need to create a conducive atmosphere for a sustained dialogue, which necessarily requires an end to cross border terrorism and the dismantling of its infrastructure".

Several significant subsequent steps included-

- restoration of relations at the level of High Commissioners;
- resumption of the Delhi-Lahore bus service;
- high level exchanges at the level of Parliamentarians, businessmen, media, artists, writers, judges, peace activists, sporting contacts, and others;
- free medical treatment to 20 Pakistani children;
- release of prisoners and fishermen on both sides;
- increase in the strength of the respective High Commissions.

These generated a positive resonance amongst the people in the two countries.

Indian proposals to Pakistan: 22 October 2003

On 22 October 2003, India announced further steps to promote people to people contact between the two countries. The proposals included-

- resumption of civil aviation links to be followed by resumption of the rail link;
- resumption of bilateral sporting encounters including cricket;
- permission to senior citizens (65 years and above) to cross at Wagah on foot;
- holding of visa camps in different cities to benefit the people;
- increasing the capacity of the Delhi-Lahore-Delhi bus service by running more buses;
- the establishment of links between the Coast Guards authorities of the two countries;
- the non-arrest by either side of fishermen of the other country within a certain band on the sea;
- provision of free medical treatment to a second lot of 20 Pakistani children;
- resumption of passenger shipping services between Mumbai and Karachi;

The Nepalese Prime Minister Mr. Surya Bahadur Thapa calls on the President Dr. A. P. J. Abdul Kalam in New Delhi on November 25, 2003.

- commencement of a bus service between Srinagar and Muzaffarabad;
- starting a bus or rail link between Munabao in Rajasthan (India) and Khokrapar in Sind (Pakistan) ; and
- further increase in size of the respective High Commissions.

Pakistan's initial response on 29 October 2003 was inadequate. While welcoming some of the proposals, like allowing senior citizens to cross Wagah on foot, establishing links between Indian Coast Gaurds and Pakistan Maritime Security Agency, and resumption of bilateral sporting contacts, they opted to politicise the humanitarian gestures and attached impractical, extraneous and delaying conditions to others.

However, on 23 November 2003, the Prime Minister of Pakistan Mir Zafarullah Khan Jamali responded positively to the communication links proposed by India on 22nd October. He, inter alia, stated that Pakistan was ready to open discussions on Indian proposals regarding opening Khokrapar - Munabao route, ferry service between Karachi and Mumbai, establishing bus link between Muzaffarabad and Srinagar and communication links between the two coast guards. India welcomed the Pakistani response and proposed immediate technical level talks for early implementation of these proposals.

Ceasefire along the International Border, LOC and AGPL in J&K

Prime Minister of Pakistan, on 23 November 2003, also announced that Pakistan armed forces along the LOC had been issued instructions to ceasefire along the LOC with effect from Eid-al-Fitr. India welcomed the Pakistani decision, but also made it clear that in order to establish a full ceasefire on a durable basis, there must be an end to infiltration from across the Line of Control (LOC). To take this process (of ceasefire) further, India also proposed a ceasefire along the Actual Ground Position Line (AGPL) in Siachen. The matter was discussed during the conversation between the Director General Military Operations of the two countries on 25 November 2003, and it was agreed to observe a ceasefire on the International Border, LOC and AGPL with effect from the midnight of November 25, 2003.

Restoration of Communication links

After the resumption of the Delhi-Lahore Bus service, steps were initiated to restore civil aviation and rails links between the two countries. Consequently, during the second round of Civil Aviation talks, held in New Delhi on 1 December 2003, India and Pakistan agreed to resume simultaneous point-to-point services and over-flights with effect from 1 January 2004 on a reciprocal basis. Prime Minister's visit to Islamabad: 4-6 January 2004

The above process was taken significantly forward through Prime Minister's visit to Islamabad (January 4-6, 2004) for the SAARC Summit. On the sidelines of the Summit, Prime Minister Vajpayee had meetings with Pakistan Prime Minister Jamali and President Musharraf. Besides, External Affairs Minister and Foreign Secretary also made courtesy calls on their counterparts. These meetings had a positive impact.

A Joint Press Statement was also issued after Prime Minister Vajpayee's meeting with President Musharraf. Both leaders welcomed the recent steps towards normalisation of relations between the two countries and expressed the hope that the positive trends set by the CBMs would be consolidated. Prime Minister Vajpayee said that in order to take forward and sustain the dialogue process, violence, hostility and terrorism must be prevented. President Musharraf reassured Prime Minister Vajpayee that he would not permit any territory under Pakistan's control to be used to support terrorism in any manner. To carry the process of normalisation forward, the two leaders agreed to commence the process of the Composite Dialogue in February 2004.

Consular access to 268 Indian fishermen, who were detained by the Pakistani authorities was secured on 15-17 March 2004. Government, through diplomatic channels, are continuously taking up the matter of their early release and repatriation with the Pakistani Government.

Visits of pilgrims

In pursuance of Prime Minister's initiative, visits of pilgrims to religious shrines regulated by the Bilateral Protocol of 1974, which were interrupted in the aftermath of the terrorist attack on the Indian Parliament, were resumed. Accordingly, 100 pilgrims visited Pakistan on the occasion of Baisakhi (in April 2003), 200 pilgrims went on the occasion of the Martyrdom day of Guru Arjan Dev (June 2003), 200 pilgrims visited for the Barsi of Maharaja Ranjit Singh (June 2003), 500 pilgrims went on the occasion of the Birth anniversary of Guru Nanak Dev (November 2003), and a group of about 170 pilgrims visited Katasraj in Pakistan on the occasion of Maha Shivratri (February 2004). It was also decided to send a jatha of 3000 pilgrims in April 2004 for Baisakhi celebrations.

Other developments

A technical level meeting for starting a bus service between Munabao (Rajasthan) and Khokhrapar (Sindh) was held in Islamabad on 9-10 March 2004. India proposed to Pakistan that the bus service could be started with effect from 1 August 2004. However, Pakistan side said that they required more time to make an assessment of the infrastructure required on their side in order to operationalise bus service. A Joint Press Statement was issued on 10 March 2004 in which the two sides affirmed their commitment to commence the bus service between Khokhrapar and Munabao, and agreed to meet again to continue discussions. The technical level meeting on the commencement of Srinagar- Muzaffarabad bus service was postponed after mutual consultations.

Meanwhile, as agreed to during FS level talks in February 2004, a meeting between Inspector General Border Security Force and Director General Pakistan Rangers took place on 24 -27 March 2004. Inter alia, issues relating to drug trafficking and smuggling of contrabands, illegal crossings, maintenance and repair of boundary pillars, etc were discussed.

The tour of the Indian cricket team to Pakistan, after a gap of about 15 years, in March 2004 marked the resumption of bilateral sporting encounters in this field. The visit of the Indian team generated much enthusiasm among the people of the two countries.

Status of cross border terrorism

A ceasefire along the International Border, Line of Control, and the Actual Ground Position Line in Jammu and Kashmir, which is being observed since November 25, 2003 has continued to hold. Though there has been some decline in cross border infiltration, Pakistan is yet to take credible steps to dismantle the infrastructure of support to terrorism.

Government favour the resolution of all differences with Pakistan through bilateral dialogue in accordance with the Simla Agreement. Government would continue to carry forward the present process in India-Pakistan relations. However, the sustainability of the process necessarily requires Pakistan to fulfill its assurances to not permit any territory under its control to be used to support terrorism in any manner.

Sri Lanka

India-Sri Lanka relations consolidated further in 2003-2004. Apart from the large number of high-level political exchanges, there was much progress on the economic front with bilateral trade crossing the US$ 1 billion mark. Following the signing of a Ceasefire Agreement with the LTTE in February 2002, Sri Lanka, facilitator Norway and Japan have been keeping India regularly briefed on developments in the peace process.

Sri Lankan Peace Process

The end of years of ethnic violence in Sri Lanka with the signing of the Ceasefire Agreement between the Sri Lankan Government (SLG) and Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) enabled a reinvigorating of India-Sri Lanka bilateral relations, especially on the economic front. Progress in the Sri Lankan peace process was far from smooth. Despite six rounds of talks the LTTE showed no inclination to decommission its arms. Thereafter, it suspended participation in the peace talks and announced that it would not participate in the Tokyo Donors Conference in June 2003 citing its exclusion from the Aid-to-Sri Lanka Seminar in Washington in April and its dissatisfaction with the slow progress, on the ground, in the administration of aid in the North and East. The LTTE also rejected the first two proposals offered by the SLG for Interim Administrative structure in the North-East. In July 2003, the Sri Lankan Prime Minister offered a third set of revised proposals for an Interim Administration for the North and the East consisting of a three-tier mechanism, the Provisional Administrative Council that would be made up of members nominated by the SLG, including nominees of People's Alliance which includes Sri Lankan President's party (Sri Lanka Freedom Party - SLFP), the Sri Lankan Muslim Congress and the LTTE, with a large degree of devolution of powers to regional administration except in areas of police, security, land and revenue.

At the Tokyo Donors' Conference where US$ 4.5 billion was pledged over three years for the reconstruction of the Sri Lankan economy, India was represented at the level of Deputy Chief of Mission, Embassy of India in Tokyo and made no pledge since India has a large bilateral assistance programme. LTTE's absence was strongly criticised by all. The Tokyo Declaration called for a simultaneous decommissioning of its arms with the shrinking of High Security Zones manned by the Sri Lankan Army and linked disbursement of aid to progress in peace talks.

The LTTE made "counterproposals" to the SLG's proposals on 31 October 2003. The counterproposals were of a secessionist nature with LTTE arrogating to the Interim self-Governing Authority (ISGA) for the North and the East, many of the attributes of sovereignty by keeping key subjects such as the signing of international treaties, external trade, resolution of disputes, control of maritime boundaries, under its control. There was no role for institutions of the SLG. Within the ISGA, the LTTE arranged for absolute majority and absolute power for governance. It proposed a separate Financial Commission, and full control of finances by the ISGA.

The counterproposals put pressure on the already delicate relationship between the President and Prime Minister of Sri Lanka. The President had all along expressed concern at the continuing consolidation of the LTTE on the ground, arms-smuggling and child recruitment and the manner in which the negotiations were being conducted by the SLG. She was especially concerned that the security threats to Sri Lanka were not being addressed sufficiently. Based on a judgement of the Sri Lankan Supreme Court, that the plenary powers relating the defence of Sri Lanka including the powers to make regulations under Army, Navy and Air Force Act were reposed in the President, she took over the portfolios of Defence, Interior and Mass Communications from the SLG citing reasons of danger to national security due to "ineffective steps taken by the Sri Lankan Administration". She assured the nation that the Ceasefire Agreement with the LTTE would not be disrupted and expressed her willingness to hold discussions with the LTTE for a balanced solution within the territorial integrity of Sri Lanka. The Prime Minister was in USA on an official visit at that time. The Sri Lankan President prorogued Parliament until 19 November 2003 when it reconvened to enable the Government to present its budget proposals.

Norway temporarily suspended its facilitation activities citing the domestic political developments in Sri Lanka. The President and the Prime Minister have met several times since, and appointed a Committee of Officials to work out consensual approach for smooth governance and negotiations with the LTTE.

India expressed surprise at the sudden political developments of 4 November 2003 in Sri Lanka and stated that the situation should not provoke a crisis impacting on the political stability and ongoing peace process.

President Chandrika Bandaranaike Kumaratunga dissolved the Sri Lankan Parliament with effect from mid-night Saturday, 7 February 2004. The 13th Parliamentary election in Sri Lanka will be held on 2 April 2004. The President indicated that she would seek a four-point popular mandate for (a) continuation of peace negotiations with the LTTE (b) abolition of Executive Presidency (c) revision of the electoral system and (d) introduction of market-oriented economic development and guarantee of social justice.

Her decision to hold elections came after unsuccessful negotiations for power-sharing between the President and the Prime Minister on key issues such as (i) dealing with the Ceasefire Agreement between the Sri Lankan Government and the LTTE (ii) dealing with peace process negotiations and (iii) good governance, electoral reforms etc.

Government of India's Position

Government of India has been consulted by the senior political leadership of Sri Lanka throughout. Government of India supports the actions of the Government of Sri Lanka for a peaceful resolution of the ethnic conflict within the territorial integrity and unity of the country in a manner satisfactory to the aspirations of members of Sri Lankan society. It believes that for a solution to be enduring it must emerge purely through an internal political process. It has reiterated its commitment to the unity, sovereignty and territorial integrity of Sri Lanka and to the restoration of a lasting peace through a peaceful negotiated settlement that meets the just aspirations of all elements of Sri Lankan society. India would welcome resolution of the current impasse in the peace process and an early resumption of negotiations.

In the Joint Statement issued during the Sri Lankan Prime Minister's visit to India in October 2003, it was stated that not only will it maintain an abiding interest in the security of Sri Lanka it would welcome a resolution of the current impasse in the peace process and an early resumption of negotiations. Any interim arrangement should be an integral part of the final settlement and should be in the framework of the unity and territorial integrity of Sri Lanka. An important development during the visit was India's agreeing to Sri Lankan Prime Minister's proposal for a defence cooperation agreement.

5. The Gulf, West Asia and North Africa

Iraq

Given India's long-standing political, cultural and economic ties, India is interested in the peace and prosperity of the Gulf region and has, therefore, been monitoring the developments in Iraq very closely. India's policies concerning developments in Iraq are based on its principles and national interest. Government of India's position has been based on the unanimous Resolution adopted by both Houses of Parliament on 8 April 2003. The Resolution deplored the military action and stated that this action, with a view to changing the government in Iraq was unacceptable. The action also lacked the specific sanction of the UN Security Council. The Resolution called for immediate secession of hostilities in Iraq and quick withdrawal of Coalition forces. It also called upon the UN to protect the sovereignty of Iraq and to ensure the reconstruction of Iraq under UN auspices. India welcomed the signing of Iraq's interim constitution on March 8 initiating the process of handing over sovereignty to the Iraqi people and hoped that the scheduled dates of transfer of sovereignty to the Iraqi people will be adhered to.

India has consistently emphasized the need for an early restoration of sovereignty to the Iraqi people and reaffirmed the right of Iraqi people to freely determine their political future and control their natural resources. It has stressed the crucial role of the UN in the process of political and economic reconstruction of Iraq. It had reiterated these concerns to the 58th session of the UN General Assembly on 25 September.

While UN Security Council (UNSC) Resolution 1483 of 22 May 2003 recognized the status of the occupying powers and provided a legal basis and international mandate for administering Iraq on an interim basis, the subsequent UNSC Resolution 1511 of 16 October 2003 recognized the Governing Council and its Ministers as the principal bodies of the Iraqi Interim Administration, embodying the sovereignty of the State of Iraq during the transitional period until an internationally recognized, representative government is established and assumes the responsibilities of the Authority. Since then India has noted the intention of the Coalition Authorities to handover sovereignty to a Transitional National Assembly by 30 June 2004 and that the Iraqi Governing Council is working on a roadmap for this purpose.

The arrest of Saddam Hussein by the Coalition Authorities has been noted. Various views have been expressed as to where and how his trial should take place. The judicial process will have to address issues such as rights of Iraqi nationals, the obligations of occupying powers under the Geneva Convention, the need for transparency and fairness of the judicial process, etc. India believes that it is essentially a question for the Iraqis to decide, but in conformity with well-known international norms and principles. India has taken note of the statements that the Geneva Conventions will be respected and it hopes for early improvement of the security situation in Iraq. India is strongly committed to assist the people of Iraq in their humanitarian and reconstruction efforts. In response to UN Secretary General's Flash Appeal, early this year, India had committed US$20 million for assistance to the Iraqi people. As the Donors Conference held in Madrid from 23-24 October 2003, India has committed an additional amount of US$10 million through Trust Funds being coordinated by the United Nation and International Monetary Fund respectively for reconstruction needs of Iraq. Government of India is working on proposals for assistance including medical assistance to a hospital in Najaf, provision of computers, assistance in the constitution development process and human resource development and training of Iraqi personnel, including diplomats.

As part of the continuous efforts to assist people of Iraq in humanitarian and reconstruction efforts, India provided training to 15 Iraqi diplomats for a period of 6 weeks in February-March at the Foreign Service Institute, New Delhi. An Archaeological Team from Iraq visited India Abhyankar led a delegation to the Iraq Donors Conference in Abu Dhabi on 28-29 February 2004 that was hosted by the UAE as follow up on the Madrid Conference. India is one of the 13-member Donor Committee that came formally into existence at the conference. The conference discussed the mechanism to spend the pledged funds in the reconstruction of Iraq through the two trust funds to be administered by the World Bank and UN respectively. India has pledged a total of US $ 10 million to the two Trust Funds. This is in addition to US $ 20 million being spent on relief in Iraq bilaterally. The next conference of Donors Committee will take place in Doha in May 2004.

An amount of US$ 1.2 million has been provided to World Food Programme (WFP) for procuring and distributing Infant Formula milk i.e. dried whole milk powder to the Iraqi people. India has also transferred US$2.5 million to the Iraq Trust Fund. An 8-week training programme for 15 Iraqi diplomats, organized by FSI in February-March 2004, concluded this month. A six weeks programme on communication and information technology has been organized by NIIT from 5 April-14 May under the ITEC programme. While this is a new approach, it symbolizes, at heart, the essence of South-South cooperation in today's world. India has invited the eight West African countries for becoming member of TEAM-9, which aims at transfer of technology to The West African countries with which India had a little commercial and economic impact. The First Ministerial Meeting of TEAM-9 country was held in New Delhi on 1 March 2004 at Vigyan Bhawan.

It was decided that The TEAM-9 cooperation mechanism will operate at Government, institutional and private sector levels, sharing various types of expertise, intellectual and physical resources as well as economic opportunities for promoting welfare, growth and prosperity of the people. It would thus involve providing opportunities for education and training in crucial sectors. It would enable transfer of critical technologies. It would imply undertaking specific projects in individual TEAM-9 countries, which would have region-wide beneficial impact in the sectors critical for employment and growth such as agriculture,

7. Europe

Central and Eastern Europe

India has traditionally enjoyed warm, friendly and close relations, marked by mutual goodwill, with the countries of Central and Eastern Europe (CEE). Apart from fostering Parliamentary and cultural delegations, conscious efforts were made to encourage political level exchanges during the past year. Specifically, India's excellent and time-tested relations with Russia were further bolstered with the Prime Minister's visit to Moscow in November 2003.

The continued efforts to further develop, diversify and strengthen India's traditionally warm, friendly and close relations with countries of Central and Eastern Europe (CEE) acquired greater significance with the signing of Accession Treaties by eight countries of the region for joining the European Union in May 2004, a few others aspiring to join by 2007 and still others in the next 10-12 years. The focus of the effort was to gradually put the relationships with these countries on a pedestal form where it would be easier for India to work with them for mutual benefit in the changed geopolitical context.

The general approach continued to focus on generating thrust for overall development of bilateral relations through sustained interaction at high level and between political leadership of India with CEE countries. In the period under review, President of India visited Bulgaria apart from the two visits of the Prime Minister to the Russian Federation, and incoming visits by the President of Armenia, Prime Minister of Hungary and Deputy Prime Ministers of Latvia and Serbia & Montenegro, besides Foreign Ministers of Bosnia and Herzegovina, Russia and Ukraine. Representatives of Bulgaria, Croatia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Romania and Russia visited India to attend the Inter-Parliamentary Conference held from 22-27 January 2003 marking the Golden Jubilee of the Indian Parliament. There have been high level bilateral exchanges with 13 CEE countries in areas including science and technology, IT, defence, culture and education. These made it possible to maintain the continuity and the momentum in these ties and to reinvigorate them. There were Parliamentary exchanges with Bulgaria, the Czech Republic, Hungary, Romania, Russia and Ukraine. Regular Foreign Office Consultations were also given due attention. Protocol on Foreign Office Consultations (FOC) with Albania was signed during the visit of then Secretary (EAA) Shri Shashank to Tirana on 4 - 5 February 2003 when the first round of the FOC was also held.

Special efforts were devoted to qualitatively enhance bilateral trade and investment with CEE countries. Joint Commissions, Joint Committees and Joint Business Councils were reinvigorated. FICCI and CII were encouraged to organise a number of events in India and Missions in CEE countries. This period also saw significant investment activity by Non Resident Indians (NRIs) in the CEE countries. For example, large steel mills in Bosnia & Herzegovina, Poland and Romania were taken over by NRIs. A large business delegation accompanying the Prime Minister on his recent visit to Russia in November 2003 had useful interaction with their Russian counterparts.

An important dimension of India's relations with CEE countries is the increased interaction and cooperation in combating international terrorism. Agreements and treaties on this subject and related areas were signed with some more CEE countries. Interaction between national security agencies (for example, with Poland) was nurtured.

West Europe

India's engagement with the countries in Western Europe continued to be broad-based and intensive. Bilateral political and economic interaction was marked by a number of exchanges of visits, demonstrating a mutual desire to consolidate a dynamic, multi-faceted relationship with the European Union and the individual countries in Western Europe. Regular exchange of views on the challenges facing India and the European Union, and dialogue with key strategic partners in Western Europe, against the backdrop of current regional and international developments, led to a better appreciation of India's legitimate concerns and, at the same time, provided an opportunity to re-focus, strengthen and revitalize bilateral ties. The institutionalized dialogue with the EU continued at the highest levels, including the India-EU Summit held in Delhi on 29 November 2003.

Economic considerations continued to underpin our strong ties with countries in Western Europe. The successful conclusion of the Fourth India-EU Business Summit in New Delhi, in addition to a number of other initiatives and activities undertaken during the year, helped showcase the special areas of India's strength in its interaction with key economic partners, including co-operation and partnership in niche areas of technology. The Civil Society Dialogue with the major European countries, represented by the different Eminent Persons Group, contributed to strengthening the multi-faceted relationship.

The new guidelines for acceptance for Official Development Assistance (ODA) had implications for Western Europe, which included some of the largest erstwhile contributors of ODA. Under these guidelines, government-to-government aid would be accepted only from the UK, Germany and the European Commission, in this region. Funding of ongoing programmes and projects from other countries would, however, continue until their completion.

India-EU trade during 2002-2003 grew by a healthy rate in both directions, despite the limited GDP growth recorded by most EU countries during this period. The trend has continued for the first six-months of 2003-2004. Switzerland was the sole exception, with bilateral trade declining during this period by about 17%.

United Kingdom

India's excellent bilateral relations with the United Kingdom (UK) witnessed a steady intensification and consolidation over the last year, with several high-level exchanges and continued interaction at the institutional level. India and the UK share an assessment that the bilateral relationship is a key foreign policy priority. UK Prime Minister Tony Blair has described India as a strategic partner. In a December 2003 Government White Paper titled "UK International Priorities: A Strategy for the FCO", the UK identified India as one of four key countries (the other three being Russia, China and Japan) with which the UK wishes to build a stronger strategic partnership. The paper described India as an important democratic power in Asia, with increasing potential to exert global political and economic influence and with particular strength in leading growth sectors.

The UK has issued statements unequivocally condemning terrorist attacks in India. A Joint UK-US statement on 27 March 2003 condemned "all terrorism wherever it occurs and whatever its purported justification". It also said that "the Line of Control should be strictly respected and Pakistan should fulfill its commitments to stop infiltration across it. UK has continued to publicly reiterate its support for India's candidature for permanent membership of the UN Security Council.

Regular bilateral consultations over the year helped advance cooperation in diverse areas. Prime Minister met UK Prime Minister Tony Blair in St. Petersburg (Russia) in May 2003 and in Abuja (Nigeria) during the Commonwealth Summit in December 2003 and discussed bilateral and international issues of mutual interest. The Prince of Wales visited India in November 2003 on the invitation of Vice-President.

External Affairs Minister, Shri Yashwant Sinha and Mr. Straw agreed that the necessary steps would be taken to implement the vision of both Prime Ministers to move the strategic partnership between India and the UK to a higher level. Cooperation in high-tech areas and trade and investment were identified as being of central importance in this endeavour. Mr. Straw also met Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Commerce and Industry and also visited Bangalore. In the context of the ongoing debate in the UK on the issue of outsourcing, Mr. Straw underlined that the UK saw the process as mutually beneficial and that it was not in favour of protectionist measures.

UK Home Secretary Mr. David Blunkett visited India from 29 January–2 February 2004. Mr. Blunkett met Deputy Prime Minister, External Affairs Minister and National Security Advisor during the visit. An MoU on Return of Immigration Offenders was signed during the visit, underlining the shared intention of both countries to tackle illegal immigration. In pursuance of the decision by both Prime Ministers at their meeting in Abuja to take the bilateral relationship to a newer and higher level, the Foreign Policy Advisor to the UK Prime Minister Sir Nigel Sheinwald visited India in January 2004 for wide-ranging talks with National Security Advisor.

The UK Parliamentary delegations had extensive interactions with the state government officials of Delhi, J&K, West Bengal, Andhra Pradesh and Maharashtra. They also had wide-ranging interaction with the representatives of trade and industry including visits to important business centers. The delegations were extremely appreciative of the dynamism of the Indian economy. These visits have helped to deepen our engagement with the UK Members of Parliament.

The fifth and sixth rounds of the India-UK dialogue on Non Proliferation and Disarmament took place in Delhi in October 2003 and March 2004. The bilateral Defence Consultative Group and its various sub-groups met in London in June 2003.

Civil society dialogue deepened during this period. The India-UK Round Table met in Broadway, Worcestershire in May 2003 and in Kolkatta in January 2004 and provided valuable inputs to further strengthen the bilateral relationship, especially in the areas of trade, educational exchanges and information technology. The Round Table also served as a forum for exchange of views on global issues like WTO and climate change.

Economic and commercial relations remained buoyant. The UK is India's largest trading partner in Europe, with annual bilateral trade in goods and services of around £5 billion. Despite a downturn in the UK's global trade in goods last year, Indo-UK trade in goods increased by 20% as compared to the previous year. Latest figures for January-September 2003 show that total trade in goods has increased by about 21% (£3.22 billion) as compared to the previous year (£2.65b). A number of high-level visits helped promote trade and investment.

The UK continues to be an important source of FDI in India, with sectors of interest being oil and gas, ports, financial services and information technology. India has also emerged as a significant investor in the UK. In 2002, India became the eighth largest investor in the UK in terms of number of projects, and the second largest from Asia. India remained the single largest recipient of bilateral development assistance from the UK, with £200 million earmarked for 2003-04.

Germany

Indo-German relations received a fillip with the successful visit of Prime Minister, Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee to Germany in May 2003, following German President Johannes Rau's state visit to India in March. Germany has referred to India as a "partner of choice" and has identified its relationship with India as a foreign policy priority. During his visit, Prime Minister met President Johannes Rau, Chancellor Gerhard Schroeder and Foreign Minister Joschka Fischer and also addressed German Parliamentarians in Berlin. Prime Minister also visited Munich. The visit strengthened the ongoing political dialogue with Germany and imparted fresh momentum in areas of ongoing economic cooperation. Both sides agreed that there were opportunities for investment particularly in India's infrastructure and unexplored synergy in new knowledge-based areas such as information technology and biotechnology. The two sides also discussed possible cooperation in renewable sources of energy, especially in wind energy technology. Chancellor Schroeder accepted Prime Minister's invitation to visit India in 2004 in line with the agreement to institutionalize annual meetings at Head of Government level between the two countries.

Chancellor Gerhard Schroeder and Deputy Chairperson of Rajya Sabha, Dr. Najma Heptullah jointly inaugurated the APW. Minister for Communication, IT & Disinvestment headed an Indian business delegation to the various business events.

Germany is one of India's largest trading partners, with bilateral trade at approximately US$ 5 billion. Bilateral trade declined marginally by 1.67% in the first six months of 2003. Business delegations from both countries participated in the other country's trade fairs. There is an increasing trend of Indian investments in Germany, while German FDI in India has declined.

The Prime Minister met President Bush in New York on 24 September 2003 and briefly at St. Petersburg on 31 May 2003. The Deputy Prime Minister visited the United States in June 2003 when he met President Bush. Other high-level exchanges in 2003 include visits by National Security Adviser to the United States in May 2003 (which included a brief meeting with President Bush) and by US Deputy Secretary of State Richard Armitage in May 2003. The External Affairs Minister, Shri Yashwant Sinha visited Washington DC in January 2004 and had meetings with President Bush, Secretary Powell and National Security Advisor Condoleezza Rice. He had earlier met Secretary of State Colin Powell in Moscow in May 2003 and in Phnom Penh in June 2003. In addition, the Commerce and Industry Minister visited the United States in May 2003 and the Power Minister in June 2003. Foreign Secretary visited Washington DC in June – July 2003. Defence Secretary co-chaired the fifth meeting of the India-US Defence Policy Group in Washington DC in August 2003.

During the year, the most significant progress in bilateral cooperation occurred in the realm of bilateral strategic dialogue between India and the United States on the "Quartet Issues" comprising cooperation in civilian space programme, civilian nuclear programme, trade in "dual use" high-technology and missile defence. During their meeting in New York in September 2002, the Prime Minister and President Bush agreed to explore cooperation opportunities in these areas.

Then Foreign Secretary Shri Kanwal Sibal visited US from 3-5 February 2003 during which he met US Deputy Secretary of State Richard Armitage, National Security Advisor Stephen Hadley, Under Secretary for Commerce Kenneth Juster, Under Secretary for Defence Douglas Feith, Under Secretary for Global Affairs at the State Department Paula Dobriansky and Under Secretary for Political Affairs at the State Department Marc Grossman. During the visit, India and the United States reached an agreement on principles governing high-technology commerce including trade in dual-use technology between the two countries, reflecting their new relationship and common strategic interests. The two sides agreed to take steps to promote and facilitate such trade by addressing systemic barriers; generating market awareness; undertaking promotional activities; conducting industry outreach programmes; reviewing policies and processes on export of dual-use goods and technologies to India; and pursuing export control cooperation.

Director of Policy Planning in the State Department Richard Haass visited New Delhi in January 2003 for broad ranging discussion on Indo-US relations.

An important milestone was crossed on 12-13 January 2004, when the leaders of the two countries issued, in their respective capitals, a joint statement that describes the next steps in the India - United States strategic partnership. These steps include an expansion of cooperation in civilian nuclear activities, civilian space programmes and high-technology trade together with an expanded dialogue on missile defence. Bilateral cooperation between India and the United States in these areas will deepen the ties of commerce between the two nations and promote stability. In this context, the two sides have established a High Technology Cooperation Group (HTCG), the first that the United States has with any country.

This Group met in Washington DC in July 2003 and in New Delhi in November 2003. Significant progress was made during the HCTG meetings when the two sides agreed to take appropriate regulatory and promotional measures to stimulate India-US high-technology commerce, including trade in dual-use goods and technologies.

The area of defence cooperation continued to see major progress. In 2003, the two sides continued to strengthen their institutional framework of engagement in the area of defence and build on the foundation for resumption of defence relations that was laid during the resumed Defence Policy Group meeting in December 2001. In addition to the high level exchanges, broad based engagement continued through institutional mechanisms. A delegation from Ministry of Defence and Ministry of External Affairs participated in an India-US bilateral workshop on missile defence was held in New Delhi in January 2003. The apex level Defence Policy Group met again in August 2003. The bilateral Executive Steering Groups of the Army, Navy and Air Force, the Security Cooperation Group to coordinate defence supply relationship, and the Joint Technical Group to advance R & D collaboration in defence production (including in India's Light Combat Aircraft (LCA) project) meet every six months. During the year, the two sides conducted mutually beneficial combined exercises in India and the United States, expert exchanges and joint training as also revitalized defence research & development cooperation and defence supplies relationship. As part of facilitating the bilateral defence cooperation, the enabling bilateral agreements such as the General Security of Military Information Agreement (GSOMIA) and intelligence sharing agreements are now in place and military contacts, exchanges and exercises are developing their own internal dynamics.

As part of their continuous dialogue on international security issues, India and the United States have ongoing consultations in the area of missile defence. A workshop was held with US experts in Delhi in January 2003, followed by a visit in June 2003 by Indian experts to a missile defence workshop in Japan. India was also invited as observer in "Roving Sands" missile defence exercise in Texas in June 2003, which was cancelled due to the war in Iraq. An expanded dialogue with the United States on missile defence is now a part of the Next Steps on Strategic Partnership.

An important emerging element of the bilateral engagement between India and US has been cooperation on combating international terrorism. The terrorist attacks in the United States on 11 September 2001 and on the Indian Parliament on 13 December 2001 have led to a deepening of Indo-US cooperation in this field. The United States acknowledges Pakistan's links with, and its Government's responsibility to stop, cross-border terrorism in India. Accordingly, the United States has, under its own law, designated and proscribed a number of Pakistan-based terrorist organisations such as Lashkar-e-Toiba (LeT), Jaish-e-Mohammed and Harkat-ul-Mujahideen. On 16 October 2003, the United States declared Dawood Ibrahim as a Specially Designated Global Terrorist. The designation recognizes Dawood Ibrahim's underworld and terrorist connections, his efforts to destabilise India, his involvement in the 1993 Mumbai bombings and his support to LeT. This subsequently led to the inclusion of his name in the United Nations listing as well. On 29 October 2003, a key US State Department official described India as a victim of terrorism and asserted that the US was asking Pakistan to redouble its efforts to stop infiltration and prevent extremist groups operating on its soil from crossing the Line of Control.

India and the United States have a Joint Working Group on Counter-Terrorism that was established in January 2000 and has met five times. The Joint Working Group focuses on expanding mutually beneficial cooperation in counter-terrorism capacity, institution building, training programmes, intelligence and investigative cooperation and counter-terrorism technology. Due to scheduling problems, the sixth meeting of this Working Group could not be held in 2003.

The United States has publicly, privately and repeatedly conveyed strong appreciation of Prime Minister's peace initiative towards Pakistan, describing it as a far-reaching act of statesmanship. President Bush himself conveyed these sentiments to the Prime Minister during their conversation in St. Petersburg in May 2003 and in New York in September 2004. On 6 January 2004, the US Secretary of State Colin Powell described the Vajpayee-Musharraf meeting in Islamabad as a historic meeting that had opened new opportunities for achieving peace. The State Department termed the India – Pakistan joint statement at Islamabad as a historic development that had been taken through a series of acts of statesmanship. While expressing hope for normalization of relations and eventual resumption of India-Pakistan dialogue, the United States maintains that it is for the two countries to resolve all outstanding issues bilaterally and that while the United States would be willing to play a facilitating role in creating an atmosphere for the dialogue process, it does not seek a mediatory role between the two countries. During the year, the United States continued to recognize that cross-border terrorism continues and has repeatedly stated that it continues to press President Musharraf to end infiltration and take action on terrorist camps.

On 18 March 2004, Secretary of State Mr. Colin Powell announced in Islamabad that the US had decided to designate Pakistan as a Major Non-NATO Ally (MNNA). India expressed its disappointment at the manner of the announcement. Secretary Powell tried to reach External Affairs Minister after the announcement and spoke to him on 21 March explaining that the intention had not been to spring a surprise on India. The US conveyed its offer of considering a similar status for India; India has not given any consideration to any such proposal. India is studying the implications of this US announcement, in relation to Pakistan, that would become clearer once it is notified by the US President to the Congress.

As part of the exchange of views with our major partners on issues of regional and international interest, India and the United States continued their discussions on the situations in Iraq and Afghanistan. The US Administration expressed interest in Indian involvement in post-war stabilisation operations in Iraq in early May 2003. Wide-ranging consultations were held by India with the United States, UN, Iraq's neighbours, other concerned countries as well as the Iraqi people. The Government also sought to reach a national consensus on the issue. A decision was taken on the US request, taking into account India's longer term national interests, our concern for the people of Iraq, our long-standing ties with the Gulf region as a whole, as well as our growing dialogue and strengthened ties with the United States. While the US State Department reaction on 14 July 2003, expressed US hope "that India would have made a different choice, that they would be there", it also reiterated that India remains "an important strategic partner for the United States, and that the continuation of the transformation of Indo-US relations is something that's important to us and that we expect to see". In recognition of our concerns, the US Secretary of State Colin Powell said in an interview on 22 September 2003 that though India had a large standing body of troops, it was probably politically too difficult for India to send any troops to Iraq. India's potential for contribution to the post-war reconstruction and development efforts in Iraq is recognised by the United States.

India and US have also maintained a regular dialogue regarding developments concerning Afghanistan. The two countries remain engaged on economic reconstruction, security situation and future political evolution in Afghanistan, and held discussions on these issues in New Delhi, Washington and at various multilateral fora.

An emerging area of close consultations between India and the United States is developments in Asia, including South Asia. With a growing US engagement in the region, the two sides decided to hold regular dialogue on South Asia, in order to coordinate and harmonize the respective approaches to the region. A Regional Forum dialogue germinated out of these discussions, the second round of which was held during US Assistant Secretary of State, Christina Rocca's visit to New Delhi in September 2003. The two governments have also agreed to institutionalize dialogue on other areas of mutual interest, including East, Southeast and Central Asia.

As part of the process of strengthening the strategic framework of relations, the two countries are seeking to build closer bilateral consultations on multilateral issues. In this context, the two Governments have launched a bilateral Global Issues Forum to enhance consultation on multilateral social and economic issues of mutual interest. Foreign Secretary held talks under this Forum with the US Under Secretary for Global Affairs, Paula Dobriansky in February 2003. There is also an ongoing dialogue on human rights issues in the multilateral context. The United States has also proposed a similar forum to improve consultation and coordination on political issues in the UN General Assembly. The two countries already have a Joint Working Group on UN Peacekeeping issues, which has enabled closer India-US coordination on peacekeeping issues in the UN in New York as also in policy discussions in the two capitals. The Group had its fourth meeting in Washington in October 2003.

The bilateral Agreement between India and the United States regarding non-surrender of persons to international tribunals that had been signed in December 2002 came into force in December 2003. The Agreement protects the primacy of national judicial institutions from a potential impingement by international tribunals like the International Criminal Court that India and the United States do not recognize. Under the Agreement, nationals of both countries are protected from being handed over to any international tribunal by either country without explicit consent of the other country.

India-US bilateral trade in goods in 2002 increased to about US$ 16 billion and trade in services to about US$ 8-10 billion. US direct investment declined to about US $ 250 million and portfolio investments to less than US $ 1.0 billion. However, against decline in both overall US exports and imports in 2002, India's exports to the United States grew 21.4% to reach US$ 12 billion, and came close behind the 22.4 % growth in China's exports, although the growth in India's case was on a substantially narrower base. US exports to India, stagnant in recent years, grew 9.1% in 2002 to about US$ 4.1 billion. Services trade grew by about 20%. In the nine-month period January – September 2003, while India's exports rose by 13.08% over the corresponding period in 2002, US exports to India increased by over 24%.

Secretary of State Colin Powell's visit to India

The US Secretary of State Colin Powell made a working visit to New Delhi on 15–17 March 2004. During this visit, Secretary Powell called on the Prime Minister and had extensive discussions with the External Affairs Minister, Finance Minister and National Security Advisor on 16 March 2004. This was Secretary Powell's first visit to India since July 2002 and followed External Affairs Minister's visit to Washington DC in January 2004.

Secretary Powell's visit focused on bilateral issues, especially economic relations. The two sides discussed issues related to the Next Steps in Strategic Partnership and Business Process Outsourcing (BPO). To give an impetus to bilateral economic relations, it was decided to restructure the bilateral economic dialogue, in partnership with the private sector, to attain specific trade and investment targets. Secretary Powell clarified that the US was not seeking a quid pro quo on outsourcing in terms of market access in India. The two sides also discussed nuclear proliferation from Pakistan. Secretary Powell was appreciative of India's effort to take forward the peace dialogue with Pakistan and agreed that the end of cross-border activity along the LoC needed to remain permanent beyond the winter months. Issues of international concern that included developments in Iraq and Afghanistan were also discussed during this visit.

Canada

Relations with Canada were marked by a process of re-engagement, which was supported by both countries. Canada identified India as one of the four countries in the world (with China, Mexico and Brazil) that present Canada with new opportunities for productive partnerships. It also identified India, along with China and Japan, as one of the key countries in Asia for developing close ties. The year witnessed greater involvement of the Indian-Canadian community as an emerging factor in relations between the two countries. Two high-level visits took place from Canada to India in quick succession in October 2003. Canadian Prime Minister Jean Chrétien visited India on 24–25 October 2003 with a delegation including the Canadian Minister for Natural Resources, two Members of the Canadian Parliament, one Privy Council Member, four prominent Indian-Canadians besides senior officials.

A Joint Statement entitled "Partners for the 21st Century" was released after talks between two Prime Ministers, outlining their vision to strengthen government, commercial and civil society linkages between India and Canada. The Statement, inter alia, committed the two countries to deepen their engagement to strengthen international and regional peace and security; prevent proliferation of nuclear weapons; enhance their strategic dialogue; upgrade Canadian representation in India; promote cooperation on counter-terrorism; formalise an annual dialogue on global issues; and hold annual high-level trade policy consultations. The Canadian Prime Minister inaugurated the Canadian Consulate General in Chandigarh and announced upgradation of the Consulate in Mumbai to Consulate General.

Just preceding this high level visit, Canadian Foreign Minister Bill Graham held wide-ranging talks with External Affairs Minister during his visit to India on 13 October 2003. He conveyed that the Canadian Export Development Corporation had identified India as a major market for Canadian exports and that Canada wanted cross investment in information technology and other emerging technologies. The two Ministers also signed an agreement for promoting cooperation between the Foreign Service Institutes of the two countries, under which two Canadian diplomats would attend Foreign Service Institute's programmes in New Delhi in 2003-2004.

The year also saw an expanded interface between different Ministries of the two Governments. The Canadian Minister of Industry, Mr. Allan Rock held talks in India with the Minister of State for Commerce and Industry and the government of the state of Maharashtra from 15-19 October 2003 and a six-member delegation of the Canadian Parliament Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs met their counterparts from the Parliament Standing Committee on External Affairs in Delhi from 20-22 October 2003. The Premiers of British Columbia and Alberta visited India from 8-12 November 2003 and 11-16 January 2004 respectively.

The Canadian Minister for Agriculture visited India from 4-10 December 2003 and held talks with his counterpart.

The newly appointed Canadian Minister of State for New and Emerging Markets, Mr. Gar Knutson visited India from 25-30 January 2004. He held discussions with the Minister of State (Independent Charge) for Information and Broadcasting and Secretary, Civil Aviation to identify areas of cooperation and mutual interest in the fields of information and broadcasting and civil aviation. Mr. Gar Knutson has the specific mandate of exploring further cooperation with the three countries – India, China and Brazil – identified by the Government of Canada as new and emerging markets.

In a statement issued on 6 January 2004 regarding the meeting between Indian Prime Minister and Pakistani President Pervez Musharraf on 5 January 2004, on the margins of the 12th SAARC Summit in Islamabad, Canadian Foreign Minister Bill Graham said he welcomed the “positive development in relations between India and Pakistan as an important step toward finding a peaceful solution to their outstanding issues”.

Latin America

This year has seen a far greater level of engagement between India and the countries of the region in pursuance of India's policy of strengthening and deepening our relations with countries in Latin America. External Affairs Minister, Shri Yashwant Sinha had very fruitful visits to Brazil and Peru in June 2003. These were the first ever visits by an Indian Foreign Minister to these countries. While in Peru he signed an agreement on a mechanism for political consultation and cooperation with the Community of ANDEAN nations (CAN). During his visit to Brazil, apart from covering a wide range of issues pertaining to bilateral, regional and international topics of mutual interest, the unique trilateral initiative – the India, Brazil and South Africa (IBSA) Dialogue Forum was launched. It was for the first time that three major countries of the South representing three continents came together to promote cooperation amongst themselves in diverse fields and to voice jointly the demands and concerns of the South.

From the region, the Presidents of Suriname and Guyana visited India during the year. The Foreign Ministers of Colombia, Chile and Brazil also paid highly successful visits that have helped in a better understanding and appreciation of each other's views on a variety of issues and matters of mutual interest and concern to India. A CARICOM delegation comprising the Foreign Minister of Jamaica and the Secretary-General of CARICOM also visited India in November 2003 and paved the way for the establishment of an institutional linkage for regular political dialogue between CARICOM and India with the signing of an agreement to set up a standing Joint Commission on consultation, cooperation and coordination between the Caribbean community and the Government of India.

India's relations with Latin America and the Caribbean countries were further widened and deepened through certain important initiatives taken in recent months including the signing of a framework agreement with the Market of Southern Cone countries (MERCOSUR), the Community of ANDEAN nations (CAN), the Caribbean Community (CARICOM) and finalization of agreements with Association of Caribbean States (ACS), Association of Central American States and the Rio-Group Troika, with the aim of finally entering into free trade/preferential trade agreements with countries of this region.

The first meeting of the System of Central American Integration (SICA) took place in New Delhi on 2 February 2004, with the External Affairs Minister, Shri Yashwant Sinha, meeting a delegation of Foreign Ministers and other dignitaries from the countries that make up the SICA (Belize, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama and Dominican Republic). For institutionalizing the mechanism for interactions with the SICA Group of countries, an Agreement for the Establishment of a Mechanism of Political Consultations and Cooperation was signed between India and SICA.

In keeping with the trade trends of Latin America, a positive trend emerged in trade between India and countries of the region as a consequence of the thrust given to the promotion of trade and commerce between India and the region. The bilateral trade increased from US$ 473.66 million in 1991-92 to US$ 2445.44 million in 2001-02 leading to an increased awareness on both sides, of the potential and possibilities of trade between India and the Latin American Countries (LAC).

At the multilateral level, India and the countries of the region showed a great deal of commonality of approach on a number of multilateral issues pertaining to the reform of the UN system, the WTO, the environment, etc. This approach was in much evidence during the Cancun Ministerial Meeting through the continued joint efforts and coordination by the Group of 20.

It is a matter of great satisfaction that since the commencement of the "Focus LAC Programme" in 1997, which is continuing, India's relations with countries of this region have continued to make important strides and that areas of cooperation in diverse fields have grown significantly. In an increasingly global environment, distance and language barriers were no longer allowed to come in the way of closer cooperation between India and the countries of the LAC region. Given the size and potential of the region, it has remained an important aspect of our overall policy to consolidate ties with this increasingly important region of the world.

Argentina

India's relations with Argentina remained cordial and friendly. The Embassy collaborated with a local cultural organisation Kororu Darshan to host a cultural programme called Sacred India in March-April 2003. In the following months, the Embassy held an exhibition of Indian dolls and dresses, organised an exhibition of paintings on India by a local artist, held the performance of Rajasthani Folk dance in Buenos Aires and in Rosario city in the Santa Fe province, all sponsored by the ICCR.

Paraguay

On 17 June 2003 the Mercosur countries and India signed the India-Mercosur Framework Agreement on Cooperation in Asunción during the 24th Mercosur Summit. Minister of State for Commerce and Industry Shri S.B. Mukherjee signed the agreement on behalf of Government of India while Foreign Ministers of Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay signed on behalf of Mercosur. The agreement would contribute to the expansion of the bilateral commerce and the development of closer relations amongst India and Mercosur countries.

Brazil

This year has been an important milestone in relations between India and Brazil. In his inaugural speech on 1 January 2003, President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva made a positive reference to India expressing Brazil's desire for closer relations with China, India, Russia and South Africa. The following important events during the year highlight the importance of our growing relations:

The Seventh Round of Foreign Office Consultations was held on 10 April 2003 in New Delhi. Bilateral cooperation in the areas of pharmaceuticals, software, information technology, science and technology, space and ethanol was discussed.

Prime Minister met President Lula on 2 June 2003 in Evian. The meeting gave an added impetus to the growth of closer relations with Brazil.

India-Brazil relations witnessed a historic moment with the first ever visit by an Indian Foreign Minister to Brazil. External Affairs Minister, Shri Yashwant Sinha accompanied by a 4-member CII business delegation visited Brazil from 4 June-9 June 2003. On 5th June, External Affairs Minister held intensive discussions with Brazilian Foreign Minister Mr. Celso Amorim. India and Brazil stated their natural claim to a permanent seat in UN Security Council to make it more representative, effective and legitimate. He had fruitful discussions with Brazilian Vice President and with Brazilian Ministers of Planning, Finance and Health on a wide range of issues. The External Affairs Minister also called on President Lula and had discussions on the importance of the bilateral relationship. President Lula had since accepted the invitation to be the Chief Guest on Republic Day in January 2004.

On 6 June 2003, External Affairs Minister and the Foreign Ministers of Brazil and South Africa held a trilateral meeting and established a trilateral India-Brazil-South Africa (IBSA) Dialogue Forum to promote mutual cooperation and to voice jointly the demands and concerns of South. A Trilateral Joint Commission was also set up. It was agreed that all the three countries should cooperate in opening up their markets to each other and not depend entirely on the developed countries for investment and export etc. Agriculture, defence, aeronautics, IT, biotechnology, civil aviation, etc. were identified as areas of cooperation. The three countries also voiced jointly their demand for democratisation of the UN system and agreed to project unitedly the views of the developing countries on WTO matters, etc.

As an important member of MERCOSUR, Brazil provided valuable assistance to India for signing a Framework Agreement with the bloc. It is hoped that the Framework Agreement, signed on 17 June 2003, will eventually lead to a Free Trade Agreement with MERCOSUR.

Raksha Mantri Shri George Fernandes visited Brazil from 7-11 July 2003. This was the first ever visit by an Indian Defence Minister to Brazil. He discussed with Brazilian Defence Minister bilaterally as well as trilateral defence cooperation in the areas of defence production, joint venture, joint marketing etc. involving India, Brazil and South Africa. Shri Fernandes also called on President Lula and discussed co-operation between countries like India, Brazil, Russia, China and South Africa.

India and Brazil adopted a common approach during the WTO meeting in Cancun, Mexico in September 2003 to ensure an equitable international trade. On 3 September 2003 Defence Secretary Shri Ajay Prasad announced Government of India's decision to purchase 5-legacy jets from Brazil's Embraer at a cost of US$ 158 million.

External Affairs Minister met Foreign Ministers of Brazil and South Africa on 24 September 2003 on the margins of UN General Assembly. The three Foreign Ministers underlined the need to strengthen multilateralism and agreed to cooperate among themselves and with the UN Secretary General to further UN reform. They agreed to cooperate in international fora and in discussions on multilateral issues. The three Ministers stressed the importance of development agenda in the WTO and renewed their commitment to work together to foster reform in trade in agriculture to ensure access to markets in developing countries. Prime Minister, Brazilian President Lula and President Mbeki of South Africa also met during a dinner hosted by Brazil during the course of the UNGA.

Brazilian Foreign Minister Celso Amorim paid an official visit to India on 20-21 October 2003. An important official and business delegation accompanied him. During the visit, the First Meeting of the India-Brazil Joint Commission on Political, Economic, and Scientific Technical Co-operation was held in New Delhi on 21 October 2003. During the discussions, the External Affairs Minister re-iterated India's offer to launch a Brazilian scientific micro-satellite by an Indian rocket and the sale of India's supercomputer 'Param'. He also underlined the great possibilities for cooperation in the field of infrastructure between the two countries and flagged India's interest to be involved in railway projects being envisaged in Brazil. Various sub-commissions like Sub-Commission on Environment, Science & Technology, Culture, Education, Space, Health, Energy, Agriculture and Sub-Commission on Multilateral Cooperation met under the aegis of the Joint Commission and discussed matters of bilateral as well as multilateral interest.

In 2002, the two way trade between India and Brazil had reached US$ 1.226 billion, an all time record. Bilateral trade during January-September 2003 had reached US$ 873.29 million.

Chile

The official visit of Chile's Minister for External Relations, Ms. Maria Soledad Alvear to India, from 24-27 April 2003, marked a new phase in India's bilateral relations with Chile. It was the first visit by a Chilean Foreign Minister to India in 46 years. This visit, as also the visit to India by the President of the Senate, Mr. Andres Zaldivar, in January 2003, to participate in Indian Parliament's Golden Jubilee celebrations, underlined the priority being attached by Chile to developing closer links with India. The joint statement issued on conclusion of Foreign Minister's visit reaffirmed Chile's support to India on issues of vital importance such as on Jammu and Kashmir, combating international terrorism, and a formal statement of support to India's claim to a permanent seat on the UN Security Council. The holding of the second meeting of senior officials in New Delhi in April carried forward the process of Foreign Office Level Consultation put in place in August 2000. The meeting of the two Foreign Ministers on September 25 in New York on the margins of the UNGA session reinforced bilateral consultations on major international issues including on Iraq, international security, reform of UN systems, etc. India and Chile also maintained close interaction in fora such as the Community of Democracies and the Rio Group. Chile's President, Mr. Ricardo Lagos formally accepted an invitation of India's President and Prime Minister to pay a state visit to India.

A 12-member Indian Parliamentary delegation led by Deputy Speaker, Shri P.M. Sayeed, participated in the International Parliamentary Union (IPU) Conference in Santiago from 6-12 April 2003. The delegation expounded the clear stance of Indian Parliament on the war and conflict in Iraq, and stoutly defended India's legitimate right to establish and sustain a minimum nuclear deterrence.

Bilateral commercial relations grew steadily with exchanges of several business delegations. The signing of a bilateral cooperation agreement on animal health in April 2003 and the exchange of drafts for an Agreement on cooperation between Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR) and Instituto Nacional de Investigacion Agropecuaria (INIA) have set the stage for closer bilateral cooperation in the fields of agriculture and animal husbandry. Similarly drafts of agreements on cooperation in science and technology and space technologies are being finalised. The visit of a delegation of Ministry of Trade and Industry to Santiago initiated the process towards concluding a Preferential Trade Arrangement with Chile.

A Cultural Exchange Programme for the years 2003-05 was signed during the visit of Chile's Foreign Minister to India in April 2003. A Rajasthani folk, dance and music group visited and gave six performances in Santiago, Valparaiso and Rancagua under this Cultural Exchange Programme. The Embassy also participated in an Asia Cultural Week organised by Santo Tomas University in Santiago, by presenting Indian music, dance and cuisine. The Municipality of Rancagua raised a monument to Mahatma Gandhi with a bronze bust donated by ICCR. The Monument was inaugurated by the Mayor of Rancagua and the Deputy Speaker Shri P.M. Sayeed on 10 April 2003. Gandhi Jayanti was celebrated in Santiago, at the India Square dedicated to Mahatma Gandhi, Pandit Nehru and Rabindranath Tagore, at a joint function organised by the Mayor of Providencia and the Indian Mission.

The Mission attended promptly to the consular needs of the Indian community numbering around 1100, and actively involved them in the Socio-Cultural activities of the Mission. A bilateral agreement was also signed in April 2003 waiving visa requirements for diplomatic and official passport holders.

Colombia

Relations with Colombia continued to be warm and trouble free during the year. The momentum generated by a sizeable number of high level visits in 2003-04, including that of the Colombian Foreign Minister Carolina Barco to India in February 2003, continued to positively effect the relations. Colombia has supported the initiation of and the signing of an agreement to establish a mechanism of political consultation and co-operation between India and the Andean Community, which was signed during the visit of the External Affairs Minister to Lima (Perú) in June 2003. Colombia has shown sensitivity to India's concern regarding problems faced by Indian nationals to obtain Colombian visa and has taken action to make amendments in the Colombian law for removing certain statutory requirements and authorising its Embassy to issue visas without prior approval.

ITEC training slots for Colombia were increased from 5 to 15 this year on the basis of good response last year when 16 nominees went to India for training. This year at least 20 are expected to receive training in India. Colombia has also been responding positively to the PCFD courses at FSI and this year two Colombian diplomats have attended the training.

Trade and economic relations between India and Colombia continued to grow during the year. A large number of Colombian companies participated in exhibitions and trade promotion events in India organised by CII and other export promotion councils under the Focus-LAC programme. A six-member business delegation from the Punjab State Small Industries and Export Corporation visited Colombia to promote exports of engineering products from India. A Combined Indian Textiles Exhibition will be organised in Colombia and Ecuador in March 2004. RITES, which owns equity in the Atlantic railway concession of Colombia continued its interest and entered into negotiations with the consortium to extend its involvement for providing advisory & technical services for ten years. Member Planning Commission Shri D. N. Tewari visited Colombia in June 2003 to promote India's participation in projects for fabrication of biofuels in Colombia. With the passing of law in Colombia for obligatory mixing of alcohol in petroleum from 2005, opportunities for Indian companies for technical consultancy and investment have opened up. For the first time India has also got a pavilion in the annual handicrafts fair of Bogotá. Export Promotion Council for Handicrafts organised the participation of six Indian handicrafts companies in the fair held from 5-18 December 2003.

A bust of Mahatma Gandhi donated by ICCR was inaugurated on 10 February 2004 in the grounds of a prominent city library and recreation complex – El Tunal.

Minister of Bilateral Relations Mr Camilo Reyes attended the ceremony. Large numbers of activities were organised during the year under the ambit of the India-Colombia Cultural & Educational Exchange Programme 2002-04. Two Colombian professors of dramatic arts visited the National School of Drama, New Delhi to conduct theatre workshops in reciprocation of the visit of two professors from the National School of Drama to Colombia in August 2003. In addition to the three ICCR troupes visited Colombia in 2003, a 12 member Odissi dance group is participating in the prestigious Iberoamerican theatre festival of Four ICCR troupes visited Colombia this year. In June 2003, a 10-member Kathak group led by Ms Vaswati Mishra performed in various cities. In August 2003, India was special invitee at the first International Music and Dance performances by Bharatnatyam dancers Radhika & Shobhana and a sarod/sitar group led by Ustad Kirit Khan and Sree Gangopadhyay enthralled large audiences.

Ecuador

Relations between India and Ecuador continued to be friendly and warm. Ecuador appointed an Honorary Consul in India and authorised him to provide consular services. Ecuador was also supportive of the initiation of political dialogue between India and the Andean Community. Around ten nominees are expected to receive training in various institutes of India this year under the ITEC programme against the slot of 5.

Central America

India and countries in Central America have traditionally enjoyed good relations despite the challenge imposed by the barriers of geographical distance and language. Roughly equivalent in size to a quarter of Mexico, a total population of about 35 million, GDP in conventional terms amounting to US$ 75 billion (US$ 160 billion in PPP terms), Central American countries have seen the gradual strengthening of democracy and put the civil wars and instability of the past behind them. They are now inching towards integration under the aegis of SICA while simultaneously negotiating FTAs amongst themselves and collectively with countries such as the United States.

India has received positive signals to its expression of interest to develop bilateral and multilateral strategic linkages. Trade figures with the region, though extremely small, in comparative terms with other parts of the world have nevertheless registered a modest increase growing from US$ 103.4 million in 2001-2002 to US$ 117.54 in 2002-2003 – an increase of 14% overall.

9. United Nations & International Organisations

The UN system, its role and relevance in the international order, its efficacy and limitations came under scrutiny during the year. Continuing acts of international terrorism and developments surrounding Iraq overshadowed discussions in the UN and other international organizations. The United Nations launched new Peace Keeping Operations in Liberia and Cote d'Ivoire and maintained its activities in the areas of human rights, socio-economic development, humanitarian activities etc. India continued to play a prominent role in discussions at the UN, and often played a role in building consensus on important questions, while preserving and promoting its interests as a developing country, with a perspective of its own on key international issues.

The 58th Session of the UN General Assembly

The 58th session in September was held in the aftermath of the Iraq war. The impact of unilateral action on the future of multilateralism and the UN was a constant theme that ran through the general debate, in which a large number of world leaders participated. The impression that the UN's role and relevance had been challenged following the unilateral war in Iraq, appeared to have been replaced by a recognition of the limits of unilateralism and a renewed commitment to multilateralism. In this context, there was also an awareness of the need to revisit issues relating to the fundamentals of the international order, to look at new threats and challenges as also the institutions to deal with them and the necessity of reforms in the UN system.

In his speech to the General Assembly, UN Secretary General Kofi Annan emphasized the urgent need to focus on UN reforms and the adequacy and effectiveness of the UN's organs, especially the need for a more representative Security Council. With a view to comprehensively addressing the issue of UN reforms, the Secretary General established a sixteen member High-Level Panel of Eminent Personalities on Global Security, Threats and Reform of the International System. The Panel has been tasked with examining the major threats and challenges the world faces in the broad field of peace and security, including economic and social issues in so far as they relate to peace and security, and making recommendations for the elements of a collective response. Based on the Panel's report, the Secretary General would make recommendations to the 59th session of the General Assembly next year. The 58th session also looked at some practical steps towards UN reform, including revitalisation of the General Assembly and review of the current planning and budgetary processes.

The situation in Iraq was a subject of considerable concern and focus in the 58th session of the General Assembly. Although there were shades of differences and a feeling of uncertainty about the road ahead, there appeared to be a growing recognition in the international community, of the need to empower the Iraqis and to move towards a speedy restoration of Iraqi sovereignty, as also an enlarged role for the UN in this process. The General Assembly also reiterated the importance of combating terrorism. The other major issues that engaged the attention of world leaders were the situations in the Middle East and Afghanistan.

Prime Minister Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee led the Indian delegation to the 58th session and addressed the General Assembly on 25 September 2003. In his speech, the Prime Minister said that the Iraq crisis had emphasized the urgent need for an enlarged and restructured Security Council, with more developing countries as permanent and non-permanent members. Expressing concern for the suffering of the people of Iraq, Prime Minister stressed the imperative need to empower the Iraqi people to determine their own future and the immediate priority of ensuring security, restoring basic infrastructure, and outlining a political roadmap for a representative Iraqi Government. He also reiterated India's continued support for efforts to combat international terrorism. Prime Minister had bilateral meetings with the Heads of State / Government of the United States, Brazil, South Africa, Mauritius, Sri Lanka, Nigeria, Ukraine, Portugal, Afghanistan, Russian Federation, and Zimbabwe. He participated in a meeting with the Presidents of Brazil and South Africa in the context of the India-Brazil-South Africa initiative [IBSA].

External Affairs Minister, Shri Yashwant Sinha accompanied the Prime Minister to the General Assembly session. He had separate bilateral meetings with a large number of his counterparts. These included Foreign Ministers of Algeria, Arab League, Bangladesh, Bulgaria, Chile, Egypt, France, Germany, Iraqi Governing Council, Israel, Mauritius, Myanmar, Palestinian National Authority, Philippines, Romania, Senegal, Spain, Sudan, Sweden, UK and Vietnam. For the first time, the External Affairs Minister met with Foreign Ministers of the Gulf Cooperation Council and of the Rio Group. He participated in two trilateral meetings, one with China and the Russian Federation, and the other with Brazil and South Africa. He also had a separate meeting with UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan. The External Affairs Minister attended meetings of the Non-Aligned Movement, the Group of 77, the Commonwealth, Asia Cooperation Dialogue, and SAARC. He also had extensive interactions with the international and Indian media during his stay in New York.

The General Assembly had a special meeting on 22 September 2003 to review the progress achieved in the implementation of the outcome of the special session on HIV/AIDS. It also held a high-level dialogue on the follow-up to the Monterrey conference on financing for development on 29-30 October 2003. Minister of State for External Affairs, Shri Vinod Khanna participated in the meeting. Minister of State for External Affairs, Shri Digvijay Singh spoke in the General Assembly on 10 December 2003, which commemorated the 55th anniversary of the adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human rights and the 10th anniversary of the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action.

The Security Council

In the year 2003, India participated in 12 open meetings of the Security Council on issues of importance such as the situation between Iraq and Kuwait, Middle East, Afghanistan, Timor-L'este as well as on thematic issues such as threats to international peace and security caused by terrorist acts, women and peace and security, role of the Security Council in the pacific settlement of disputes and protection of civilians in armed conflict.

The Working Group on the question of reform of the Security Council met four times during the year. The Working Group achieved a modest degree of success in discussions on the working methods of the Security Council. There was expectedly no agreement on the core issues pertaining to expansion of the reformed Security Council. India continued to participate actively in the discussions of the Working Group. India's candidature for permanent membership in a reformed Security Council received further expressions of support during the year.

Political Issues

India made statements on all issues of political and strategic importance at the 58th United Nations General Assembly plenary, including Afghanistan, the Question of Palestine, the situation in the Middle East and International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA).

Iraq

India participated in open meetings of the Security Council on the situation between Iraq and Kuwait held on 18 February, 11 March and 26 March 2003. In these statements, India called for an early end to the hostilities and for ensuring that the sovereignty, integrity and secular traditions of Iraq were fully preserved. Underlining the right of the Iraqi people to determine their political future and control their resources, India emphasized the need to secure lasting peace and a stable future for the Iraqi people. India also announced its willingness to fully participate in the reconstruction and rehabilitation of Iraq.

On 27 January 2003, an important report by the Arms Inspectors was placed before the Security Council. Discussions on the need for Iraq's compliance, the report of the Arms Inspectors and further action by the Security Council and the International community continued. By February, the situation pertaining to Iraq had reached crisis proportions and the possibility of military operations against Iraq with or without the UN mandate had become a critical issue. India's position was of commitment to resolution of the problem through the UN and the multilateral process. The situation in Iraq dominated the work of the Security Council throughout the year, which adopted landmark Resolutions 1483, 1500 and 1511. Resolution 1483 of 22 May 2003 granted interim governing powers to the United States and its coalition partners in Iraq, a role for a UN Special Representative working with this coalition and lifting of sanctions imposed on Iraq. India welcomed Resolution 1483, as in its view, the adoption of the resolution enabled the international community to help the long suffering people of Iraq and reaffirmed principles important to India, such as the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iraq; the right of the Iraqi people to freely determine their political future and control their natural resources; the existence, to an extent, of an internationally accepted roadmap for rebuilding Iraq and the involvement of the Secretary General's representative in this process.

Resolution 1500 of 14 August 2003 reaffirmed the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Iraq, welcomed the establishment of the Governing Council of Iraq and set up for an initial period of 12 months, the UN Assistance Mission for Iraq (UNAMI) to coordinate the UN's humanitarian and other activities in Iraq.

Resolution 1511 of 16 October 2003 called on the Coalition Provisional Authority in Iraq to return governing authority to the Iraqi people as soon as practicable and invited the Iraqi Governing Council to provide a timetable for drafting a new constitution and holding of democratic elections by 15 December 2003. India welcomed the unanimous adoption of Resolution 1511 as a positive step towards the restoration of sovereignty to the Iraqi people although it noted that the Resolution lacked specificity regarding the timing of the transfer. It took positive note of the reaffirmation of the right of the Iraqi people to determine their political future as well as the mandate to the Governing Council to draw up a time table for the drafting of a new constitution and holding of democratic elections. Taking note of the appeal in the resolution to UN Member States to assist in reconstruction efforts, the Indian Government reiterated its readiness to contribute to the restoration of infrastructure, medical, health, education, communication and other civilian needs of the Iraqi people.

In early 2004, developments in the UN with regard to Iraq continued to be a major focus of international attention. In February 2004, in response to requests from the CPA and the Iraqi Governing Council for UN involvement in the transitional political process in Iraq, the UN Secretary General dispatched a fact-finding team led by UNSG's Special Advisor, Lakhdar Brahimi, to mainly establish whether elections for a transitional national assembly could be held before the transfer of sovereignty to Iraq on 30 June 2004, and if not, to explore possible alternatives to take the political process forward. The team concluded that while elections were necessary, credible elections could not be held before the end of 2004.

On 17 March 2004, in separate letters to the UNSG, the Iraqi Governing Council and CPA formally invited the UN to play a role in forging a consensus on the setting up of the interim government and providing assistance in ensuring the conduct of direct elections by January 2005. Subsequently, in response, UNSG, with the support of the Security Council dispatched a team led by LakhdarBrahimi to Iraq in early April.

The UN has been engaged in Iraq in a tentative way and it remains to be seen whether this would eventually lead to greater involvement and a more substantive role for the UN in Iraq. It is as yet unclear what role the UN would be able to play in Iraq with regard to transfer of sovereignty, endorsement of the interim government and constitution, the provision of security in terms of setting up of a Multinational Force and in the situation post 30 June 2004. In end March, there was also considerable speculation about the necessity of a new resolution of the UN Security Council to address these issues.

Afghanistan

An issue of critical importance that continued to attract a lively debate pertained to strengthening the triangular relationship between the Security Council, the Secretariat and the Troop Contributing Countries (TCCs). India has played a lead role all along in this debate, which saw the passing of Resolution 1353, and a Note by the President of the Council dated 14 January 2003, envisaging a new mechanism of cooperation and Joint Meetings between the Working Group of the Security Council on PKO's and TCCs. India participated in the open debate held in the Security Council on the situation in Afghanistan on 17 June 2003 to take into account the views of the larger membership, especially on the issue of drugs and its implications on the political process and reconstruction efforts. While highlighting the serious challenge posed to the peace process by drugs and the deteriorating security situation and the need to address them firmly and resolutely, India reiterated its support to international efforts aimed at reconstruction and emergence of Afghanistan as a peaceful, strong, prosperous, united and independent nation.

In the backdrop of increasing concern over the challenges being mounted against the Government of Afghanistan and the process of stabilization and reconstruction, India, at the High level ad-hoc meeting on Afghanistan held on the margins of the UN General Assembly on 24 September 2003, reiterated its strong support to the Afghan Government and its people, to re-establish a strong, independent, sovereign and united Afghanistan, including through bilateral assistance and contribution.

The Security Council unanimously approved resolution 1510 on 13 October 2003, extending the mandate of the International Security Assistance Force for 12 months and authorizing expansion of its mandate to allow it to support the Afghan Transitional Authority and its successors, in the maintenance of security in the areas of Afghanistan outside Kabul.

The Security Council welcomed, as a very significant step, the new Constitution agreed by Afghanistan's Loya Jirga on 4 January 2004. UN Secretary General hailed the "historic achievement" as evidence of the determination of the Afghan people to establish a stable and democratic State. As regards the holding of elections in Afghanistan in June 2004 as originally envisaged in the Bonn Accords, the UN has expressed doubts about the possibility of adhering to the Bonn schedule, in view of the slow pace of voter registration, mainly due to continuing insecurity. Efforts are being made to impart added momentum to the voter registration process so that elections can be held as soon as possible.

Mr. Jean Arnault of France has been appointed as the Special Representative of the Secretary General for Afghanistan, in place of Mr. Lakhdar Brahimi, who has been appointed as the Special Adviser to the Secretary General.

Berlin Conference

To review the progress made since the Bonn Conference and to assess the current situation in Afghanistan, a major International Conference was convened in Berlin, under the UN on 31 March and 1 April 2004. India participated in this Conference and Foreign Secretary Shri Shashank led the Indian delegation. While expressing its concern over the recent surge in incidents of violence and terrorist attacks threatening peace and security in Afghanistan, India reiterated its support and commitment towards the reconstruction and development of Afghanistan. India renewed its financial commitments for Afghanistan's reconstruction, amounting to around US $ 400 million. India also signed the Berlin Declaration, which emphasizes the commitment of the international community towards the reconstruction, development and maintenance of peace and security in Afghanistan.

Middle East

The UN witnessed a contentious debate on a number of issues related to the situation in the Middle East.

The Tenth Emergency Special Session of the General Assembly on the situation in occupied East Jerusalem and the rest of the Occupied Palestinian Territory was reconvened on three separate occasions, on 19 September, 20-21 October and 8 December 2003. At the meeting of 19 September 2003, a resolution demanding that Israel desist from any act of deportation and cease any threat to the safety of the elected President of the Palestinian Authority was adopted. India voted in favour of the resolution.

At the meeting held on 20 October 2003, a resolution was adopted demanding that Israel stop and reverse construction of the "Security Wall" in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including in and around Jerusalem. The resolution requested the Secretary General to report periodically on compliance with the resolution, with the first report on compliance with the demand to cease construction on the wall presented within one month. India voted in favour of the resolution. The meeting on 8 December 2003 was held in the backdrop of Secretary General's report that Israel was not in compliance with the General Assembly's demand that Israel stop and reverse construction of the wall in the Occupied Palestinian Territory. At this meeting, a resolution seeking advisory opinion from the International Court of Justice on the legal consequences arising from the construction of the wall was adopted. India voted in favour of the resolution.

The Security Council unanimously adopted Resolution 1515 on 19 November 2003, which for the first time endorsed the Quartet

Road Map and called on the parties to fulfill their obligations under the Road Map in cooperation with the Quartet, for achieving the vision of two States living side by side in peace and security.

African Issues

The Security Council remained seized of several issues relating to the African continent including conflicts in the Democratic Republic of Congo, Cote d'Ivoire, Liberia, Western Sahara, Sierra Leone, Ethiopia and Eritrea. The Council authorized new peacekeeping missions in Liberia and Cote d'Ivoire and approved extension in the mandates of the other existing missions in the African continent. It also expressed support for regional and sub-regional efforts to bring peace to the areas of conflict.

Terrorism

On the important issue of the threats to international peace and security caused by terrorist acts, India participated in three open meetings of the Security Council, which were held on 4 April, 29 July and 16 October 2003. While reiterating that terrorism was a common foe to all peoples, beliefs and religions as also of democracy, pluralistic societies and peace, India pointed out that the terrorist goal of disrupting normal peaceful functioning of societies including by launching attacks upon places of worship, parliamentary institutions, candidates and voters engaged in democratic electoral processes were tactics employed by externally sponsored terrorists to achieve their political objectives. India underscored the point that the fight against terrorism could be addressed effectively only when all nations, including those that saw a vested interest in encouraging such tendencies, realized that terrorism was a malaise that could strike at will in any part of the world.

In various Joint Working Groups on Terrorism with other countries, India

continued to emphasize that terrorism was a global phenomenon and the fight against terrorism had to be comprehensive and sustained. There could be no double standards in combating terrorism. It could not be ad-hoc, selective or compartmentalized in terms of regions, religions or organizations and there could be no justification for terrorism: religious, political, ideological or any other.

The Counter Terrorism Committee (CTC) established pursuant to Security Council Resolution 1373 followed an active programme of implementation, involving appropriate legislative framework and measures to check financial flows to terrorists. India continued to interact with the CTC. India submitted its third report to the Committee detailing legislative and other counter-measures in place against terrorist activities. During the interactions with the CTC India emphasized that while it attached importance to the work of the Committee, it also felt that the CTC should be clear about its objective of ensuring stricter compliance, rather than mere collection of information. India stressed that the CTC should become more effective and purposive, and needed to go beyond the process of mere reporting, to a more serious examination of the actual actions taken by States in their international counter-terrorism effort.

The Security Council on 17 January 2003 adopted Resolution 1455 to improve the implementation of measures imposed under Security Council Resolutions 1267, 1333 and 1390 against Osama bin Laden, Al-Qaeda, the Taliban and associated entities. India was among the States that submitted their reports to the Al-Qaeda/Taliban Sanctions Committee within the specified time.

Peacekeeping

India continued to be a major troop contributor. It is presently contributing to 11 of the 15 UN peacekeeping operations, providing Infantry Battalions to two of them [UN Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) and UN Mission in Ethiopia and Eritrea (UNMEE)], helicopters with support crew to the UN Organization Mission in the Democratic Republic of Congo (MONUC) and a major civilian police component in the UN Interim Administration Mission in Kosovo (UNMIK). India has also committed, in principle, to contribute to the envisaged UN Peacekeeping Mission in Sudan aimed at facilitating an end to the long-running civil war in Sudan.

The annual session of the Special Committee on Peacekeeping Operations was held in March 2003. Apart from a discussion on the more well-entrenched concepts in peacekeeping such as strengthening cooperation between the troop-contributing countries and the Security Council, rapid deployment, operational planning and integrated mission task forces, the new issues that came to the fore were disarmament, demobilisation and re-integration [DDR] of armed groups, Rule of Law issues, Conduct and Discipline of peacekeepers, the problem of HIV/AIDS, Children and Peacekeeping and issues relating to Peacekeeping Oversight. The concept of 'robust peacekeeping' was broached by the Secretariat. It was emphasised that while consent was still the basic principle under which the UN operated, for a mission to succeed in the changed realities of today, an understanding was required on the need for a robust force, deployed and configured not only to be able to use force but to keep the initiative and, if challenged, to defend itself and the mandate. Such an escalation capability was essential to project credibility. This debate is expected to be taken forward during the discussions on peacekeeping in 2004.

The Centre for UN Peacekeeping (CUNPK), established by the Government of India under the aegis of the United Service Institution of India (USI), with the aim of meeting part of the UN related training requirements and promoting comprehensive exchange and research has been actively engaged in building a data base on peacekeeping, organising national and international Seminars and training capsules for various segments, with participation of nominees from foreign countries. The Government of India is funding some of the nominees from developing countries. Apart from the annual calendar of training events and Seminars this year, a Peacekeeping Command Post Exercise (CPX) was hosted jointly by India and US under the aegis of CUNPK in February. 115 foreign nationals from 16 countries and 35 Indian officers participated in the exercise. In October this year, India also co-hosted with the UN, a training course for Military Observers and Civilian Police from emerging troop-contributing countries at the CUNPK.

In his keynote address at the inaugural session of the National Seminar at the CUNPK on 21 August 2003, the Foreign Secretary emphasized that while India viewed peacekeeping in the traditional sense as a classical UN peacekeeping operation to assist in 'keeping peace' between two conflicting States on their request, India was fully alive to the reality of the changing nature of peacekeeping and the growing complexity and scale of these operations. India was sensitive to the fact that the UN was increasingly involved in complex intra-State conflicts, and UN operations had widened from 'peace keeping' to 'peace enforcement', 'peace building' and management of 'post conflict' situations leading to an increasingly large spectrum of activities. India has also noted that there are varying mandates under which these operations are being undertaken. India's policy on involvement in peacekeeping operations continued to be shaped by a commitment to the UN and its ideals. Within this framework, our response for assistance is based on an assessment of India's overall national interest, taking into account several considerations such as bilateral relations, regional equations, public sentiments, operational aspects and our international profile.

India has a bilateral dialogue on peacekeeping issues with the US and UK. Three India-UK Peacekeeping Seminars have been held so far. The third Seminar was held in Shrivenham, UK from 13-16 October 2003. The objective of these seminars, in the nature of a Joint Working Group, is to develop a better understanding of each other's perspectives on different aspects of both conceptual and operational dimensions of peacekeeping. It is also a forum to exchange views on new developments and emerging challenges in the domain of peacekeeping.

Four meetings of the India-US Joint Working Group on peacekeeping have so far taken place. The fourth meeting was held recently in Washington DC on 1 October 2003. The JWG is not only a forum for exchanging views on policy aspects and operational issues, but also for planning joint activities under CUNPK and identifying institutional cooperation on peacekeeping.

Non-Aligned Movement

The XIII Conference of the Non-Aligned Movement was held at Kuala Lumpur from 20-25 February 2003. Prime Minister Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee led the Indian delegation to the Summit. The theme of the Summit was the 'continuing revitalization of NAM'. In the Conference, India stressed that the Non-Aligned Movement needs to focus on a priority agenda of global themes of contemporary relevance that unites the membership rather than divides it. NAM should adopt a positive and forward looking agenda with emphasis on

- multilateralism,
- reform of the UN system,
- North-South engagement,
- South-South cooperation,
- democracy
- multi-culturalism.

India insisted that the approach and tone of NAM has to be pragmatic. The objective should be to position NAM as a major pole in the multi-polar world. Prime Minister Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee's address and External Affairs Minister, Shri Yashwant Sinha's presentation underlined these aspects. The Conference adopted the Kuala Lumpur Declaration, which reflects many of India's ideas, and proposals.

The Non-Aligned Movement (NAM) participated actively in the Open Meeting of the Security Council on Iraq, convened on 26-27 March 2003. Condemning the unilateral military action in Iraq as a violation of the principles of international law and the UN Charter, NAM asked for an immediate halt to the war. Reiterating its commitment to multilateralism and the fundamental principles of the non-use of force and respect for the sovereignty, territorial integrity and political independence of all States, NAM urged for a speedy and peaceful resolution of the issue through the UN.

The Ministerial meeting of the Non-Aligned Movement was held on the margins of the General Assembly on 26 September 2003. In his statement, the External Affairs Minister underlined the need for a collective approach through multilateral institutions in tackling issues of international peace and security and the UN's central and critical role in the same. He also expressed agreement with UN Secretary General that a comprehensive reform and restructuring of the UN system including the Security Council was an urgent imperative. He reiterated that the menace of terrorism could not be justified on the basis of political, territorial, or ideological arguments.

The NAM Committee on Palestine, of which India is a member, also met at Ministerial level on the sidelines of the 58th session of the General Assembly in New York in September. In keeping with its mandate, the Committee continued to explore measures to further support the rights of the Palestinian people in accordance with international law and the will of the Movement. The Committee also continued to work with all the parties concerned for the achievement of a just, durable and comprehensive peace in the Middle East that would enable the Palestinian people to exercise their rights in freedom and sovereignty in their independent homeland.

In continuation of the constructive role India played in the XIII NAM Summit in Kuala Lumpur in February 2003, India continued to emphasize in relevant forums that if NAM is to be revitalized, it should adopt a contemporary and forward-looking approach, focusing on key issues of common concern - issues that unite rather than divide the 116 member countries. India continued to stress that NAM's objective should be to position itself as a major pole in a multipolar world and to emerge as a collective, pragmatic and serious voice of the South.

The International Conference of New or Restored Democracies

Minister of State for External Affairs, Shri Vinod Khanna led the Indian delegation to the 5th International Conference for New or Restored Democracies. The Conference adopted Ulaanbaatar Declaration and Plan of Action on Democracy, Good Governance and Civil Society. This was yet another step signifying India's commitment to strengthening the process of democratisation worldwide. In his address, Shri Vinod Khanna, while citing the unique example of India as a successful democracy, spoke of the need for strengthening the process of democratic governance and institution building; empowerment of women and the weaker sections by consolidating self-government at the grass roots level. He also urged a concerted approach to tackle the global menace of terrorism that threatened the foundations of democratic societies everywhere. On the Chairman's invitation, India accepted membership of the fifteen-member group of Friends of the Chairman, which has been entrusted to ensure an effective follow-up of the Conference.

The International Conference of the Red Cross and Red Crescent

India participated in the 28th International Conference of the Red Cross and Red Crescent held in Geneva from 2-6 December 2003. The Conference discussed the contemporary challenges posed to the concepts and notions of war and peace, International Humanitarian Law (IHL), the nature of humanitarian activities during conflict, the role of the Red Cross etc., particularly in the wake of recent attacks on the ICRC in Iraq and Afghanistan. There was an acceptance in the Conference that many of these concepts needed a review.

Information activities

The Committee on Information which makes recommendations to the General Assembly on the policy and activities of the Department of Public Information (DPI) held its annual session in April-May 2003. The Department of Information had been heavily criticized by the developed countries, which in the 1990s had sought to close it down as part of the UN reform exercise. Having failed to do so, they continued to seek to pare down its activities and reallocate resources to other departments. Some of the major issues dealt with in the Committee on Information included the goal of achieving a new information order, information support to UN peacekeeping, a UN radio broadcasting capacity, a more efficient UN website, parity in all official languages in the work of the UN and the work of the United Nations Information Centres (UNICs).

Economic and Social Issues

The Economic and Social Council

The substantive session of the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) was held in Geneva from 30 June-25 July 2003. The theme of the high-level segment this year was "Promoting an integrated approach to rural development in developing countries for poverty eradication and sustainable development". The Ministerial declaration adopted at the conclusion of the high-level dialogue recognised the need to make rural development an integral part of national and international development policies, including response strategies of bilateral donors and activities and programmes of the UN system. It also stressed the importance of ensuring full implementation of the Doha Ministerial Declaration of the World Trade Organisation, including the provisions on implementation issues and the operationalisation of provisions relating to the special and differential treatment of the developing countries.

The Council also decided that the theme for the substantive session in 2004 would be "Resource Mobilisation and Enabling Environment for Poverty Eradication in the Context of the Implementations of the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2001-2010".

Environment and Sustainable Development Issues

The Eleventh session of the Commission on Sustainable Development was held in New York from 20 April- 9 May 2003. This was the first meeting of the Commission since the World Summit on Sustainable Development (WSSD) was held in Johannesburg from 26 August - 4 September 2002. The Indian Delegation led by Minister of Environment and Forests, Shri T.R. Baalu emphasized the critical significance of the means of implementation for the developing countries, the importance of the future work programme of the Commission covering all major issues of Agenda 21 and the Johannesburg Plan of Implementation, and the necessity to provide inter-governmental guidance to partnerships in this area.

India participated actively in the negotiations related to the organization of the work of the Commission and its multi-year programme of work. After prolonged negotiations, a cluster approach for the multi-year programme of work was adopted. It was agreed that issues on which the international community had earlier decided on targets would be given priority. The Commission also agreed to a two-year implementation cycle, the first year being a review-year that would focus on developing a broad understanding on the gaps and constraints in the implementation process through dialogue with a broad range of stakeholders while maintaining the intergovernmental character of the Commission. The second year, called the policy year, would take decisions on how to overcome obstacles and constraints in the implementation process.

A major achievement of the Commission on Sustainable Development was the inter-governmental agreement on a set of criteria and guidelines on partnerships. India worked with other leading developing countries with the Group of 77 as well as with other delegations for the finalization of the guidelines on partnerships.

Convention against Corruption

An Ad-hoc Inter-Governmental Committee has been negotiating an International Convention against Corruption in Vienna with the intention to adopt a comprehensive and multi-disciplinary instrument against corruption. The Ad-hoc Committee derived its mandate from a decision of the UN General Assembly. The importance of the Convention lies in its aim to provide an international legal framework that is facilitative in its attempt to return wealth illegally acquired through corruption back to the country of origin, while also providing a preventive framework as well as enforcement measures to guard and combat against corruption. India actively participated in the negotiating process and chaired the Open Ended Expert Group that laid down the terms of reference for negotiations by the Ad-hoc Committee.

India provided a moderating voice in the negotiating process to bridge the developing versus developed countries divide that surfaced during the negotiations wherein the former were requiring obligatory provisions in the convention for the return of assets generated through corruption and parked in safe havens abroad and the latter demanding obligatory provisions for effective preventive measures and good governance mechanisms in the concerned country. India also focussed on the need for international co-operation to combat trans-national aspects of corruption including transfer of funds and their repatriation to countries of origin without political pre-conditionality.

The Ad-hoc Committee successfully negotiated the conclusion of this instrument in October 2003 in Vienna, which was adopted by the UNGA in its 58th session in October 2003. A three-day conference was held in Merida, Mexico from 9-11 December 2003 for signing the Convention against Corruption. The Indian delegation to this conference was led by the then Minister of State for Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions, Shri Harin Pathak,

Social, Human Rights and Humanitarian Issues

Close coordination and interaction continued to retain its high priority within the domain of India's interactions with the various human rights organizations and bodies within the UN system. The Permanent Missions of India in Geneva and New York played an active role in the deliberations of the Commission for Human Rights in Geneva as well as the Third Committee in the United Nations General Assembly in New York. Proceedings of the related UN bodies such as the Sub-Commission for the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights, Working Group on Minorities, Working Group on Contemporary Forms of Slavery, Working Group on Indigenous People, various treaty bodies and special procedure entities, were closely followed. An active and balancing role was adopted in the multilateral fora for discussions on all aspects of human rights. As a party to various international covenants, conventions and declarations on human rights, India continued to claim a major stakeholder role in this important global deliberative process.

In keeping with its stature as the largest democracy, India's approach in these fora was guided by its commitment to the rule of law, the values of freedom, justice, pluralism and tolerance and respect for human rights as enshrined in its Constitution and international human rights instruments. In its statements, India projected the concerns of, and challenges faced by developing countries while reaffirming the principles of universality and indivisibility of human rights. It also called for depoliticisation of human rights debates and reiterated its conviction that national capacity building and dialogue were the most effective means of promoting human rights. India also monitored closely developments relating to standard setting in the field of human rights.

India's participation in the 59th session of the Commission on Human Rights held from 17 March - 25 April 2003 was marked by proactive engagement on substantive issues and facilitation of consensus on contentious issues. India refrained from aligning itself with any 'coalitions' and its engagement with delegations across the board was issue based. India made statements under all major agenda items, which were well received and appreciated. India cosponsored a large number of resolutions during the session and participated in negotiations on all major resolutions and other initiatives.

Foreign Secretary led the Indian delegation to the 60th Session of the Commission on Human Rights (CHR) in Geneva (15 March-23 April 2004). He addressed the High Level Segment of the Session on 18 March. In his address, he highlighted the strength and achievement of secular and pluralistic Indian democracy as guarantor of human rights. Foreign Secretary stressed that human rights cannot be used as instruments of foreign policy and commended the report of the Acting High Commissioner for advocating in his Report that the struggle against poverty should remain at the forefront of the human rights agenda. Mentioning that CHR owed a special responsibility to recognize and address the rights of the victims of terrorism, he underlined the need to effectively fight terrorism internationally without compromising rule of law and human rights. He underscored the need for national capacity building in promoting and protecting human rights and pointed out the role of technical cooperation and advisory services in this regard.

In keeping with its consistent position that the human rights agenda cannot be used for furthering narrow political and foreign policy objectives, India firmly rejected and exposed Pakistan's attempts to use the Commission for its anti-India propaganda at the Sessions.

India also strongly refuted Pakistan's allegations and referred to its own record in democracy and human rights.

India's second periodic report on the Convention on the Rights of the Child was considered by the UN Committee on the Rights of the Child at its session in January 2004. The 8th Annual Meeting of Asia Pacific Forum of National Human Rights Institutions (APF) was held in Kathmandu from 16-18 February 2004. National human rights institutions from twelve countries, which are members of APF, attended the Meeting including NHRC from India. Government of India was represented by the Ministry of External Affairs.

India's re-election to the Commission on Human Rights for the period 2004-2006 was a vindication of its long-standing and multifaceted contribution to human rights within the UN system. India will discharge its responsibilities in this body during its next term with seriousness and sense of purpose.

Within the domain of discussions on alternative approaches for improving the enjoyment of human rights, a wide number of issues such as human rights and terrorism, human rights and democracy, elimination of all forms of religious intolerance, right to development, human rights education, human rights and responsibilities were carefully monitored so as to keep the process balanced and rational from the perspective of developing countries.

India participated actively in the second meeting of the Adhoc Committee on a Comprehensive and Integral International Convention on Promotion and Protection of the Rights and Dignity of Persons with Disabilities held in June, 2003 and was chosen as a member of the Working Group of the Adhoc Committee set up to elaborate on a legal instrument.

A number of eminent Indians continued to serve with distinction as members of important Treaty Monitoring Bodies and human rights mechanisms. These include Shri P.N. Bhagwati (Member of the Human Rights Committee), Mrs. Chokila Iyer

(Member, Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights), Shri Arjun Sengupta (Independent expert on the Right to Development and former member of Planning Commission), Shri R.V. India highlighted its historical commitment to humanitarian traditions of refugee hosting, asylum and protection since independence. In its interactions with the UNHCR, India articulated issues of particular concern to developing countries which host the bulk of refugees today such as the need to address the phenomenon of massive and mixed refugee flows, international burden sharing and responsibility in the context of abject poverty and deprivation around the globe, enhancement of the capacities of developing countries and the link between humanitarian assistance and long-term development as key inputs for preventive strategies for refugee protection. India also reiterated its consistent position that durable solutions can only be based on the consent of concerned member states, and therefore, where bilateral processes are underway, these should be given their full chance to succeed.

Specialised Bodies

Operational activities of the UN development system

India continued to play an important role in the work of the UN funds and programmes. India resumed its membership of the executive boards of the UN Development Programme [UNDP]/UN Fund for Population Activities [UNFPA] in 2003. The Declaration recognizes that tolerance is a fundamental value that is common to all civilizations and this includes respect for others. It underlines the importance of crucial role that education can play in promoting understanding between different civilizations. Education, the Declaration further states is necessary to develop communities and societies rooted in principles of democracy, justice and respect for human rights. The New Delhi Declaration urges governments to take full and effective measures to ensure that educational institutions are protected from teachings that promote extremism, intolerance and violence. A very significant aspect of the Declaration is the reaffirmation that all acts of terrorism represent attack against humanity, as the killing of innocent civilians in order to spread terror is despicable to the values of all civilizations. The Delhi Declaration also gives importance to science as a powerful source of social and economic transformation and the role of information and communication technologies in enhancing inter-cultural communication leading to greater understanding between civilizations. The Executive Board of UNESCO later endorsed the New Delhi Declaration adopted at this Conference.

Group of 77

Foreign Ministers of Mauritius, Nepal, Indonesia, Costa Rica, Iran, Benin, Malawi, Thailand and China attended the meeting. In his statement, the External Affairs Minister outlined the difficulties faced by the developing countries in the current global economic situation and stressed the importance of achieving greater equity in international economic relations and ensuring a greater voice for developing countries in the decision-making structures in international trade, monetary and financial institutions. While expressing disappointment that the Fifth Ministerial Meeting at Cancun failed to produce an agreement that would have addressed the interests and concerns of developing countries, he emphasized the need for developing countries to retain their unity of purpose and solidarity as demonstrated at Cancun. He also emphasized the need to strengthen UNCTAD and enhance its capacity to assist developing countries and enable it to play an important role in integrating the development dimension into the international legal framework and rules on trade. The Ministerial meeting elected Qatar as the Chairman of the Group of 77 for the year 2004 and admitted Timor L'Este as the 135th member of the G-77. The meeting adopted a Ministerial Declaration.

The meeting of the Heads of State/Government of the member countries of the Group of 77 (G-77), who met in Cuba in April 2000 on the occasion of the first-ever South-South Summit, decided to convene a conference on South-South Cooperation in the year 2003. As the Chair of G-77, Morocco hosted this meeting entitled 'the High-Level Conference on South-South Cooperation' in Marrakesh from 16-19 December 2003. significance to India, given the importance India attaches to South-South cooperation and the proactive role that it plays in this area. The meeting took stock of the progress on the Havana Programme of Action which issued from the Havana Summit and which laid down the practical roadmap for South-South cooperation. India has been proactive both bilaterally and through regional groupings and its record of implementation is notable. Besides this, India is also at this moment, on the threshold of a major policy initiative in terms of its programme of development aid to other countries in the South.

On behalf of the UN, Ms. Frechette delivered the keynote address at the 6th Asian Security Conference on the theme 'International Security, Multilateralism and the United Nations' organized by the Institute for Defence Studies and Analyses (IDSA). She also had meetings with leaders, senior officials and the heads of the UN agencies in India.

Disarmament

India's commitment to non-discriminatory and universal nuclear disarmament and the global elimination of all Weapons of Mass Destruction continued to be reflected in its policy pronouncements and diplomatic initiatives. The country's stand on issues related to disarmament and international security in various multilateral and regional forums was premised on India's national security interests and its tradition of close engagement with the international community to promote cooperative efforts at addressing these challenges.

Bilateral dialogues with key countries commenced after May 1998 continued to be pursued this year. Harmonisation of India's national imperatives and security obligations with international concerns on non-proliferation and disarmament also progressed steadily. On the regional level, India's participation in the confidence and security building process and structure under the ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF) acquired greater momentum. India also participated in the meetings of Conference on Interaction and Confidence Building Measures in Asia (CICA) during the year.

Regular contact was maintained with key international and non-governmental organisation active in the field of disarmament with a view to disseminating the Indian perspectives on disarmament issues. Enquiries from Members of Parliament on all relevant developments were also responded to and due information brought to the attention of the Parliament.

ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF)

India took part in the work of the ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF) through participation in the various meetings organised under the aegis of the ARF, including the first Inter-Sessional Meeting on Counter-Terrorism and Transnational Crimes (ISM on CT-TC) held in Sabah, Malaysia on 30-31 March 2003, the ARF Senior Officials' Meeting held in Phnom Penh in April 2003 which took stock of the developments and prepared for the ARF Ministerial Meeting in June; Workshop on 'Consequence Management' organized by Australia and Singapore from 3-5 May 2003 in Darwin, Australia and the Inter-sessional Support Group Meeting on Confidence Building Measures (ISG on CBMs) held in Beijing from 20-22 November 2003.

The 10th ARF Ministerial meeting was held in Phnom Penh on 17-18 June 2003. The External Affairs Minister led the Indian delegation. The issue of terrorism and terrorist threat to the region as a whole continued to dominate the ARF agenda. The Ministers deliberated on ways and means to increase practical cooperation among member states in this respect and adopted a 'Statement on Cooperative Counter-Terrorist Actions on Border Security' as well as a Statement on 'Cooperation Against Piracy and Other Threats to Maritime Security'. The External Affairs Minister in his intervention emphasized the need for concerted fight against global terrorism without any double standards or equivocation and underlined the potential risks in its linkages with WMD proliferation.

India hosted the 7th Annual Meeting of the ARF Heads of National Defence Colleges/ Institutions in New Delhi from 15-17 October 2003. India's offer to host this meeting had been endorsed by the ARF Ministers at 10th ARF meeting. More than 40 participants from 18 ARF member states attended the meeting, and were highly appreciative of the presentations made and the organisation as well as the content of the Annual Meeting.

United Nations General Assembly (UNGA)

India continued to play an active role on disarmament issues in the First Committee of the UN General Assembly. At the 58th Session of the First Committee, in recognition of the widely shared concern of the international community about the heightened dangers posed by the risk of terrorists getting access to weapons of mass destruction, India's resolution on "Measures to Prevent Terrorists from Acquiring Weapons of Mass Destruction", was adopted once again unanimously. India had first tabled this resolution at the 57th Session of the UNGA.

India reiterated commitment to its principled stand on global nuclear disarmament based on the firm conviction that progressively lower levels of armaments globally and imaginative control over them will guarantee undiminished security for all. India's Resolution on "Convention on the Prohibition of the Use of Nuclear Weapons" which was first introduced in 1982, calls upon the Conference on Disarmament to commence negotiations on an international convention prohibiting the use or threat of use of nuclear weapons under any circumstances, as a first step towards reducing the salience of nuclear weapons.

India's Resolution on "Reducing Nuclear Danger", first introduced in 1998, calls for the review of nuclear doctrines and immediate and urgent steps to reduce the risk of unintentional and accidental use of nuclear weapons.

India's resolution 'Role of Science and Technology in the Context of International Security and Disarmament', highlighted the qualitative aspects of the arms race, and the need for a genuinely multilateral and non-discriminatory response. India has maintained that technology denial to responsible States does not serve the objectives of non-proliferation but only signals a punitive intent. All these resolutions were adopted by a good majority as in previous years.

Conference on Disarmament (CD)

The Conference on Disarmament, the 'sole multilateral disarmament treaty negotiating body', held three sessions during 2003 at Geneva on 20 January - 28 March, 12 May- 27 June and 28 July-10 September. India held the rotational Presidency of the CD during the first four weeks of the First Session this year. India assumed the Presidency of the Conference on Disarmament from 1 January to 14 February 2003 on the basis of rotation among the 66 members of the CD. The last time India had held the Presidency of CD was in 1994. On this occasion, the then Foreign Secretary Shri Kanwal Sibal addressed the plenary meeting of the CD on 23 January 2003. In his statement, he focussed on the dimension of international terrorism as a threat to global security and highlighted the linkages between terrorism and weapons of mass destruction. He reiterated India's commitment to negotiations on nuclear disarmament, including Fissile Material Cut-Off Treaty and for prevention of an arms race in outer space. India also underlined its support to the cross-group initiative of the five ambassadors, made in 2002 for removing the existing deadlock on the programme of work.

India also actively participated in the deliberations on various proposals to end the impasse in the CD over adoption of a Programme of Work. (The CD has been unable to adopt a Programme of Work since 1999 due to the lack of consensus on the mandates for various Ad-hoc Groups to be set up on various agenda items.)

United Nations Disarmament Commission (UNDC)

The Substantive Session of the UNDC in 2003 was held from 31 March- 17 April 2003 in New York. The UNDC had commenced consideration in 2000, as part of a three year cycle, of two subjects: (a) ways and means to achieve nuclear disarmament and (b) practical confidence building measures in the field of conventional arms. The 2003 Session was devoted to consideration of these two subjects. India participated actively in the deliberations on both the subjects. The session however, failed to reach consensus on substantive recommendations on either of the two subjects and adopted a procedural report containing annexes of documents on nuclear disarmament and confidence building measures.

International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA)

The 47th Session of General Conference of the IAEA was held from 16-20 September 2003. The Indian delegation was led by Dr. Anil Kakodkar, Chairman, Atomic Energy Commission. As in the past few years, the most important issues were the resolutions on strengthening of safeguards and that relating to transport safety. Under the Chairmanship of the Indian Ambassador, the resolution on transport safety obtained consensus in record time. India also endeavored to maintain a balanced approach in the General Conference resolution on 'safeguards' for all the Member States of the Agency without discrimination.

An international conference on Innovative Technologies for Nuclear Fuel Cycles and Nuclear Power was held by IAEA in end-June 2003 in which a high-level delegation from India, including Dr. R. Chidambaram, Principal Scientific Advisor and several other scientists participated. India contributed to IAEA's efforts to locate and secure orphaned radioactive sources and towards concluding an International Code of Conduct on Radioactive Sources.

Chemical Weapons Convention

India continued to play an active role at the Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons (OPCW) at The Hague during the year. India is an original State Party to the Chemical Weapons Convention (CWC). India played a key role at the successful First Review Conference of the States Parties to the CWC at The Hague (28 April – 9 May 2003) and made substantial contributions towards the finalization of both the Political Declaration and the Final Report of the Review of the Operation of the CWC by the Review Conference. India effectively engaged in the deliberations and decision-making during the Eighth Conference of States Parties from 20-24 October 2003 and highlighted all issues of concern to us and to other developing countries.

India continued to fulfil all its commitments under the Convention. Having declared possession of chemical weapons to the OPCW in 1997, India's destruction efforts, under OPCW inspection, have been proceeding according to the destruction timelines established in the Convention, with the OPCW having duly taken note of the destruction plans. During the year, India received inspections from the Technical Secretariat of OPCW at different facilities and these have been conducted in a smooth manner.

Biological and Toxin Weapons Convention

The Resumed Session of the Fifth Review Conference of the States Parties to the Biological (Bacteriological) and Toxin Weapons Convention (BWC) in November 2002 had decided to hold three Annual Meetings of the States Parties of one week duration each in 2003, 2004 and 2005, leading up to the Sixth Review Conference to be held not later than the end of 2006. It had also decided that each Annual Meeting was to be prepared by a two week Meeting of Experts. The First Annual Meeting of States Parties to the BWC was held at Geneva on 10-14 November 2003 to discuss and promote common understanding and effective action on (i) the adoption of necessary national measures to implement the prohibitions set forth in the Convention, including the enactment of penal legislation; and (ii) national mechanisms to establish and maintain the security and oversight of pathogenic micro organisms and toxins.

It was prepared by a Meeting of Experts in Geneva from 18-29 August 2003. India participated in the deliberations at both the Meeting of Experts and the Meeting of the States Parties. India reiterated its firm commitment to implement the provisions of the BWC and to combat bio-terrorism and informed the participants about the national measures adopted by it to implement the prohibitions set forth in the Convention, including the enactment of penal legislation and legislative and other mechanisms to establish and maintain the security and oversight of pathogenic micro organisms and toxins.

Convention on Certain Conventional Weapons

India is a High Contracting Party to the Convention on Prohibitions Or Restrictions on the Use of Certain Conventional Weapons Which may be Deemed to be Excessively Injurious or to Have Indiscriminate Effects (CCW) and has ratified all its protocols including the Amended Protocol II on prohibitions or restrictions on the use of Mines, booby traps and other devises. India chaired the Meeting of the States Parties to the Convention on Certain Conventional Weapons (CCW), which was held in Geneva from 27-28 November 2003. The meeting adopted by consensus a new Protocol on Explosive Remnants of War (ERW), which would be annexed to the Convention on CCW as Protocol V. As Chairman, India played a crucial role in developing consensus on a draft Protocol and India's role was appreciated by the States Parties.

The Annual Meeting of the States Parties to the Amended Protocol II to the Convention on CCW on prohibitions or restrictions on the use of mines, booby traps and other devises was also held at Geneva on 26 November 2003. India informed the Meeting about the steps taken by it to implement the provisions of Amended Protocol II and its commitment to the vision of a world free of landmines. India also contributed to the efforts to review the continuing operation and further development of the UN Register of Conventional Arms. The scope of the Register was expanded to include Man-Portable Air Defence Systems (MANPADS).

Small Arms and Light Weapons

India is acutely aware of the problem of proliferation of and illicit trafficking in small arms and remains committed to participating actively in international search for effective solutions, including the implementation of the Programme of Action (PoA) adopted at the UN Conference on Illicit Trafficking in Small Arms and Light Weapons in All Its Aspects, held in July 2001.

The first Biennial Meeting of the States to consider the implementation of the UN Programme of Action to Prevent, Combat and Eradicate the Illicit Trade in Small Arms and Light Weapons in All Its Aspects at the National, Regional and Global levels was held in New York from 7-11 July, 2003. The primary focus of this meeting was on the implementation of the PoA by States at the national level. The meeting also provided an opportunity to take stock of the progress achieved so far. India submitted a Report on implementation of the UN Programme of Action to the Biennial Conference and appraised it of the comprehensive system of regulatory policies and practices established in India relating to small arms and light weapons. India reiterated its commitment to remain constructively engaged in the international efforts to address the problem of illicit trade in small arms and light weapons.

India's Permanent Representative to the Conference on Disarmament chaired the Group of Governmental Experts on Tracing and Marking of Illicit Small Arms and Light Weapons, established by the UN Secretary

General pursuant to the Resolution 56/24 V of the UN General Assembly. The Group of Governmental Experts, in their Report submitted to the UN Secretary General for presentation to 58th Session of the UN General Assembly, recommended by consensus that it was both desirable and feasible to develop an international instrument to enable States to identify and address in a timely and reliable manner illicit small arms and light weapons. Contribution of India in chairing the Group was appreciated by the UN Secretary General. The 58th session of the General Assembly has endorsed the recommendation of the Group and the work on this issue is likely to commence in the next year.

Outer Space Affairs

The 46th Session of the UN Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space (UN COPUOS) was held in Vienna from 11-20 June 2003. This session apart from a general exchange of views on space matters, the Committee deliberated on implementation of recommendations of UNISPACE-III, ways and means of maintaining outer space for peaceful purposes, issues of space debris and the international system for search and rescue. The Committee saw a live demonstration of satellite-based telemedicine. The Committee also reviewed and endorsed the reports of the 40th session of the Scientific and Technical Sub-Committee and the 42nd Session of the Legal Sub-Committee, which had held their meetings earlier. India actively participated in the deliberations of the Committee projecting and promoting its objectives; highlighting the achievement of its Space Programme and innovative Space Applications like Telemedicine and Disaster Management.

these meetings, where discussions on the future Catalogue of Confidence Building Measures, CICA Rules of Procedure and Statute of the CICA Secretariat took place. Discussions on these documents would continue and they are likely to be finalised by the time of the meeting of Foreign Ministers of CICA scheduled for late 2004.

India-Brazil-South Africa (IBSA) Dialogue Forum

At the invitation of the External Affairs Minister, Foreign Ministers of Brazil, Mr. Celso Amorim, and South Africa Dr. Nkosazana Dlamini-Zuma participated in the First meeting of the Trilateral Commission of the IBSA Dialogue Forum held in New Delhi from 4-5 March 2004. The IBSA Dialogue Forum was established in June 2003, when the three Foreign Ministers met in Brasilia and adopted the Brasilia Declaration. The Brasilia Declaration covers the entire range of issues of concern in the bilateral and multilateral context and, inter alia, provides for regular political consultations on international agenda items, exchange of information on areas of mutual cooperation so as to coordinate positions on issues of common interest as well as establishment of a Trilateral Commission. This First meeting of the Trilateral Commission marked a watershed in the evolution of IBSA Dialogue Forum.

The three Foreign Ministers adopted the New Delhi Agenda for Cooperation and Plan of Action. The Agenda for Cooperation provides for cooperation and coordination among the three countries in various multilateral forums dealing with trade, economic, political, social, environmental and security issues with a view to highlight the concerns of the developing countries. The Ministers also reaffirmed the commitment to work together in various forums to ensure that globalisation benefits developing countries and becomes a positive force for sustained economic growth.

The meeting emphasised that trilateral cooperation among the three countries could serve as an important tool for achieving the promotion of social and economic development. With this view, discussions for promoting trilateral cooperation in various sectors were also held. The sectors covered include Health, S&T, IT, Civil Aviation and Shipping Links, Tourism, Trade and Investment, Infrastructure, Defence, Education and Energy. The Plan of Action adopted by Ministers details the specific action points agreed upon for promoting trilateral cooperation in these sectors in a timely and focussed manner.

The three countries had earlier agreed to set up an IBSA Funding Facility under UNDP auspices for undertaking projects in other developing countries for alleviation of poverty and hunger. These projects would be based on the best practices of India, Brazil and South Africa. At the Trilateral Commission meeting, the Guidelines for Operationalising this Facility were also approved by the Foreign Ministers. External Affairs Minister also announced the decision of the Government to make a financial contribution of US$100,000 for the Facility.

The next meeting of the Trilateral Commission will be held in South Africa in the first quarter of 2005.

International Law and Developments

Elections

India was elected to the Governing Council of the UNIDROIT, an inter-governmental organization in the field of private international law. Indian candidate Mr. Biswanth B. Sen, Senior Advocate, Supreme Court of India was re-elected to the Governing Council, securing 45 of 55 valid votes as the Indian representative in the elections held in Rome on 28 November 2003.

Sixth (Legal) Committee of the UN General Assembly

During the 55th General Assembly Session, the Sixth Committee considered several agenda items including the Establishment of the International Criminal Court, Report of the Special Committee on the Charter of the United Nations and the strengthening the role of the Organisation; Measures to Eliminate International Terrorism; Convention on Jurisdictional Immunities of States and their Property and United Nations Programme of Assistance in Teaching.

External Affairs Minister Shri Yashwant Sinha with Celso Amorim, Minister of External Relations, Brazil and Nkosazana-Dlamini Zuma, Foreign Minister, South Africa at the India-Brazil-South Africa Trilateral Meeting in Brasilia, June 6, 2003

The Rome Statute for the establishment of an International Criminal Court entered into force on 1 July 2002 and the Court started its work on 1 July 2002, at the Hague. The election for judges of the Court was held at the UN Headquarters, New York, from 3-7 February 2003. Eighteen Judges were elected. In addition the Prosecutor of the Court was also elected. A Working Group is presently considering the elements of the crime of aggression.

The Special Committee on the Charter of the United Nations and on the Strengthening of the Role of the Organizations considered several proposals relating to: maintenance of international peace and security; peaceful settlement of disputes between states; the Trusteeship Council; coordination with other committees etc. concerning the maintenance of international peace and security, in particular with regard to assistance to third States adversely affected by sanctions. India's stand over the years has been that the Security Council should hold the primary responsibility towards the affected third States, as a part of the sanctions imposing decisions. The Council should establish a 'Trust Fund' for that purpose based on the scale applicable to the peacekeeping operations as well as the voluntary contributions.

The Ad Hoc Committee and the Working Group of the Sixth Committee on Terrorism continued their consideration of the Draft Comprehensive Convention on International Terrorism proposed by India. Discussions were mainly focused on the outstanding issues especially on the exclusion clause (Article 18) and on the definition of offences (Article 2). The Committee decided to continue its efforts to resolve the outstanding issues through the Ad hoc Committee during its meeting from 26 June

- 2 July 2004. A decision was also taken by the Sixth Committee to continue the work of the enlargement of the Scope of the Convention on Safety of the United Nations and Associated Personnel, including a Protocol.

Having successfully adopted the draft provisions on Jurisdictional Immunities of States and their Property, the Sixth Committee decided to reconvene an Ad Hoc Committee to formulate a preamble and final clauses with a view to completing a Convention on Jurisdictional Immunities of States and their Property.

The Sixth Committee decided, after a vote, that the item entitled "International Convention Against the Reproductive Cloning of human Beings" should be included in the provisional agenda of the 60th session of the General Assembly. The decision was mainly aimed at avoiding a decision on the Costa Rican proposal cosponsored by more than 85 countries to evolve a mandate for a convention to ban "all forms of cloning".

International Humanitarian Law

This Division participated in the 28th International Conference of the Red Cross and Red Crescent, which adopted an agenda for action for protecting human dignity in the areas relating to the fate of missing in situations of armed conflict and armed violence, strengthening the protection of civilians from indiscriminate use and effects of weapons, minimizing the impact of disaster through the implementation of disaster risk reducing measures and reducing the risk of impact of diseases like HIV/AIDS.

Oceans and Law of the Sea

The work under this item in the UN General Assembly aims to ensure sustainable development of oceans, sustainable fisheries, conservation and management of oceans, ensuring maritime safety and protection of marine ecosystems.

At the 55th Session, the UN General Assembly considered two draft resolutions, which made recommendations that would impact beneficially on both the safety of navigation and the protection of marine environment. Adopting the resolution relating to sustainable fisheries, by consensus, the world body called on all States to become parties to the Convention, while reaffirming the importance attached to the long-term conservation, management and sustainable use of the marine living resources of the world oceans and seas. India acceded to this Convention on 19th August 2003. It has been decided to establish an Assistance Fund under Part VII of the 1995 Fish Stocks Agreement to assist developing countries in the implementation of the Agreement. The flag and port States have been urged to take all measures consistent with international law to prevent the operation of sub-standard vessels and illegal, unreported and unregulated fishing activities.

In the draft resolution on "Oceans and the Law of the Sea", main focus is put on the resource management and capacity building matters, which remained a significant impediment to the full implementation of the Convention in many areas.

India's statement on this agenda item has highlighted for assistance to developing states in acquiring knowledge and skills for the preparation of claim submissions on the outer limits of continental shelf beyond 200 nautical miles. India has expertise on the assessment and mapping of the continental shelf, and was willing to extend cooperation in training developing countries for that purpose. Further, we have expressed concern with regard to the increase in incidence of crimes at sea including acts of terrorism against shipping, while recognizing the importance of regional cooperation to combat piracy.

Piracy

This Division participated in the development of a Regional Cooperation Agreement on the Prevention and Suppression of Piracy and Armed Robbery in Asia. The draft regional agreement has been finalized. The important function of the Agreement is to encourage cooperation amongst the Contracting Parties in their efforts to prevent and suppress piracy and armed robbery. Cooperation includes providing mutual legal assistance and

11. Investment and Trade Promotion

The ITP Division published a booklet “India 2003-04 Reliable Business Partner-Attractive FDI Destination”. This publication contains comprehensive information on the competitive advantages of India for foreign investors and business. It has been published in several languages including Japanese, Chinese, Spanish, French, German, Italian, Arabic, and Russian. The CD ROMs in different languages containing the same information were also made. Both the books and CD ROMs were distributed to all the Missions and also at the Investment Promotion and Business Events held in India and abroad.

The Division participated actively in the meetings of Foreign Investment Promotion Board, Reserve Bank of India and other policy meetings contributing to reforms and liberalization of the economy and investment procedures. It took active part in Governmental and non-Governmental meetings on Energy issues. The Division has been advocating that India should acquire petroleum and gas assets abroad for strategic energy security.

The Division interacted with Export Promotion Councils, Trade and Industry bodies, Commerce Ministry and the Missions for promotion of India's exports. It has been decided to sign a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) providing support of the Ministry of External Affairs for the organization of their Annual Partnership Summits.

The Division supported the efforts of the Ministry of Commerce in organizing interactive sessions between Commercial Representatives of select west European countries with Indian business and industry in Chennai, Bangalore, Mumbai and Delhi in January 2004.

The Division supported FICCI in the organization of “Made in Pakistan” exhibition held in New Delhi in March 2004.

The Division has been highlighting to the media and the business community in India and abroad of the importance being attached by the Ministry of External Affairs to economic diplomacy to promote India's economic and commercial interests. As part of this, the Missions are being encouraged to be pro-active in the promotion of India's economic and commercial interest.

A new website devoted exclusively for the economic and commercial aspects of India's diplomacy is being set up. This would give comprehensive information for global investors and businessmen about the opportunities in India.

As part of the new policy of active Promotion foreign investment into India, the Division organized Investment Promotion Seminars in Taipei and Tokyo in collaboration with Indian Missions, the investment promotion agencies of host countries and the private sector of India as well as the Department of Industrial Planning and Promotion. The Division is planning to organize a number of events in 2004 in other business capitals of the world.

12. Policy Planning and Research

Policy Planning

The Policy Planning & Research Division serves as a nodal point for interaction with the National Security Council Secretariat (NSCS) formerly known as the Joint Intelligence Committee (JIC), the University Grants Commission (UGC) and its affiliates and the Area Study Centres (ASC) located in various universities and specializing in research on various regions of the world.

The Division extended financial assistance to various academic institutions/think tanks located in different parts of the country for holding conferences, seminars, undertaking study/research projects, preparation of research papers, exchange of scholars and support for Track-II programmes on issues related to India's external relations and security. A list of seminar/conferences/meetings/study projects organized/undertaken by institutions/NGOs partly funded by the Policy Planning and Research Division is at Appendix-XII. The seminars, conferences and research projects funded by the Division covered themes such as International private law issues, affecting the NRIs, Military action against Iraq and opportunities and challenges for India in the post-war Iraq, India-ASEAN relations, Central Asia's Security concerns and its implications for India, Peaceful uses of atomic energy, Globalization and India, Himalayan Studies in the 21st century, India and New Europe, Broader Economic and Political Trends in Asia, Bio-Terrorism and Bio-Defence, Discourse of Pakistan-occupied Kashmir, Economic Cooperation between CIS-East Europe and India, Comprehensive Security, India and the emerging Asia, India's Nuclear Diplomacy after Pokhran-II, India-Australia Joint Study for drawing up a Road map for strategic partnership and, India's bilateral relations with countries like China, Australia, Russia, Sri Lanka, Yugoslavia, Canada and South Korea. Financial support was also extended to an Indian scholar attending a conference in New Zealand.

The MEA-JNU Joint Seminar was also revived with the holding of the Joint Seminar on India and Emerging Asia on 23 March 2004 at Sapru House. The Foreign Secretary inaugurated the seminar and delivered the inaugural address. This was followed by an opening session on Emerging Asia: Security and Identity in which presentations on key issues of security in Asia were made by eminent professors from Jawaharlal Nehru University.

The Policy Planning Division also undertook the work of preparation and issue of the Monthly letter by External Affairs Minister to Heads of Missions/Posts covering developments of importance concerning India and its foreign relations.

The Indian Council of World Affairs (ICWA) was declared as an institution of national importance and taken over by the Government through an ordinance promulgated in September 2000, later replaced by the ICWA Act 2001 (No.29 of 2001) in September 2001. Government's decision has been widely acclaimed and appreciated. Supreme Court has also upheld the ICWA Act, 2001. In order to provide more clarity to, and streamline certain provisions of, the said Act, the PP&R Division, after taking approval of the Cabinet, moved the ICWA (Amendment) Bill 2003 which was considered and passed by the Parliament in its Winter Session 2003. The said Bill became operational after receiving Presidential assent on 7th January 2004.

Research Section

The Research Section of the Division continued to edit and publish the Annual Report of the Ministry. The Report serves as a compendium of India's interaction with the rest of the world in the political, economic and cultural fields, including the views of the government on various facets of international relations.

The Research Section also remained seized of the depiction of India's international boundaries in foreign publications. Cases of incorrect depiction were taken up with the concerned governments or the publisher through Indian missions abroad for necessary corrective measures. The Division was also responsible for scrutinizing the depiction of India's external boundaries in the foreign publications imported into the country, and offered its advice to the Ministries dealing with the matter. It coordinated the supply of map-sheets to various Government and semi-Government agencies for use in their official work with the Survey of India and the Ministry of Defence. The Research Section dealt with requests from research scholars for access to the records of the Ministry.

As per the initiative of the Foreign Secretary, the Research Section also undertook the revival of the Monthly Summary for the Cabinet. This covers the broad spectrum of India's relations with different countries of the world during the month.

Record Management Section

There are about five lakh files, both classified and unclassified, lying in the Records Management Section of the Ministry. RM Section has been sending old files for reviewing regularly to the concerned officers/Sections/Divisions for taking a decision regarding retention or otherwise of these files. 769 files which were no longer required were destroyed by burning.

Library

To support research, the Ministry's Library has modern information technology equipment and rich resource materials, with over one hundred thousand books and a large collection of maps, microfilms and official documents. The Library receives and maintains 600 periodical titles. It has in-house computer systems with fifteen terminals/computers, including some supporting data entry and retrieval in Hindi. Library has CD-ROM work station and CD-ROM databases on foreign affairs and current affairs. The Library is also equipped with a CD-Writer, a Colour Scanner (with OCR capability as well as facility for storage and retrieval of Images), a microfilm/fiche reader printer, plain paper photocopier, as well as a VTR and colour monitor and a laser printer with Desk Top Publishing (DTP) software. This has enabled better presentation of publications and documents of the Library/Division.

Documentation/Bibliographic Services as well as other library operations and services have been computerized, using an integrated library software package. Information on all books, maps, documents and selected periodical articles received in the Library since 1986 [and pre-1986 publications in active use] are available on-line through each terminal/computer in Main Library Patiala House. Library's information databases can also be accessed on Internet by our officials both at Headquarters and in our Missions abroad on MEA Library's website: <http://mealib.nic.in>

The library's Internet facilities are being gradually made available to visiting users who include Research Scholars and former Foreign Service Officers. Library now also welcomes users to submit their reference queries while surfing Library's website or through e-mail. Answers to these queries where possible are sent through e-mail for faster response.

All new documents received in the Library – books, maps, microfilms, selected articles from periodicals – are being fed into the in-house computer system to create a database on foreign affairs. Using this database and CD-ROM Databases, the Library provides Current Awareness Service and Bibliographical and Reference Services. In addition, the Library regularly publishes:

- “Foreign Affairs Documentation Bulletin” — monthly list of selected periodical articles mostly with abstracts,
- “Recent Additions” — an annotated monthly list of publications added to the Library, and
- “Chronicle of Events”, fortnightly.

CD-ROM Publication(s)

Library in cooperation with NIC has brought out a full text CD-ROM version of Annual Reports of MEA [from 1948 to 1998-99] and Foreign Affairs Record [from 1955 to 1999 (August)]. The information on the CD can be retrieved via combination of searches including search on any given word or combination of words. This CD-ROM version was prepared based on material available as on 1 January 2000. This CD can be consulted in the main Library of the Ministry at Patiala House, New Delhi. Revised/updated version of this CD is planned to be issued next year.

Further, the MEA Library has gone in for an integrated Library management software covering all the features of Library. Built around its own centralised bibliographic database, LIBSYS follows MARC and supports both print and non-print materials. LIBSYS has different formats to describe adequately each material type using different fields with variable field lengths. It facilitates import/export of data in standard exchange format such as MARC as well as in non-MARC format. LIBSYS supports word-based free text searching using Boolean operators. LIBSYS provides online validation of input data prior to updating the database. LIBSYS assures security by allowing access only through passwords if so required.

Library users including research scholars are welcome to access the Library's website or the on-line computer-based information in the Library at Patiala House, New Delhi in different databases, including CD-ROM Databases, and the Foreign Affairs Information Retrieval System (FAIRS). Photocopying and Computer Print-out facilities are also available to all Library users including research scholars.

13. External Publicity

The External Publicity Division continued to effectively project and promote India and its viewpoint on various issues of concern through its active association with the Indian and international media including dissemination of information and publicity material through Indian missions abroad. The division assiduously worked to promote understanding of the Government's policies, the Ministry's role and India's positive image through regular press briefings, publications, audio-visual media and its website which is updated on a daily basis. Prime Minister's peace initiative with Pakistan, his visits to New York (UNGA), Russia, China, Central Asia, South-East Asia, West Asia and the Arab World, India's stand on international and cross-border terrorism, Middle East, Iraq and WTO related issues were among the main topics which found special focus of our publicity efforts.

With intense media interest in developments in Indo-Pak relations in the wake of Prime Minister's offer extending India's "hand of friendship" to Pakistan in April 2003, sustained effort was exerted to keep the media abreast of latest happenings on this front. India's peace initiatives – Prime Minister's Srinagar speech in April 2003, the 12-point proposal made in October 2003, the announcement of ceasefire along LOC, international border and Siachen in J&K by both sides in November 2003, establishment of communication links, the meetings between the leadership of the two countries on the sidelines of SAARC Summit in Islamabad in January 2004, the meeting of the Foreign Secretaries in February 2004 etc – were given wide publicity. This was also reflected in the coverage.

India's excellent relations with major countries of the world and the progress achieved by India in the domains of economy, S&T, IT, biotechnology etc. were also highlighted. The success of this approach was evident from the prominent coverage received during PM's visits abroad and India's interaction with multilateral organizations like UN, SAARC, ASEAN, ARF and EU. The assistance provided by India to Afghanistan was given wide publicity. India's stand on the Middle East and Iraq issues was appreciated especially in the Arab press.

Spokesperson's Office

The Division took a proactive stance in expounding India's foreign policies through regular and special media briefings by the Spokesperson, press releases, statements and backgrounders. Arranging media interviews with the Prime Minister, External Affairs Minister and other dignitaries, planning and managing media campaigns and developing strategies to convey Government of India's policies to the media and public, were among the other important functions in this context. The office also liaised with the press during incoming and outgoing high-level visits and managed to achieve good coverage for all events in both Indian and international media.

The Spokesperson's office kept pace with the numerous visits witnessed as a result of India's intense engagement with the international community. The Spokesperson's office used the opportunities provided by these visits to state India's positions on all issues. Around 210 press releases and statements were issued and more than 150 press briefings and media interactions were held during the period. These were circulated among the Indian and international media and Indian missions. All of them were also posted on the Ministry's website in a timely manner.

A new, better structured, comprehensive and more secure website of the Ministry, <http://meaindia.nic.in>, came into operation in August 2003. The website is updated on a real time basis (frequently several times a day) with latest press releases, briefings, statements, documents, reports, Question-Answers in Parliament, interviews and relevant articles and op-ed pieces from Indian and international press. In addition, hyperlinks are provided to websites of Indian missions, states, ministries and reputed organizations. Audio-visual material is also incorporated. The weekly MEA Newswire covering important developments of the week continued to target intellectuals, opinion-makers, think-tanks and India-watchers across the globe. The Ministry of External Affairs website proved to be a vital tool in dissemination of information by the Office of the Spokesperson and a source of information related to India and the Ministry. It consistently featured among the top 5 GOI websites with document access of over 75000 per day from both inside and outside India.

Visits by Foreign Media

External Publicity Division in coordination with Indian missions abroad facilitated the visits of more than 75 foreign journalists to India between January 2003 and March 2004. These familiarization visits by senior journalists and editors from Austria, Azerbaijan, Bhutan, Bulgaria, Cambodia, Czech Republic, Egypt, Ethiopia, Fiji, Hungary, Indonesia, Kenya, Malaysia, Mauritius, Mexico, Nepal, Russia, Senegal, South Africa, Thailand, Turkey, Hongkong, Seychelles, Trinidad & Tobago etc. were aimed at providing them a flair of modern India through visits to important institutions and cities and meetings with senior officials, intellectuals, academicians, businessmen etc. The visits had the desired effect and led to increased positive coverage of India and its achievements in reputed foreign journals.

Media Facilitation

An important role of the External Publicity Division is to provide logistical and liaison support to foreign media accompanying Heads of State/Government visiting India and Indian media delegations accompanying Prime Minister, President and Vice President on their foreign visits. The division played its role in providing accreditation facilities, access to ceremonial areas, transport, accommodation etc. and issuing media advisories to foreign and Indian media during the visits to India of Heads of State/Government of Afghanistan, Armenia, Bahrain, Bhutan, Brazil, Canada, Djibouti, France, Germany, Guyana, Iran, Israel, Lesotho, Laos, Mauritius, Mongolia, Mozambique, Namibia, Nepal, Poland, Romania, Senegal, Singapore, Slovak Republic, South Africa, Sri Lanka, Suriname and Zambia. Similar facilities were also provided to the Indian media delegations travelling abroad on VVIP visits. The Division contributed effectively by setting up media centres with Internet, telephone, fax and other facilities as also liaison with local authorities during the VVIP visits to Bulgaria, China, France, Germany, Indonesia, Myanmar, Russia, Seychelles, Sudan, Switzerland, Syria, Tajikistan, Thailand, Turkey, UAE and New York (UNGA). External Affairs Minister's visits to Australia, Bangladesh, Belgium, Botswana, Cambodia, Indonesia, Kyrgyzstan, Mauritius, Myanmar, Russia, Singapore, South Africa, Spain, Sri Lanka, Syria, Tajikistan, Tanzania, Thailand, Turkey and USA were also serviced in a similar manner. Elaborate arrangements, including transport by two chartered aeroplanes, were made for a media contingent of over 300 journalists, which covered the 12th SAARC Summit, held in Islamabad in January 2004. Assistance was also provided to Indian journalists based in foreign countries and those going abroad on special missions.

The Division provides assistance in respect of credential documents, visas, residence permits etc. to approximately 300 representatives of foreign news agencies and media organizations based in India. During the period under report, visa extension and/or accreditation facilities were extended to about 195 foreign journalists. More than 70 journalists from ethnic media from abroad were serviced during each of the 1st and 2nd Pravasi Bharatiya Divas held in New Delhi in January 2003 and January 2004.

India Perspectives

The Ministry's monthly magazine, "India Perspectives" remained the cornerstone of the Division's efforts to promote India with special emphasis on India's rich cultural heritage. The circulation of the magazine through Indian missions and posts remained largely steady at about 55000 copies per month. The magazine continued to be published in 10 different international languages chosen to give it wide reach. Besides Indian culture, conscious efforts were made to project modern India to the world audience through carefully selected articles on the impressive achievements of the Indian economy, rapid strides made by India in IT and S&T, global appeal of popular Indian films, immense potential for tourism in India etc. The articles, encompassing all facets of life in India, were illustrated by aesthetic photographs and caricatures. India's foreign policy orientations in today's world scenario were also sought to be projected in a subtle manner through the magazine. The current and old issues of India Perspectives were also made available on the website of the Ministry. Judging from the positive feedback received from Indian embassies around the world, the magazine has been able to establish a niche for itself in several countries. The January 2003 issue of India Perspectives was solely devoted to the Indian Diaspora to mark the First Pravasi Bharatiya Divas.

Audio-Visual Publicity

The commissioning and supply of documentaries, presentation/lending of old documentaries and feature films to Indian missions and foreign governments/organizations, dubbing and subtitling of films in foreign languages, procurement and supply of feature films for participation in film festivals and Indian film weeks abroad, organizing cultural publicity and exhibitions etc. are some of the major audio-visual publicity activities undertaken by the External Publicity Division.

A crisp 15-minute film, "Fulfilling the Vision", showcasing modern India and the rapid strides that the country has taken, particularly in infrastructure, space and IT over the last 5 years was produced in September 2003. The film was shown during Prime Minister's interactions worldwide and many Missions used it during the Republic Day 2004 celebrations.

Seven more documentaries were completed on a variety of themes consistent with Indian foreign policy and promotion of Indian interests. The documentaries included "Kashmir - The Land of Divine Love", "Kyrgyzstan: The Land of Manas", "Made in Bollywood", "East meets West", "Fabric of Love" "Vishwa Hindi Ka Rachna Sansar", and "Hindi Hain Hum". Proactively, films on Child Labour in India, Biotechnology and Muslim Women in India were approved to be commissioned. A 24-capsule documentary on Jammu & Kashmir and several other documentaries were also commissioned and are in various stages of completion.

Special screenings of documentary films "Kashmir - The Land of Divine Love" and "Sikkim-Treasure of the Snow" commissioned by the Ministry were organized for the diplomatic community based in New Delhi, Indian and foreign media personnel and eminent persons from the world of art and cinema. The latter also won the "Best Promotional Film" award at 50th National Film Awards 2003. The External Publicity Division actively supported the 34th International Film Festival of India and 5th Cinemaya_Festival held in New Delhi in October and July 2003 respectively. Indian feature film festivals/film weeks were organized in Chile, Egypt, France, Kenya, Maldives, Mauritius, Mongolia, Myanmar, Netherlands, Russia, Spain, UK and USA (Washington, New York, Houston) also with the support of the Division.

Documentaries and feature films were also acquired and sent to the missions for non-commercial telecast on foreign TV channels. Besides, audio-visual material in the form of telecast quality Betacam cassettes, CD-ROMs, audio and video CDs and cassettes were also supplied to the missions for libraries and presentation purposes. The material was chosen carefully to represent the diverse colours of India. Requests for sanction of audio-video equipment and other hardware like TVs, VCRs, dish antennas etc. received from missions were also processed. The Division also received about 250 documentary filming proposals from different countries. Of these, more than 200 were cleared on receipt while the rest were sent to respective ministries, states and other organizations for further processing.

Special Publications and Books

The External Publicity Division, under its ongoing scheme of supplying books for reference and presentation purposes to Indian missions, dispatched several books depending on the requirements of the Missions. A committee comprising Ministry's high-ranking officials takes the decision for purchase of these books. The Division also brings out special publications on important issues and visits. Between January 2003 and March 2004, special publications: "India: Scripting Future Histories" (in English, Italian and Urdu), "Facets of Indian Foreign Policy" (Volume I and II : A collection of External Affairs Minister's speeches/interviews/statements in Hindi and English), a brochure on Hyderabad House, "Kashmir-

The True Story" (updated version) and "Sammelan Samachar Samagra" have been brought out. For the first time in recent years, Ministry of External Affairs Diary "India 2004" was printed. 5000 copies of the diary, showing various facets of India through caricatures by cartoonist Sudhir Dar, were distributed among media personalities locally and sent to Indian Missions. A press kit for the 12th SAARC Summit in Islamabad and special publications on Prime Minister's visits to Cambodia, Singapore, Cyprus, Denmark, UK, New York and China were also published.

In addition, the Division also plans to bring out French, Spanish, Arabic, Chinese, Russian and Japanese versions of "India: Scripting Future Histories", as well as an update on Indian democracy (entitled "India: A Dynamic Democracy") and new publications on Indian Aid to Afghanistan in March 2004 and Indian elections, in April 2004.

15. Passport, Visa and Consular Services

The CPV Division of the Ministry of External Affairs through the Central Passport Organisation (CPO) and through the passport, visa and consular wings of Indian Missions and posts abroad provide a direct interface with the general public in India, with the Indian community resident abroad and with the foreign nationals. The Ministry issues passports and renders passport related services through its Passport Offices in India.

Currently there are 30 Passport Offices in India. The last one was opened in Surat in August 2003. Government has also decided to open Passport Offices in the remaining two new states i.e. Chhattisgarh and Uttranchal as well as in the city of Shimla. Arrangements for opening of these three passport offices are being worked out.

As part of Decentralisation Scheme, District Passport Cells (DPCs) have been opened at districts level where the office of the District Magistrate or Superintendent of Police receives passport applications and after scrutiny and police verification forwards them to the concerned Passport Office for issuance of passports. Currently there are about 380 DPCs covering more than half of the districts in India.

All Passport Offices, including the recently opened Passport Office in Surat, are computerized. All Passport Offices are issuing machine printed and machine readable passports.

As part of strengthening of public grievances mechanism, all Passport Offices have been instructed to set up Facilitation Counters and Help Desk to assist applicants and also to attend to any grievances/complaints promptly.

Passport Services

Decentralisation through Post Offices and District Offices

The Division aims at making the passport services easily accessible to the public by enabling them to deposit their passport applications through a wide network of offices at the District/Sub-divisional level.

District Passport Cells

Decentralisation at district level envisages acceptance of passport applications at district level through a designated office (DM or SP) in each district of the country. The designated offices function as the 'District Passport Cells' (DPCs). Under the system, the DPCs after accepting the applications get police verification carried out and send the applications with the Police Verification Reports to the concerned Passport Office. As of now, 380 DPCs are functioning in the country. Opening of DPCs has resulted in decongestion in Passport Offices to a large extent. Besides speeding up police verification process, it has also provided a great relief to the public who do not have to travel long distances to reach Passport Offices. The passport applications are also received through the network of Speed Post Centres. Currently there are about 150 such Speed Post Centres accepting Passport Applications.

Ongoing Innovations

The 'Tatkaal' Scheme for out-of-turn issue of passports has enabled the system to speedily respond to demand for issuance of passports in urgent cases. During the year 2003 a total of 1,61,216 Passports were issued under Tatkaal Scheme resulting in additional revenue of Rs.24.37crore.

Review of Passport Issue System

A Committee on 'Review of the Passport Issue System' which was set up in the Cabinet Secretariat in 2001, made various recommendations to simplify the passport issue system. A large number of recommendations have already been implemented and the remaining recommendations are being processed in consultation with the concerned agencies.

The main recommendations of the Committee relate to the decentralisation of the passport issue system at the State level through the establishment of District Passport Cells and the simplification of procedures so as to do away with the police verification requirement for applicants from certain categories.

Building Projects

The Government has taken up construction of buildings to house the Passport Offices at Bangalore, Kolkata, Lucknow, Jaipur, Bhubaneshwar. At present, Passport Office buildings at seven places (Mumbai, Cochin, Kozhikode, Ahmedabad, Hyderabad, Panaji and Patna) are owned by the Ministry of External Affairs. The building for Passport Office at Chandigarh was completed. Passport Office buildings at seven places are owned by Central Government/State Government and are rented in 18 places. The process for purchase of land at five places i.e. Thiruvananthapuram, Tiruchirapalli, Guwahati, Jammu and Jallandhar is also in progress. The Division is also trying to take a property for Passport Office Srinagar on long-term lease.

Computerisation

At present, all the 30 Passport Offices have been computerised. Websites have been established in almost all Passport Offices. Status check of passport applications through Internet is operational.

Volume of Passport Applications

During the year, a total number of 29,55,529 passports were issued and 3,28,935 miscellaneous services were rendered. While there was an increase of 10.84% in the issue of Passports, the miscellaneous service rendered registered a decrease of 5.27% in comparison to passports issued/miscellaneous services rendered during the corresponding period in the year 2002. Detailed figures of receipt of passport applications/passports issued/miscellaneous services rendered including total revenue and expenditure of passport offices are at Appendix IV.

Machine Writing of Passports

All 30 Passport Offices are issuing machine printed and machine readable passports which have the scanned photograph and signature of the applicant printed on the passports.

Scanning of Passport Files

A project to scan all passport files in Passport

Offices is currently underway and is likely to be completed by the end of 2004.

Training of the CPO Personnel

In order to improve working skills of the officials of passport offices, computer training was arranged for 328 officials of Passport Offices.

Passport Officers Conference

Passport Officers Conference was held from 27-29 January 2003. The Conference was inaugurated by External Affairs Minister, who also launched the Central Database of passport holders. The External Affairs Minister emphasized on modernization, decentralization, elimination of pendencies, speedy redressal of public grievances, proper maintenance of Passport Office premises and zero tolerance towards corruption and negligence. These also formed part of the agenda of the conference.

161 Indian Missions and Posts abroad provided visa services to 7,46,702 foreigners during the period from January, 2003 to June, 2003.

Visa related agreements

In order to strengthen friendly relations and facilitate travel between Indian and other countries, bilateral agreements on visa free travel for diplomatic and official passport holders were signed with Thailand, Chile, Armenia, Israel, Hungary, Peru, Tajikistan and Myanmar during the year 2003-04.

Consular Attestation

During the year 3,75,545 documents were accorded consular attestation in CPV Division, of which 1,70,270 were commercial documents.

Bilateral Agreements

In order to provide a legal and institutional framework to combat organised crime, international terrorism and drug trafficking, and to respond to the growing international dimensions of financial and other crime, bilateral agreements are being negotiated with several countries to provide legal underpinning to this international effort. These consular agreements include Extradition Treaties, Mutual Legal Assistance Treaties (MLATs) in Criminal Matters and Mutual Legal Assistance Treaties in Civil Matters. Extradition Treaties were signed with France, Poland, South Africa, Mauritius, Bulgaria and Tajikistan. Extradition Treaties and a MLAT in Criminal Matters were also initialled with Thailand and Belarus.

In addition, an Agreement on Combating Organised Crime and International Terrorism with Poland was signed in February 2003 and an Agreement on Mutual Protection of Classified Information with Ukraine was signed in August 2003.

During the period, official delegations visited South Africa, Belarus, Thailand and Nepal to negotiate Extradition Treaties and MLATs in Criminal Matters.

Extradition Cases and Legal Assistance

The Ministry actively pursues request for extradition and legal assistance from foreign Governments both for criminal and civil/commercial offences. The requests for extradition emanate from our obligations under the Extradition Treaties or Extradition Arrangements entered into with various countries. During the year 2003, five extradition requests from various Indian investigating agencies were forwarded to the foreign governments. During the same period India received five extradition requests from the foreign Governments. In the year 2003, two persons were extradited by the Government of India. One person was extradited to India in 2003. In the year 2003, the Government of India received 105 requests for legal assistance from the foreign Governments and 24 Indian requests for legal assistance in criminal matters were forwarded to the foreign Governments.

Vision

The Consular, Passport and Visa Division is the public face of the Ministry of External Affairs. The aim of the Ministry has been to provide citizen friendly services through the Passport Offices in India and Missions abroad. The Ministry also aimed to make the passports as secure and tamper proof as possible. In order to achieve this Ministry has gone in for:

- Modernisation- through massive computerization in order to provide speedier services to the increasing number of applicants;
- Decentralisation- by expanding the network at District level in the Indian States.
- Construction of our own Passport Office buildings to replace the rented ones.

16. Administration and Organisation

In the global arena, the areas of activity of the Ministry of External Affairs have increased over a period of time. This Ministry is actively engaged in various activities like promoting free trade areas between India and other parts of the world, extradition, security related and anti-terrorism issues, as well as on pursuing bilateral cooperation in the commercial, economic and scientific fields with US, Russia and other countries. The foreign policy pursuits and interests of India in the region and beyond have been growing steadily. Given the present pace and intensity of diplomatic activity in which India is engaged, the need for additional manpower in the Ministry of External Affairs being felt now is more acute than ever.

While delivering the Inaugural Distinguished Persons Lecture in the Foreign Service Institute in January, 2003, Shri Yashwant Sinha, External Affairs Minister had emphasized that: "As an emerging world power, 600 and odd officers are not sufficient to provide the sinews for Indian diplomacy".

With the opening of Indian Consulate General at Birgunj, the number of resident Indian Diplomatic Missions/Posts and other offices abroad increased to 162. The total strength of the Indian Foreign Service A (IFS A), Indian Foreign Service B (IFS B), Interpreter and Legal & Treaties (L&T) cadres of the Ministry is 3491 as detailed in the table at Appendix I.

Recruitments made in the Ministry in 2003-04 through Direct Recruitment (DR), Departmental Promotions (DP) and Limited Department Examinations (LDE) including the reserved vacancies, are given in the table at Appendix II. The language proficiency of the officers in the Ministry is reflected in the table given at Appendix III.

The cadre review of Indian Foreign Service, both Branch A and B, is at an advanced stage of finalisation to meet the functional requirements of the Ministry and also to improve the legitimate promotional avenues of the respective cadres.

The revised Financial Powers of Government of India's Representatives Abroad have been brought out on a CD-ROM for easy referencing by users. In its continuing efforts to provide facility to serving officers, Amendments to Para 5 of Annexure XI to IFS (PLCA) Rules were carried out to grant passage to a parent who becomes single and dependent on the officer at the time when the officer is posted abroad.

Establishment Division

The Establishment Division of the Ministry of External Affairs is a service Department administering expenditure related to Capital Outlay for purchase of properties and construction and renovation projects in India and abroad.

In addition, the Division is responsible for renting and maintenance of Ministry of External Affairs premises in India and abroad, fixation of allowances and grants and supply of office and residential equipment, furniture, art objects to Missions as well as Offices at Headquarters.

Properties for Chancery and Residences in Prague and Consul General's Residence in Chicago bought during the year.

Missions paying the high rentals have been asked to locate suitable properties for purchase and send proposals to the Ministry. A shortlist of stations have been drawn up in this regard and Missions were advised to locate appropriate properties, which could be purchased by the Ministry. Properties in Prague, Chicago and Panama were identified for this purpose. Properties in Prague and Chicago were accordingly purchased. It is proposed to set up a Cultural Centre in Washington DC and the transaction for a property which had been identified could not be completed owing to absence of local zoning laws. It is now proposed to redevelop one of our existing properties to house an auditorium and cultural centre. In September 2003 the Delegation of Financial Power Rules have been liberalized and the Ministry's financial power for such matters has been raised from Rs.5 crores to Rs.15 crores. This is expected to encourage acquisition of properties by the Ministry and our Missions/Posts have been told to send suitable purchase proposals for processing in the Ministry.

The Ministry owns seventeen plots of land in various countries abroad for which project proposals have been processed and are in various stages of planning and implementation. The Foreign Secretary heads a Monitoring Committee to review progress of project proposals.

The Ministry has a number of plots of land abroad, which have been acquired for construction of Chanceries and Residences for our Missions. During the year 2003-04 substantial progress was made to develop these plots and commence planning and construction activities in a systematic manner.

Construction of High Commissioner's Residence in Gaborone has been completed, interior decoration of the Chancery and Embassy Residence in Abu Dhabi is in progress. The rectification of defects in the IGCIC, Mauritius has been completed. Financial approvals for the construction of an Embassy Complex in Beijing, a Cultural Centre in Port of Spain and re-development of PR's Residence in Geneva have been obtained. Construction of the Muscat Embassy Complex is to commence soon, but, the Embassy Complex project in Doha, which has reached an advanced stage of planning, has been delayed in view of shifting of the venue of the diplomatic enclave. A fresh plot of land has now been allotted. Financial approvals for redevelopment project for High Commissioner's Residence in Singapore and Embassy Complex in Warsaw are awaited. Architects for projects in Abuja, Brasilia, Kathmandu, Kyiv and for 8 SAS, London property have been selected through design competitions. It is proposed to build Chanceries, Residences for Heads of Missions and other residences in Abuja and Brasilia and Chancery and Residence in Kathmandu. Design selection process for project in Dar-es-Salaam is also underway. An architect has been selected for the Moscow project and the preliminaries for getting the financial approval are being completed through Internal Finance Division of the Ministry. It is proposed to build 99 residences and a school in Moscow. Construction projects in Tashkent and Warsaw have been revived and the process of planning for getting financial approval is on. Design brief for our project in Dhaka has been finalized and architects shortlisted for the Project have been asked to submit design concept entries. Construction of a Cultural Centre in Tokyo and renovation of other properties of the Mission are at planning stage.

A residential complex in Dwarka with 231 flats has been completed and is being made available for allotment to officers and staff of the Ministry.

In India construction of a building complex for Foreign Service Institute, Hostel and Residences and headquarters for Asian-Afro Legal Consultative Organisation are at advanced stages. 19. Foreign Service Institute

The Foreign Service Institute (FSI) continued in its endeavor to train foreign diplomats from all over the world apart from training of IFS Probationers. The 2002 batch of the Indian Foreign Service completed the training at the FSI and the 2003 batch commenced their training at the FSI from January 2004. Foreign Service Institute organised thirty-second Professional Course for Foreign Diplomats (PCFD) from 13 January to 21 February 2003 in which 23 diplomats participated. In addition, two diplomats from Afghanistan and one from Israel participated in the above-mentioned PCFD in term of special agreement. The thirty-third PCFD was successfully held from 24 March to 2 May 2003. The 34th PCFD was conducted from 27 October to 5 December 2003, in which diplomats from 26 countries participated. Another Special Course for Afghan Diplomats (SCAD) was also conducted during the period from 21 July to 12 September 2003. Apart from these a special Course for Lao Diplomats (SCLD) was conducted from 15-26 December 2003.

Earlier FSI used to conduct an Orientation Course for diplomats resident in India. However, in order to also target senior-level diplomats from the capitals of major players in world affairs, and to expand India's outreach in keeping with its emerging regional and global role, it was decided to subsume the orientation course in the Advanced Course on Asia for Foreign Diplomats (ACAFD), covering Asian affairs with special references to South Asia and India.

The first ACAFD was successfully held from 15–26 September 2003 on a self-financing basis. Participants included diplomats from USA, Russia, China, Canada, Germany, Kuwait, UAE etc. Given the enthusiastic response to the course, FSI intends to conduct one such course every six months.

Also, in pursuance with the Government of India's policy to continuously develop knowledge and skills of government officials, FSI has been entrusted with the responsibility of the mid-career training of the Indian Foreign Service. Given the constraints of our officers being dispersed all over the world in different time zones, classroom kind of teaching was found unsuitable for such training. Development in Information Technology now make it possible in delivering online training programmes through a virtual campus. Accordingly FSI has recently signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with IGNOU for designing an inter/intranet-based virtual campus for the mid career programme.

Keeping in view the changing nature of diplomatic work, FSI restructured the training programme for the 2002 batch officer trainees of Indian Foreign Service, to include a two month long module on economic diplomacy consisting of the following:

- Lecture sessions on contemporary issues in the field of international trade & commerce and Indian & International economy by a pool of experts.
- One week long attachment in Bankers Training College, Mumbai on functioning of Financial Institutions.
- Six week long corporate attachment organized by Center for Public Policy, IIM Bangalore.
- One-week attachment with the Commerce Ministry.

Also, to inculcate proper communication skills, a workshop was organized with the help of our former diplomats and an expert from Indian Institute of Mass Communications.

During the year 2003, MoUs for cooperation between the FSI and the Foreign Service Institutes of Palestine, Canada and Uzbekistan were signed. Discussion were also held with delegations from the Foreign Service Institutes of South Africa, Palestine, Cuba, Canada as well as the Diplomatic Institute, Vienna on matters relating to cooperation in training and research.

Acceding to the request made by the Dean of Iraqi Foreign Ministry's Training Department, Foreign Service Institute (FSI) conducted a Special Course for Iraqi Diplomats from 19 January -12 March 2004. Initially, 15 Iraqi Diplomats joined the training. However, one Diplomat had to leave due to personal exigencies. Furthermore, 35th Professional Course for Foreign Diplomats for six weeks commenced from 8 March 2004 for participants from 24 different countries.

Furthermore, FSI was requested to give a demonstration of its distance training methodology developed to provide mid-career training to IFS officer via internet, at an International Conference of Diplomatic Training held in London from 28 January 2004. FSI's distance training methodology has been acclaimed as one of the technically most advanced methods globally and has evoked interest from a number of diplomatic training institutes in other countries. Dean (FSI) and Shri Ved Goyal of Indira Gandhi National Open University represented India at this conference which was held in London from 28-30 January 2004.

Probationers of 2002 and 2003 Batch of the IFS call on the President, March 6, 2004.

C & AG Report of Ministry of External Affairs

REVIEW OF GRANT NO. 22

Unspent Provision: The unspent Provision registered a constantly increasing trend from Rs. 116.26 crore in 1999-2000 to Rs. 136.85 crore in 2000-2001, which further increased to Rs. 258.84 crore during 2001-2002.

Schemes Affected by Unspent Provision: The main areas/schemes affected by unspent provision during 2001-02 were Embassies and Missions (Rs. 36.12 crore); Discretionary Expenditure (Rs. 54.03 crore); aid to Bhutan (Rs. 25.25 crore); Aid to Nepal (Rs. 69.47 crore); Construction-External affairs (Rs. 41.77 crore) and loans to Government of Bangladesh (Rs. 26.84 crore). This trend of large unspent provision was also persistent during previous years 1999-2001.

Surrender of Unspent Provision: while the Ministry surrendered only 33 to 51 per cent of the total unspent provision during the period 1999-2002, even these were not surrendered till the last day of the financial year except on 28.03.02 for 2001-2002.

Unrealistic Budgeting: Under 17 sub-heads there was excess provisioning leading to unspent provision ranging between 23 and 99 per cent during 2001-02. Under 7 sub-heads under-provisioning lead to excess expenditure over the original budget estimates during 2001-2002.

Injudicious re-Appropriation: In 5 cases re-appropriation of funds to sub-heads remained fully unutilised during 2001-2002. In 2 cases sub-heads from which funds were re-appropriated, ultimately ended up with excess expenditure. Similar trend in previous years 1999-01 also.

Irregular Re-Appropriation: Augmenting funds in excess of Rs. 1.00 crore through re-appropriation in a sub-head was made without approval of Secretary(Expenditure).

Rush of Expenditure: Under six major heads the expenditure incurred during March 2002 and last quarters of 2001-02 ranged between 13 to 65 per cent and 31 to 67 per cent of total expenditure under the major head respectively. Similar trend existed during 1999-2001 also.

Deficient Control by PAO: The Pay and Accounts Office of the Ministry made excess payment of Rs.50.07 crore over the available funds during 2001-02 under three sub-heads.

Unauthorised expenditure on engagement of locally recruited and contingency-paid personnel: Notwithstanding repeated audit observations and instructions issued in pursuance thereof, Missions and Posts abroad continued to violate the rules and regulations governing the employment of locally recruited personnel and staff paid form contingencies resulting in unauthorised expenditure aggregating to Rs.5.99 crore.

Avoidable additional expenditure: Non-adherence by the Indian Missions at Bratislava, Bucharest, Minsk, Moscow, Prague and Warsaw to the Ministry's specific instructions in regard to provision of air tickets to trainees nominated under the ITEC Programme resulted in an estimated additional expenditure of Rs.1.70 crore.

Avoidable additional expenditure on property purchase: Contrary to its own norms and the assurance to the Public Accounts Committee, the Ministry approved the purchase of a residential property in Budapest far in excess of the entitlement of the officer for whom it was intended and containing inessential and ostentatious facilities involving substantial additional investment and recurring expenditure on maintenance.

Avoidable expenditure on premature leasing of a temporary residence: Failure, in contravention of the Ministry's specific instructions, to synchronize the leasing of a temporary residence for the Ambassador to Spain with the renovation of the Government owned Embassy Residence resulted in avoidable expenditure of Rs.36.49 lakh.

Avoidable additional expenditure: Failure of the Indian Mission at Warsaw to entrust the painting of the exterior of the Embassy Residence to the lowest bidder resulted in avoidable additional expenditure of Rs.14.50 lakh.

Irregularities in hiring of Embassy residence and avoidable expenditure on rent: Contrary to the specific stipulation prohibiting any private understanding with landlords and in transgression of the dictates of propriety, the Mission in Algiers entered into two separate lease deeds prescribing different rents in respect of the Embassy Residence in compliance with the landlord's wishes.

(Para 4.6 of Report No.2 of 2003) Transaction Audit Observations

Recurring loss of interest attributable to deficiencies in resource management: Repeated audit observations notwithstanding, cash management by overseas Missions continuing to be deficient resulting in retention of cash balances in excess of actual requirements and consequential recurring loss of interest.

(Para 4.7 of Report No.2 of 2003) Transaction Audit Observations
